VOTE MACHINE CONTRACT UPHELD

Court Dismisses Guthrie's Suit for Injunction to Block Poole Devices

Allegheny County's $1,000,000 voting machine contract with the Poole Engineering nd Machine Company, of Baltimore, is valid, Judge Frank P. Patterson ruled today in dismissing injunction proceedings to nullify the agreement.

The court divides the costs of the case between the county and Francis S. Guthrie, who, as a taxpayer, filed suit against county officials and the Poole company.

Attorney C. F. C. Arensberg, representing Guthrie, was out of the city today, but statements by him at the hearing indicated that he would appeal to the higher courts.

The Poole company was awarded the contract August 21 by the County Commissioners at its bid of $1.120 a machine over the Automatic Voting Machine Company, of Jamestown, N. Y., which bid $1.154.82.

Guthrie attacked the contract award on the ground that the $100.000 bond required of the Poole company was inadequate and that a certificate stating where and how long the proposed machine had been in successful operation had not been submitted as required in the specifications.

Judge Patterson held that there is no legislation requiring the filing of such a certificate and that the commissioners had the right to waive this requirement in their own discretion. The contention as to alleged inadequancy of the bond, the court held was without merit.

The contract was let in good faith, there was no suggestion of fraud and the grounds put forth for setting the contract aside are "not substantial," the court held.

Judge James R. Mcfarlane previously had refused a preliminary injunction. A final hearing was then held at which the commissioners, county controller, treasurer and officials of the Poole company testified.

3 WOMEN DEAD IN HOLDUP

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—A Great Dane pitted his courage and strength in a fight against eight Chicago robbers and although defeated, the wounds he inflicted, police believed, may lead to the apprehension of the men who shot to death three women, two of them entertainers in a roadhouse.

The dog, fighting furiously, slashed at the eight invaders, but guns, blazing as the lights of the resort in suburban Summit went out, won.

Police believed they might be able to trace the bandits if they sought treatment for wounds inflicted by the dog. Their loot totaled but $200.

As one of the holdup men began pushing Henry Goetz, owner of the resort, the Great Dane leaped to the aid of his master, sinking his teeth in the man's leg, and the gunman, in sudden fright, began to fire. The next instant the place was in darkness. Panic reigned as shots flew in all directions.

When the lights were turned on again, they revealed Miss Mary Brining, 22, formerly of Champaign, Ill., and Miss Alice Ward, of Milwaukee, dead, with bullets in their backs. The life toll reached three later with the death of Miss Mary Ganey, owner of a beauty parlor, who was shot in the raid. John Gates, a waiter; Jack O'Briene and Lieut. James Micus, a railway detective, also were wounded.

Mrs. Miller Reaches Havana in 13 Hours

HAVANA, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Mrs. Keith Miller, English aviatrix piloting an Eagle plane, completed her flight from Pittsburgh to Havana in 12 hours and 50 minutes, a checkup today showed.

She arrived at 4:47 p. m. Sunday, making a perfect landing.

TWO DIE AS FORD PLANE FALLS

DETROIT, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Two men were killed here today when a Ford Company experimental airplane caught fire 800 feet in the air and crashed to the ground, pinning the two occupants in the flaming wreckage.

The dead are Myron Zeller, the pilot, and Carl Wenzel, 30, the mechanic.

The ship took off from the Ford Airport about 10 a. m. and cruised for more than two and one-half hours when two of its three motors caught fire. Zeller stayed at the controls and attempted to land the plane. Fire was streaking from all three motors when it neared the ground. As its wheels touched ground, the craft turned over. The gasoline tanks exploded and the pilot and mechanic were burned to death.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—The name of Henry G. Wasson, former Allegheny County judge, against whom disbarment proceedings were pending, was ordered stricken from the roll of attorneys of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court in accordance with a request made by himself in an order handed down per curiam at Philadelphia today. Attorney Wasson, in a formal request to the Supreme Court bench, declared:

"While not in any sense admitting charges and findings set forth in the report of the Board of Governance filed at the above number and term to which exceptions have been taken, I hereby stipulate and agree that my name shall be stricken from the roll of attorneys of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania."

The request was signed Henry G. Wasson.

POLICE HOLD 10 IN WEST END GANG KILLING

Two Girls Among Prisoners Quizzed in Shooting; Jealousy Held Motive

Three of 13 suspects arrested in the killing of Nick Barasky, alias Burkey, of Ambridge, in a gang fight in Wabash avenue last night, were released today on orders of Frank Ferris, chief of the homicide squad, as having no connection with the affair.

The men released were Robert Clements, 19, of McKees Rocks; Angelo Colangelo, 20, Churchill avenue, and Louis Carter, 19, McKees Rocks.

TWO GIRLS HELD

Two girls and eight men still are being held for questioning by the police.

A feud over a girl is Ferris's theory of the fight leading up to the killing. He said that Regino Gerez, one of those arrested, had been showering gifts on a girl to whom Baraskey had been paying attention and when they met last night the fight among friends of both parties resulted in the shooting.

William Higginson, 24, of 1116 Merchant street, Ambridge, is in Sewickley Valley Hospital with a bullet wound in the shoulder.

Ambridge police reported this morning that several of those arrested were wounded November 3 when their party in a field near an Ambridge farmhouse was dispersed by bird-shot from a farmer's shotgun.

ROUNDUP BEGUN

Following the shooting police immediately began a roundup of those they desired to question, and throughout the night the prisoners were brought to headquarters from Baden, Ambridge and McKees Rocks Other arrests are expected, detectives say.

Those detained are Miss Irene Sharkey, 17, of rear 147 Wabash

GALE IN EUROPE TAKES 7 LIVES

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—While a week-end gale howled from London to Vienna, doing considerable damage, rivers of France, Germany and Belgium rose past flood stage, threatening today to cut a muddy swath through populous industrial and farming sections.

Seven persons perished and at least 200 were injured. France had five dead and many injured; a girl was drowned in the lower Rhineland, and in Vienna one person was killed and 100 injured in an 80-mile hurricane.

Belgium appeared the greatest sufferer, with the river Scheldt bursting its dikes and flooding over rivers. Thousands left their homes and plodded to higher ground. There was considerable suffering from hunger.

LOVE BLOCKS CORONATION OF CAROL

International News Service.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 24.—Allowing love to override all other considerations, King Carol II of Rumania has installed Mme. Magda Lupescu in the royal palace here as chatelaine, it was learned from unimpeachable private sources by International News Service today.

The presence in the palace of Mme. Lupescu, who followed Carol to Rumania soon after his successful coup d'etat, furnishes the reason for the hitherto unexplained postponement of the sovereign's coronation, and may result in its abandonment altogether.

Dyeing her auburn hair black and traveling by a circuitous route, Mme. Lupescu, with whom Carol had lived for many years in exile, arrived in Rumania secretly a few days after Carol seized the Rumanian throne and demoted his son, Michael, to the role of crown prince from that of king.

DWELLS IN CHATEAU

She took up residence in a chateau not far from Bucharest and remained there during the exciting weeks which followed the coup when King Carol tried ineffectually to bring about a reconciliation with his wife, the former Princess Helen of Greece, who divorced him while he was in exile.

At that time, International News Service learned exclusively that Carol delivered an ultimatum to his divorced wife, threatening that unless she agreed to a reconciliation he would take Michael from her and set up Mme. Lupescu in the royal palace.

For a while it appeared Princess Helene would be swayed by this threat, but she remained adamant, and a few weeks ago Michael was taken from her side and placed in the Rumanian Military Academy over the protests of Helen and Carol's mother, the dowager Queen Marie.

FULFILLS ALL OF THREAT

Still Helen refused and now, according to tne information received today Carol has made good the second part of his ultimatum and taken Mme. Lupescu into the palace.

It is reported this action has shaken to some extent Carol's strong position with the people and the government. The populace was bitterly disappointed over postponement of the coronation, as it was a festivity which had been looked forward to with keen anticipation.

In this connection, a government spokesman explained some weeks ago that a formal coronation was not required under Rumanian royal law, and cited the case of a former Rumanian sovereign who had ascended the throne, but had not been crowned until many years after."

Albrecht's Wife at Home, Divorce Seen

BELGRADE, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—A dispatch from Subotica, Jugo-Slavia, says the former Irene Lelbach, wife of Archduke Albrecht, of the royal house of Hapsburg, has arrived there to reside with her parents. Her return is taken as confirmation of rumors that the couple is planning a divorce because Albrecht cannot obtain his parents' recognition of his morgantic wife.

HIGH COURT REJECTS APPEAL

Death Verdict Stands for Blonde, Dague, in Killing Of Corporal Brady Paul

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 24.—Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, sentenced to be electrocuted for murder of Corp. Brady Paul, evidenced no emotion this morning, when informed by Sheriff Frank Johnston that the Supreme Court had refused their plea for new trials.

Their actions, according to the sheriff, indicated the refusal had been expected.

New effort to save their lives was indicated when Attorney Ben Jarrett, co-counsel with Attorney Thomas W. Dickey for Irene and Dague, got in touch with them by telephone after the Supreme Court decision was announced.

By AL GOUGH,

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—The doom of Irene Schroeder and her gunman, Walter Glenn Dague apparently was sealed today by the decision of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court denying their appeal for a new trial.

In an opinion written by Justice William I. Schaffer and concurred in by the entire bench of seven justices, the plea was denied, judgment affirmed, assignments of error overruled and the record remitted to Lawrence County court for the purpose of execution.

Gov. John S. Fisher will act at an early date, it is believed, in setting the time for the sentence of death to be carried out.

CAREFUL INQUIRY

Justice Schaffer, in summing up Irene's case in the opinion, declared:

"We have painstakingly examined the appeal and the entire record. To all we have given careful thought, having in

Thieves Cut Way Through 3 Walls, Loot Only $385

Cutting their way through three partitions in adjoining buildings, thieves broke into the Yorkshire Hosiery Company store at 6111 Penn avenue, and escaped with hosiery valued at $300 and $85 in cash, according to a police report today.

East End police investigating the complaint said the thieves must have worked all day yesterday cutting their way through the wall of a building at 6109 Penn avenue, thence into 6111 Penn avenue.

Lindy, Jr., Hinders Parents' South American Tour Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., not yet a year old, may disrupt plans of his parents for a tour of South America by air.

The plans have been under discussion for nearly two years and Mrs. Lindbergh was to accompany her husband to the countries in South America he failed to visit during his air tour in 1927.

Friends of the Lindberghs here said the presence of the son probably will prevent Mrs. Lindbergh from going, if the trip is to be made this winter or next.

Lindbergh, his friends said, has engagements that will keep him in the United States for the next month or so. They do not believe he will make the trip this winter.

Edda's Father-in-Law To Be Duce's Successor

LUGANO, Switzerland, No. 24.—(AP.)—Reports reaching Italian political circles here say Premier Mussolini is momentarily expected to nominate Count Costanzo Ciano, minister of communications, as vice premier, thus indicating his successor in the event he should pass from the political scene.

Simultaneously, it is said, Count Ciano will assume the portfolios of war and navy, thus combining under himself more power than any other minister except Mussolini.

Count Ciano is the father of Count Galeazzo Ciano, now Italian consul general at Shanghai, who married the Premier's daughter, Edda.

It is recalled that Mussolini on the occasion of the last attempt made against his life told the Chamber of Deputies that all such attempts to subvert the regime would be useless, since he had already arranged for succession in his office in case an attempt against him should succeed.

REED URGES IMMIGRATION BAN TO RELIEVE UNEMPLOYMENT

HALT QUOTAS TWO YEARS HIS PLAN

Pennsylvanian to Include Filipinos in Bill to Avert Inrush of Labor

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Total suspension of all quota immigration, except immediate relatives, for a period of two years beginning July 1, next, will be proposed by Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, at the forthcoming session of Congress as a protective measure for American workmen in the current economic crises.

Although it is the most drastic immigration restriction legislation proposed in years, Senator Reed explained it is designed as an emergency measure of temporary character. He predicted the resolution will pass "almost unanimously." He said:

"I have prepared and will introduce at once a resolution to suspend all new immigration for permanent residence in the United States, except for the immediate relatives of persons now in this country, during the two fiscal years beginning July 1, 1931. If we can pass it early in the session it will become effective before July 1. As immigration visas are valid for four months, all those issued prior to the passage of the resolution would be honored as a matter of course.

"To some extent this will tend to prevent the spread of unemployment in this country. The welfare of our people must take precedence over the desire of aliens to enter the United States. Every arriving alien who comes here to earn a living in times like the present either displaces someone now at work or becomes in some degree a public charge. To permit new immigrants to enter the country at this time is unfair to both our own workers and to those who come expecting to find work.

"This is a problem that touches every American. To suspend immigration will not in any way modify the permanent solution of our immigration policy as embodied in the Immigration Act of 1924, nor weaken the national origins principle on which it is built. The present quotas would continue to govern the admission of relatives described in the present law as nonquota and quota-preference immigrants. This group includes unmarried children under 21 years of age, husbands and wives of American citizens and the parents of American citizens, subject to the general restrictions of the Immigration Act relating to illiteracy and mental, moral and physical health.

"The resolution will also exclude Filipinos for the same period; and I believe this ought to be done. It is clear that to admit unlimited numbers of Filipinos, who are entering the United States and settling on the Pacific Coast in increasing numbers, would offset all we have done and propose to do in restricting the entry of Europeans and persons from Central and South America.

"In proposing this resoltion, I am fully aware of the effective measures employed by the Department of State and the Department of Labor under the President's direction to limit new arrivals in the present emergency to those who are not likely to become public charges, but the resolution will go farther than we can go by any sort of administrative action.

"Immigration restriction fortunately is not a partisan question in the United States, and I believe that the resolution will pass almost unanimously."

per curiam order, the following was appended:

"And now, November 24, in accordance with the above stipulation that the name of Henry G. Wasson be and same hereby is stricken from the roll of attorneys of this court. And it is further ordered that his appeal to No. 319, January term, 1930, Eastern District, be and same hereby is dismissed."

Wasson's disbarment and that of Attorney George H. Calvert, whose case has not yet been heard, was asked in a petition filed November 8, 1929, by Martha K. and Blanche M. Hibbert, sisters of Mrs. Eleanor H. Davidson.

MISMANAGEMENT CHARGED

They charged gross mismanagement of the estate of Mrs. Davidson, valued at more than $3,000,000. Wasson and Calvert, in 1921, were appointed a committee for Mrs. Davidson, who was adjudged mentally incompetent to handle her affairs.

Wasson was given a hearing before a committee of the Board of Governance of the Pennsylvania Bar composed of Attorneys Thomas C. Hare, of Altoona; Arthur W. Mitchell, of Erie, and Charles F. C. Arensburg, of Pittsburgh.

Attorney W. Clyde Grubbs represented the petitioners and Attorneys Samuel McClay, John G. Frazer and Oliver K. Eaton were Wasson's counsel. Attorney W. B. McFall, Jr., appeared for the Board of Governance.

REPORT NOT UNANIMOUS

After taking voluminous testimony the committee, with Thomas C. Hare not joining in its report, recommended Wasson's disbarment. Hare, in a minority recommendation, stated that punishment less than disbarment should be meted out.

The hearing in Calvert's case was postponed until February after he signed a stipulation not to practice law until the disbarment action has been disposed of.

MACFARLANE SILENT

Presiding Judge James R. Macfarlane, of Common Pleas Court, asked as to what effect Wasson's resignation from the list of attorneys practicing before the State Supreme Court, would have on his standing in the Allegheny County courts, refused to discuss the matter.

The question was put to Judge Macfarlane as the one qualified to state what Wasson's status would be in the local courts.

ARGUMENT

Detectives said Bendetta, the Sanda girl and three other men started out for a ride and stopped in Wabash avenue to pick up Miss Sharkey. Miss Sanda had scarcely stepped away from the machine when another car, in which, police say, Barasky, Higginson and another man were riding, stopped in front of the parked machine. The occupants of the two cars became involved in an argument, apparently over the young women, police said.

Three shots were fired, and Barasky dropped to the pavement, dying.

Higginson was struck in the left shoulder. His companions dragged him into the machine and drove away. He later applied for treatment at a physician's office in Ambridge, and was sent to the hospital. A suspicious person charge has been lodged against him there. The men, with the exception of Bendetta, fled after the shooting.

PITTSBURGHERS READY TO URGE CANAL LINK

Clash With Youngstown Over Ohio River Plans Likely At Mississippi Parley

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24.—With more than 1,000 delegates from nearly every state interested in waterways present, the twelfth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association opened today. Among delegates were 50 business leaders from Pittsburgh and a delegation from Youngstown here to argue the necessity of a canal connecting the Ohio River with the North.

Early sessions today were devoted to routine business. This afternoon Frank Purnell, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, delivered the principal address of the day, followed by R. Templeton Smith, of Pittsburgh, a director of the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau.

CONTEST LIKELY

A spirited contest was expected, with Youngstown interested only in a canal connecting that city with the Ohio, while the Pittsburgh delegation will insist on necessity of connecting the river with Lake Erie.

A delegation of 29 delegates, headed by James Rae, president of the Chamber of Commerce, arrived from Pittsburgh yesterday. Additional delegates arrived today.

Yesterday afternoon was given over to conferences of delegates, at which plans were made for today's sessions.

A brief prepared by Donald O. Moore, traffic manager of the Pittsburgh chamber, was presented to the convention. It points out that the canal project to link the Ohio with Lake Erie is national and international in scope and would provide facilities for shipping 50,000,000 tons of industrial commodities yearly.

BRAY LEADS GROUP

In addition to the Pittsburgh and Youngstown delegations, there are 80 business and industrial leaders from the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango valleys of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, headed by Thomas J. Bray, retired steel magnate, and for 16 years head of the Republic Iron and Steel Company. He is now president of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shanango Rivers Improvement Association. The attitude of this group as to the northern terminus of the proposed canal is not known. Pittsburgh leaders, in close touch with the association's recent activities, doubt if it will support this city's fight for a through canal from the Ohio to the lake.

While Pittsburgh and Youngstown may disagree on the length of the canal, Moore believes the two cities would unite in working out canalization of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango rivers. The Pittsburghers will insist, however, on indorsement of the Mississippi association of the entire Lake Erie and Ohio River project.

Secretary of War Patrick Hurley will speak on "Waterways" tonight.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(Universal).—Because Gen. John J. Pershing was a "cool-headed, two-fisted fighting man," ex-Secretary of War Newton D. Baker recommended his appointment as commander of the American Expeditionary Forces.

HOOVER BOARD NEARS END OF LAW QUIZ

Completion of Prohibition Report by Jan. 1 Likely; Secrecy Still Maintained

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—The 11 members of the President's law enforcement commission hoped today they were on the last lap of an arduous and perhaps thankless task.

The group gathered after a 10-day recess for what may become the final drive in writing its prohibition report. To the conference table was brought a stack of written briefs, prepared by the members themselves during the adjournment or before. There was authority for believing these presented several different propositions, but through discussion of them the commissioners hoped to consolidate tentative conclusions on what should be done about the dry law.

TOO LATE FOR OPENING

The members will take Thanksgiving Day off, and have no present expectation of reporting by the first of the month when President Hoover submits his annual message at the opening of Congress. They are optimistic, however, about getting the job done by the end of the year.

The commission continued to employ the secrecy perfected during 17 months of prohibition investigation. Its members have displayed anxiety to be left alone, free in the delicate discussions of the final steps from any outside influence.

LA GUARDIA WARNS

However, speculation on their progress and comment on the reception this or that type of report will receive in Congress continued to surround them. Among the latest is the pronouncement of Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, that they must recommend "something constructive" or he will do his best to prevent any appropriation for their study in the general field of crime and law observance after this fiscal year. At the last session he was able for a time to block the $250,000 it needed for the present year.

ASKS DRY BOARD BE PROSECUTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—A demand that Attorney General Mitchell submit to a grand jury a charge of violation of the corrupt practices act by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibtiion and Public Morals, was made by Representative Tinkham (Rep.), Massachusetts.

In a letter to the attorney general, Tinkham said he had made the charges before the Senate Lobby Committee and that unless they were placed before a grand jury soon the statute of limitation would bar action.

Tinkham charged Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary, and Deets Pickett, research secretary of the board, distributed a circular in the 1928 campaign "for the purpose of influencing or attempting to influence the election of candidate or presidential or vice presidential electors."

He said also they had failed to make a report of the expense of distributing the circular as required under the corrupt practices act.

Weather Conditions.

Areas of low pressure overlie the Canadian Northwest, Edmonton and the lake region, a high covering the plateau and Western plains. Light rain is falling in Indiana and Michigan this morning, and light snow in the Upper lakes and the Mississippi Valley from Missouri northward to Canada. It is slightly warmer in the Ohio Valley and Tennessee and considerably colder in the Upper lakes, the Upper Mississippi Valley, the Northern plains and the North and Central Rockies.

Aviation Bulletin.

Weather will be mostly overcast over western and central portions this afternoon and over eastern portions tonight, with light rain changing to snow over central portion tonight and snow continuing this afternoon over western portions; ceilings variable, at times low for flying due to snow flurries; visibilities mostly ample except during snow flurries; winds southwesterly, becoming westerly over western portions this afternoon and over central portions tonight, and brisk; mostly light southwesterly over easterly portions; temperatures will fall over all portions of the airways tonight except east of the mountains, where there will be little change.

Hungary Confiscates New Royalist Coins

BUDAPEST, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Hungarian police today confiscated a batch of 10,000 coins bearing the portrait of Archduke Otto, Hapsburg throne pretender.

The coins were struck off by Royalist leaders in the expectation that the prince would be placed upon Hungary's vacant throne on his eighteenth birthday, celebrated last week.

ANTI-SOVIET PLOT LAID TO TROTSKY

Scheme Uncovered in South To Depose Stalin Headed By Exile, Berlin Hears

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Dispatches to the Telegraphen Union from Kovno, Lithuania, today said the Ogpu, (Soviet secret police) had discovered an elaborate plot by anti-Communist factions in South Russia with headquarters at Taganrog.

The report said the plotters were acting under the direct advice of the exiled Leon Trotsky, who was reported to be at Istanbul, with the object of overthrowing the Stalin government.

TENSION IN MOSCOW

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Passengers arriving here from Moscow on a train which left the Soviet capital late Saturday said the city's streets were quiet then. The train arrived on time.

In discussion of persistent reports from Berlin, Riga and Vienna that there had been subversive movements within the U. S. S. R., these passengers said they left Moscow with a distinct impression there might be some friction among the leaders of the Moscow government.

TENSION FELT

They felt that infernal tension in Moscow probably led the government to interrupt telephone communications with the exterior late last week. The telephone service between Warsaw and Moscow was not restored until 10:30 p. m. Sunday.

The Exchange Telegraph Company claimed to know that guards on the Russian side of the Polish frontier had been greatly strengthened, but this was denied by the Polish authorities, who said Polish frontier guards had not noticed anything abnormal.

LITVINOFF HEADS HOME

GENEVA, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, hurriedly left Geneva this morning, taking a train for Milan, where he will interview the Russian ambassador to Italy.

After a conference there he will proceed to Moscow by way of Berlin, abandoning his share in the proceedings of the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations.

At his departure he denied he leaving had anything to do with alleged disturbances in the neighborhood of Moscow and Leningrad. He repeated there had been no such disturbances.

JEWS NAMED IN PLOT

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—A dispatch from Moscow to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency said five leading Jewish Communists were involved in a plot against Joseph Stalin, head of the Communist party.

They were listed as assistants to M. Syrtov, who the correspondent said had contemplated the overthrow of Stalin. Their names were given as M. Shatzkin, leader of the Komsomol or Communist Youth Organization, Ch. Nusinov, V. Kavraisky, Helperin and Beznik.

Premier Sergei Syrtov on November 3 was removed from the presidency of the Council of People's Commissars of the Russian Socialist Federated Soviet Republic, the largest unit of the U. S. S. R.

Russia Suspends Exports of Wheat

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—The Soviet trade delegation at Hamburg today explained to the Wolff bureau that Russian wheat exports have ceased for the present, as home stocks are exhausted.

The delegation repeated official denials of trouble in Russia. It was indicated that the Russians, who recently have caused a considerable flurry on the grain market with cheap offers of wheat, are now confining themselves to trading with wheat cargoes in foreign ports or afloat.

Lingle Death Suspect On Trial Wednesday

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Frankie Foster, dapper North Side gangster, will be placed on trial for the murder of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, Wednesday morning.

Motion to place Foster on trial was made this morning by Assistant State's Attorney James McShane. Defense attorneys announced they were ready for trial.

Coolidge Indorses Addis' 'Work and Save' Panacea

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

When the International Chamber of Commerce, representing 28 countries, meets in Paris early in December for the purpose of considering remedies for the present economic condition of the world, it may well ponder the message which Sir Charles Addis, chairman of the Bank of International Settlements and director of the Bank of England, is giving to the United States. He does not believe in any magic remedy but expects the world to be restored by hard work and savings. He suggests also that the great world industries by mutual consultation substitute co-operation for conflict as has been done by the international bank for world finance.

Calvin Coolidge

This is a constructive proposal. We are dependent on foreign nations for raw materials to run our industries to the extent of about half our yearly imports of nearly $4,500,000,000. We are not self sustaining. Other countries are likewise dependent on us for raw and manufactured materials. With so many mutual complementary interests, it ought not to be difficult to promote international industrial co-operation. Our Congress has attempted to encourage such action by modifying the anti-trust laws in relation to exports. Our tariff in no way prevents co-operation.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Two Extra Beats and Lake Test Policeman's Speed

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—There may be some policemen in the United States who cover their beats by leaning over a cigar counter or chatting with the proverbial nursemaid, but Officer Fred Fondrie is not one of them.

Fondrie came panting down Sheffield avenue last night when Capt. William Bukvich stopped him and demanded an explanation for all the speed. Quoth Fondrie:

"Listen, you would run too. You have to do it to pull the boxes in time. Pat Kelly is attending a wedding tonight, so I have his beat to cover. Clarence Hudson is off too, and I'm covering his also. That makes 32 square miles—and a box in each beat to pull every hour."

Incidentally he mentioned that Wolf Lake, 4 miles wide, lay between two of his beats and that to gain time he had conceived the idea of rowing across it, instead of walking around.

Capt. Bukvich felt something ought to be done about it so he let him finish the night in his automobile.

VICTIM'S WIFE, BROTHER HELD

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—At a hearing that lasted only two minutes, Mrs. Clara Grace Prophet, 32, and her brother, Harold E. Williams, 25, were held without bail today for the action of the coroner, charged with the murder of the woman's husband, William F. Prophet, 49.

Prophet was shot to death in his bedroom last Saturday morning. His wife told police he had been attacked by an intruder, apparently a burglar. Saturday night she and her brother confessed that they had plotted to kill the husband and that Williams entered the house before dawn, attacked and shot the husband. Hatred for her husband and a desire to obtain insurance money was the motive, the police said.

Biting her lips in an apparent effort to keep from crying, Mrs. Prophet was otherwise calm as she gazed fixedly at Police Magistrate N. Edwin Indell in an uptown police station. Her brother, who ran a small farm near Philadelphia, hung his head.

District Attorney John Monaghan has announced there will be a speedy trial of the brother and sister.

Sleepwalker Kills 1, Cuts 2, With Razor

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Michael Filosa went walking in his sleep with a razor early today. When his journey was over his half brother had been slashed to death and his mother and half-sister with unconscious in their Brooklyn home with wounds.

Filosa was unable to give a coherent explanation of the tragedy, except to say he had been dreaming and did not realize what he was doing. Police said he had long been a victim of somnambulism.

J. G. Price, Former Elk Executive, Dead

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 24.—(INS.)—John G. Price, 59, former attorney general of Ohio and a past grand exalted ruler of the Elks' lodge, was dead at his home here today after a cerebral hemorrhage. Price was elected national executive of the Elks in 1924. As attorney general he served under Govs. James M. Cox (Dem.) and Harry L. Davis (Rep.)

LANDSLIDE FOR PILSUDSKI

WARSAW, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Marshal Pilsudski was master of Poland today after repeating his electoral victory of last week by routing his foes in yesterday's elections to the Senate.

A count of the vote, which was cut in half by a storm that raged throughout the day, showed that the Pilsudski bloc captured 72 of a total of 111 senate seats, as against the 46 they formerly held.

The Sentro-Left party took 15 seats, a drop of 11 seats from their former senate strength; the National Democrats got 12, a gain of three; the Christian Democrats fell from six to two; the German party won with two seats, a 50 per cent loss; and the Jews won two seats. Formerly the latter faction was not represented.

MARKHAM, RAIL PRESIDENT, DIES

ALTADENA, Cal., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Charles H. Markham, chairman of the board of the Illinois Central Railroad, died in his suburban home here early today.

Mr. Markham had been in ill health more than a year and had not been actively engaged in the duties of his position. About eight months ago he took up his residence near Los Angeles, where his son, Fred S. Markham, lives.

Prior to becoming chairman of the board, Mr. Markham, who was born in Clarksville, Tenn., in 1861, was president of the Illinois Central. He had started life railroading on a hand car and at 20 was a section hand for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad in Kansas.

Hungarian Premier's Visit Arouses Paris

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—French official circles speculated widely today on the sudden visit here of Count Bethlen, premier of Hungary. It is believed the Hungarian official journeyed to Paris to sound French government heads on treaty revisions.

Uruguayan, 117, Dies; Leaves Daughter, 80

RUTH NICHOLS LANDS IN OHIO

PORT COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Ruth Nichols, flying from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to Burbank, Cal., in an effort to establish a new transcontinental record for women fliers, arrived here at 11:55 a. m. today.

Shortly after coming down to a pretty landing, Miss Nichols had her plane inspected by local airport mechanics but temporarily postponed her take-off for the West because of unfavorable flying conditions.

She said she would probably remain here overnight and would resume her flight tomorrow, weather permitting.

Irish Leader Near Death by Assassin

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—What appeared to have been an attempt to assassinate Gen. Richard Mulcahy, minister of local government and public health, occurred here last night. The general escaped injury, but one of his guards was wounded.

The incident was shrouded in secrecy, but it is understood Gen. Mulcahy and some friends were about to enter the residence of Prof. Hayes, speaker of the Dail Eirreann, when shots were fired. Gen. Mulcahy's guard returned the fire and men were seen dashing away.

Infante Carlos Gets Spanish Army Post

MADRID, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Infante Carlos today was appointed inspector general of the Spanish army, succeeding the late Gen. Weyler.

SHORT RAIL DAY PLAN WAITS O.K.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Inaugurated by a conference of the five major brotherhoods, the campaign for a six-hour day for railway men today faced a series of conferences before its ultimate fate could be determined.

Indorsed Saturday at a meeting of the representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Order of Railway Conductors, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Switchmen's Union of North America, the proposal required approval of another meeting of the organizations' officials, augmented by a special subcommittee of 35, before it was to be submitted to railway executives. This second meeting was scheduled for Cleveland on December 4.

The preliminary step came after two weeks of discussion here and was indorsed as a means to relieve unemployment.

The Adamson law provides successive considerations of the proposition by a federal mediation board, an emergency arbitration board appointed by the President, and finally, as a last court of appeals, Congress.

Beating Kills Girl; Mother Hangs Self

BILLINGS, Mont., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Elinor Hietala, 15, died at Red Lodge last night from a skull fracture inflicted, officers say, by an iron bar in the hands of her mother, Mrs. Hilma Hietala, 55. Mrs. Hietala's body later was found hanging in a barn.

Pastor in Prayer At Wife's Grave, Falls Dead

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—The Rev. A. Judson Hughes, 75, went to Lawnside Cemetery to visit his wife's grave before leaving for California. As he knelt in prayer at the side of the grave he slumped to the ground, dead from a heart attack. The Rev. Mr. Hughes resigned his pastorate at the Chestnut Hill Baptist Church here last month and had planned to make his home with his son, Prof. Merritt Y. Hughes, of the University of California. He was formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church, Everett, Mass.

TUNNEY TRIAL SLATED AGAIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, today again was scheduled to appear in a defensive role during the hearing of Max (Boo Boo) Hoff's suit in the Supreme Court for 20 per cent of Gene's end of the Dempsey-Tunney fight in 1926.

The Philadelphia promoter bases his claim on an alleged "oral contract" similar to the one aired in court by Timothy J. Mara against Gene. Hoff maintains that on the eve of the fight he advanced Tunney $20,000 for an as yet unexplained reason. In return, he asserts, Tunney promised him 20 per cent of the championship money reverting to Gene and Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager.

TRY DONOHOE CASE WITNESS

Mrs. Helen Hess, of Masontown and Uniontown, Pa., star witness for the state in the trial of Tony Bell, who was acquitted of slaying former Fayette County Detective John Donohoe, today went on trial here in Federal Court on a charge of violating the Mann act.

Mrs. Hess is charged before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker with having transported Velma Coll, 24, of Morgantown, W. Va., from that city to Masontown.

At the time of the Bell trial, Mrs. Hess declared she was questioned by Fayette County detectives for more than 24 hours, and that tear gas bombs were exploded around her in an effort to force her to give information about the Donohoe slaying.

Aimee Back Home, Carried From Train

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, was home today after completing a trip which included visits to Panama and New York. She disembarked from an overland train at Pasadena yesterday and was carried to a waiting automobile which bore her to her home. A wheel chair bore her from the automobile to her house. Her associates said she "did not stand the trip from New York very well" and would deny herself to visitors for some time.

Mexican U. S. Envoy Home for Vacation

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Manuel Tellez, Mexican ambassador to the United States, came home for a vacation today, filled with praise for the manner in which the United States has met its economic crisis.

GUARD SEIZED IN BOMB PLOT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Traced by the number on a battery in a 200-stick dynamite bomb delivered Saturday at the Spokane, Wash., Chronicle building, Henry A. Ilse, night watchman of a San Francisco bank, was arrested here today.

Two years ago Ilse was acquitted of planting a bomb in the Spokane - Spokesman - Review Building. Both newspapers are published by W. H. Cowles, one of the directors of the Associated Press.

Admitting, police said, he "knew all about" the previous bombing, Ilse denied direct knowledge of last Saturday's attempt. He blamed both attempts on two political gangs which he said had been fighting in Spokane for years. Investigators said he hinted at plots so large that "two United States senators couldn't start an investigation."

FRANCO BREAKS JAIL IN SPAIN

MADRID, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Maj. Ramon Franco, Spain's premier aviator, who was sentenced Friday to eight months' imprisonment for alleged seditious utterances, today escaped from the cell where he had been incarcerated for more than a month.

The trans-Atlantic aviator, idol of the Spanish populace and hero of the army air service, forced a window of the old prison in which he was held, and fled between 3 a. m. and dawn.

Another aviator, Eduardo Reyes, escaped with Franco. Prison authorities said neither had been watched very closely and that both had given their word of honor not to attempt a breakaway.

Pals Wrestle, Fall 3 Stories; 1 Dies

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Henry Lubinski and Atwood Jahnnicke were bosom friends. They met in a friendly wrestling bout last night and suddenly lurched through a window, plunging three stories to the street.

They were still locked in a wrestlers' embrace when friends reached them. Lubinski was dead; Jannicke injured, probably fatally.

THANKSGIVING BIRDS ARRIVE

Thanksgiving fowls stirred activities on the Water street wharf today as 1,800 coops were unloaded from a river packet.

The shipment received on an Ohio River Transportation packet, while not as large as last year's supply, totaled 14,400 fowls, mostly turkeys. Turkeys were wholesaling between 22 and 28 cents a pound. Suckling pigs and 'possums were included for the festive board, along with a goodly supply of chickens.

FRAZER SWORN CHIEF JUSTICE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Amid a bower of flowers that gave the crowded room a festive appearance, Chief Justice Robert von Moschzisker retired from the Pennsylvania Supreme Court today. Many formalities attended the resignation—reading of Gov. John S. Fisher's acceptance of it, and the swearing in of Justice Robert Frazer, of Pittsburgh, as the new chief justice.

Judge George W. Maxey, of Scranton, then was sworn in to fill the vacancy created on the bench of the high court.

Handing down a number of decisions before formal announcement of the chief justice's resignation, the entire docket of the court was cleared, and Von Moschzisker left to his successor a clean slate without a single unfinished case or motion.

The event marked 21 years' service on the Supreme Court bench for the retiring justice. He plans to resume his legal practice.

SHIP MISSING, 50 GIVEN UP

CUXHAVEN, Germany, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Fear was entertained today that the German steamer Louise Leonhardt, from Hamburg with a cargo of potash for the United States, was lost with all hands in a gale in the Elbe estuary. She had a crew of 50.

The Louise Leonhardt became disabled and stranded on Grossvogel sandbank near the Elbe No. 1 lightship.

Lifeboats received no answer to their wireless calls and could not locate the vessel. Her displacement was 3,364 tons.

Owners of the ship, Leonhardt & Blankenberg, of Hamburg, said they considered the ship lost.

Fiance Signs Over $8,000 In Bank to Girl, Vanishes

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—A fiction-like story of how the man she was to marry signed over to her an $8,000 bank balance and then vanished, was told to police by Betty Newcomb, 21, of Newark, N. J.

The story sent detectives on a search for James Collins, 42, reputed to come of a wealthy Denver, Col., family.

Betty, a pretty divorcee, told police she met Collins about a year ago. He visited her once a week, she said, and told her his wife had died while he was with the Army in France. She learned, she said, that he had a son, James, Jr., 21, a college student in St. Louis.

Last Monday, she said, Collins asked her to marry him and she consented. On Tuesday, she told police, he took her to a New York bank and changed an $8,000 account to be both in her name and his.

Betty said he also had his will made over, naming her the sole beneficiary with the exception of $5,000 left his son. Thursday, she told police, they went to the bank, where Collins said he wanted to withdraw $5,000 for the wedding and honeymoon.

She said the cashier asked them to return in half an hour. She said they went to a furriers, where Collins proposed to buy her a fur coat. Some alterations were necessary, she said, and while she waited Collins left, presumably to buy cigarets.

He never returned, she told police, and did not return to the bank.

N. S. Star Gazers Dedicate Homemade Observatory

A complete observatory for $250.11.

The astronomical section of the Academy of Science and Art of Pittsburgh yesterday formally dedicated an observatory in the rear of the home of Thomas F. Scanlon, 106 Van Buren street, North Side. It is known as the Valley View Observatory.

The observatory itself, complete with telescope and a revolving turret and a slide opening in the roof, was built almost entirely by Leo V. Scanlon, his brother, Lawrence, and E. P. White, members of the society. They have built a telescope, capable of magnifying 250 diameters, all from scrap plumber's supplies and sheet steel.

The entire structure represents 343 hours of work, including the dome, which is of sheet aluminum. The entire turret will revolve to allow the operators a full view of the heavens.

The work on the building was done by amateurs in the science of astronomy. Even the lenses included in the telescope were made from plate glass ground into shape by hand by Leo Scanlon.

CUSTOMS SPIES NET BIG PROFIT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Informers on persons trying to smuggle diamonds and other goods into the United States are having one of their most successful business years.

The customs bureau of the treasury expects that before the end of 1930 informers will have received $300,000 for their work in tipping off the government to efforts being made to smuggle goods into this country. In 1929 the informers received $150,000 and the government recovered $600,000 through their information. Law provides the treasury may pay informers 25 per cent of what it recovers on smuggled goods.

New Golf Ball's Flight Shorter

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Duffers must reconcile themselves to less distance next year. As a sidelight of a golf tournament, pros tried out the larger and lighter ball against this year's. The average of the 10 best with the old heavier and smaller ball was 236 yards; with the new ball the average was 231.2 yards. There was no wind.

Grandmother, 51, Learns to Fly For War Duty

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. H. Foster Bain is a flying grandmother.

To be of service in case of catastrophe or war she has been taking lessons in a plane and has passed her federal tests.

SPEED ACTION ON PRICE BILL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Action on the long discussed Capper-Kelly resale price bill designed to prevent chain stores from underselling independent establishments on nationally known trade-marked commodities will be sought at the coming short session.

Representative Kelly, Republican, Pennsylvania, co-author with Senator Capper of Kansas, said he would press for early consideration.

The bill has been before the House Interstate Commerce Committee for years. Opposition has been largely based on a claim it would "foster monopolies." Its supporters contend it would put the small local dealers more nearly on a competitive basis with chain stores and other combinations.

ISLAND DISEASE U. S. CHALLENGE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—The poverty and disease prevalent in Porto Rico are a challenge to the American people, Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, chief of the military bureau, declared here.

Gen. Everson arrived by plane from Porto Rico where he made a tour of inspection. He is en route to Washington.

Conditions there are "unspeakable," he said, adding:

"Porto Rico has a large population in small area. People in such poverty as I found in various sections of the island are bound to succumb to various diseases.

"A large percentage of the babies never reach more than six or seven years, while those who survive are undernourished and easy prey to tuberculosis and other diseases."

Gov. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt were praised by Gen. Everson for their efforts to better conditions.

ERK WITHOUT OFFICE SPACE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Four newly-elected members of the House are out in the cold so far as office facilities at the Capitol are concerned.

When 13 or 14 vacant seats were filled the House Office Building became overcrowded and Superintendent Edward Brown now is searching for office space. Those without offices are Representatives Erk, of Pennsylvania; Reilly, of Wisconsin; Hogg, of West Virginia, and Dorsey, of Kentucky.

N. Y. Doubles Arrest Of Women in Decade

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Twice as many women are sent to jail in this city as 10 years ago. Pointing this out, the annual report of Richard C. Patterson, Jr., commissioner of correction, says it is possible that the comparative emancipation of women may be playing a part, or the figures may represent increased activity on the part of the police.

Dr. Curtis, Pioneer In Histology, Dies

$23,500 FIRE LOSS LAID TO LOW WATER

Three Pittsburgh District Homes Razed by Flames; Blame Blaze on Hunters

Lack of water for firefighting purposes resulted in the destruction of three homes in the Pittsburgh district early today and yesterday. The total loss amounted to $23,500, according to reports of firemen.

Fire started by an explosion, according to firemen, burned down a residence in Millvale Terrace, Shaler Township, early today.

BUILDING WATER SYSTEM

With installation of a water supply system under way, but not completed, volunteer fire companies from Bairdstown, Cherry City and Millvale were unable to save the dwelling. Firemen estimated the loss at $6,500.

While the family of Albert Tomer, of the Bellwood Plan, near the Monroeville road, Patton Township, was away from home last night, their new dwelling was destroyed by fire. The Turtle Creek fire department answered the alarm, but was unable to check the flames because of the lack of water, they said. The loss was estimated at $3,000.

The home and furnishings of Frank Brookley in Brightwood road, Bethel Township, were destroyed at a loss estimated at $12,000 yesterday when Bethel Township firemen were unable to stretch their hose to the house from the nearest fire plug. Firemen from Curry were called, but arrived too late for their additional hose to be of service. Sparks from the burning home ignited grass in adjoining fields. Several homes near Bethel road were endangered in the afternoon due to the outbreak of a large brush fire, firemen reported.

BLAME HUNTERS

Two farmhouses were threatened in a brush fire that burned 30 acres on three farms near Stoops Ferry yesterday. Hunters in the vicinity Saturday were blamed for the blaze. Twenty acres and 500 feet of fence on the Stanley Slubons farm in the Stoops Ferry road, and 10 acres in the Worst farm nearby were burned and the fences of the farm of Mrs. Johanna Swall were burned. The Swall and Worst homes were in the path of the flames. Fire Warden Edward A. Costella of Glenfield, 2 state forest guards, and 30 neighbors succeeded in extinguishing the first blaze, which was followed by a second fire which was quenched last night.

STOVE FIRES HOUSE

Fire caused by an overheated stove, according to police, caused $2,000 damage early today to the house occupied by the family of Harry Lowe, Negro, and owned by Allen Kendricks at 224 Cooper street, Aliquippa.

A brush fire in a field near Mountain and Keeling streets was fought for four hours by firemen who were compelled to lay 2,000 feet of hose late yesterday. Nearby property was threatened.

Second Death Due To Bout Reported

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—A second death due possibly, physicians said, to excitement created in Madison Square Garden Friday night during the Jimmy McLarnin-Billy Petrolle boxing bout, occured when Jesse A. Nosentoff, 50, died of heart disease.

Nosentoff came to New York from Vancouver, B. C., McLarnin's home town, to see the fight in which McLarnin took a severe beating.

BANKERS URGE LEAGUE COURT ADHERENCE

Letter Sent Hoover With One Petitioning New Move For 'Delegalizing' of War

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Many of New York's leading international bankers have their names appended to a letter to President Hoover urging prompt adherence to the International Court of the League of Nations.

This letter, made public today, by coincidence or otherwise, synchronizes with another letter to the President, requesting him to join another movement to "delegalize" war. It was considered that the two letters emanated from approximately the same sources, since many of the signers are the same.

IMMEDIATE ADHESION

The first letter asks for outright adhesion to the League Court, and expresses the belief that the "rights and safety" of the United States are amply protected under the various protocols.

The second letter, which has as its chief signer, Samuel Colcord, official League of Nations propagandist, proposes a "congress of nations" to legislate war out of existence.

Signers of the Colcord manifesto include Senator Henry J. Allen, of Kansas; Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of the Federal Council of Churches; J. C. Penney, chain store magnate; R. Fulton Cutting, president of Cooper Union; the late Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen; John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University; Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the Navy; Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and others.

PERSHING SIGNS

Dies as Top of Car Collapses in Crash

WINCHESTER, Ind., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Struck on the head when the top of the automobile in which he rode collapsed in a collision, Thomas V. Miller, prominent Muncie, Ind., criminal lawyer, died here yesterday. The accident occurred when the car driven by Herman Templin, 47, Muncie furniture salesman, struck a machine belonging to Judge A. L. Nichols, of the Indiana Appellate Court, in front of the judge's home.

BLONDE, DAGUE STOICAL AS PLEA FAILS

mind the consequences to the condemned, to ascertain whether in the proofs submitted against her, there appear the elements of murder of the first degree, warranting the punishment meted out, and also whether any reversible error occurred in the trial.

"Our conclusion is that the appellant was fairly and impartially tried; that all the elements of first degree murder were shown to be present, and that no reversible error is manifest."

The opinion expresses amazement over the circumstances of the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul on the Butler road nearly a year ago, for which crime the blonde gunwoman and her companion have been convicted and sentenced to death.

DAMATIC CASE

The opinion reads:

"The circumstances are so dramatic and unusual that they might well tax credulity if not established by unimpeached testimony, including that of the woman herself."

Irene is dscribed in the opinion as a person "self-possessed, unemotional and resourceful." A description of her acts as outlined in the testimony taken at the trial—before and after the killing; the flight with Dague into the Arizona desert country and her denial of identity following her apprehension by sheriff's posses, is given in the opinion, which continues:

"She and Dague were engaged in systematized robbery. The testimony which she gave about the various robberies indicated that she was self-possessed, unemotional and resourceful. They were carried on for what was realized from them; in certain instances she kept a record of the cash she took. The Butler robbery bears no indication whatever of an impulsively performed act; quite the contrary, it shows a prepared for and coolly executed crime.

EXCUSE REJECTED

"Every habitual criminal might excuse his wrong-doing on the ground that his impulses operate in many crimes, but society for its own protection cannot recognize such a state of mind as excusing the wrong-doer."

Attorneys Benjamin Jarrett and Thomas Dickey, counsel for the woman, cited as one of the reasons for asking a new trial the fact that Irene had been condemned as a "habitual criminal" in direct testimony of Dr. H. W. Mitchell, state psychiatrist. They also maintained that her plea of "an irresistible impulse to rob, steal and flee" constituted a defense for murder. The Supreme Court ruled emphatically against such a defense, declaring:

"The court should have told the jury that the defense of irresistible impulse is one which our law does not recognize."

The allegation of the defense that the lower court erred in refusing to hear the testimony of Sarah Muldoon, sister of Irene, in support of the irresistible impulse, also was denied. Judge R. L. Hildebrand, trial judge, also was upheld in his charge, which formed the basis of another allegation of error for the defense.

GIVEN FULL RIGHTS

In refusing the appeal, the opinion points out that Irene, in her trial, "got more than she was entitled to" in the way of defense. The opinion reads:

"Even if she did have the irresistible impulse to rob, steal and flee, it is not in any manner apparent how this impulse could be set up as an excuse for the graver crime. She is charged not wit hrobbing or stealing, but with murder."

"The defendant really got the full benefit of this defense, however, as the trial judge in his charge submitted to the jury the question of whether she was controlled by an irresistible impulse and affirmed points presented by her covering such defense. This was more than she was entitled to."

In the appeal for Dague, only one question was raised. It had to do with the admission of testimony of Sheriff Charles Wright, of Arizona, in commonwealth rebuttal, when the officer related from the witness stand certain alleged admissions of Dague while in custody in the West. The opinion states:

"The testimony was properly received.

"This testimony was offered to enable the jury to know what manner of man the defendant was, if they should find him guilty of murder in the first degree, when it came to the exercise of their discretion on the question of his punishment under the act of May 14, 1925. In charging the jury as to this evidence, the trial judge told them, that it was admitted as proper for their consideration in fixing the penalty, in case they should find the defendant guilty of murder of the first degree, but, that it was not to be considered as going to establish his guilt of the crime for which he was then being tried."

In arguing their appeal before the Supreme Court in Pittsburgh at the October term, defense counsel intimated that Corp. Paul might have been shot by his fellow officer, Patrolman Ernest Moore, who had stood immediately to the rear when they were first held at bay by Irene and Dague. Full blame for the shooting is placed on the defendants in the opinion which states:

"Part of the appellants' defense was that the bullet which killed Paul was not fired by her, but by Moore, the other officer. Passing the question whether even if she would be any the less guilty, the evidence satisfied us, as it must have the jury, that the fatal shot was fired by her."

Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, special prosecutor in the trials of the blonde and Dague, was in court when the opinion was handed down. He was to argue a case later in the day before the bench.

During the recess, he was asked concerning the court's decision, and declared:

"Justice has been done. I can express neither happiness nor sorrow over the decision. I have done my duty. I am pleased with the Supreme Court's statement 'apellant was fairly and impartially tried.'

"I feel sorry for them. They are unfortunate, but having deliberately killed an officer performing his duty, they should be punished."

Playwright, Star Actress Both on Sick List

ORANGEBURG, S. C., Nov. 24. — (AP.) — The creator of "Scarlet Sister Mary" and the actress portraying the title role in the stage version of the Pulitzer prize novel, are both on the sick list.

Ethel Barrymore, playing the principal part, was stricken ill at Detroit and was not permitted to appear in matinee and evening performance Saturday.

Mrs. Julia Peterkin, author of the book, was discharged from a local hospital after undergoing a minor operation, and returned to her home at Fort Motte, near here.

Pershing, Schacht Club Dinner Guests

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Gen. John J. Pershing will be the guest of honor tonight at a dinner of the Economic Club. Among the speakers will be Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank.

'Tiger's' Friends, Kin Visit Grave

LAROCHE-SUR-YON, France, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—The tomb of Georges Clemenceau was visited today, the anniversary of his death, by members of the former Premier's family and a few of "The Tiger's" friends.

Sun-Telegraph Doll Lady Begins Another Busy Week

Dear Little Girls:

Here we are starting another "Tickletoes" week, and from the way this wonder dolly is going in Pittsburgh, it looks as though the dollmakers will have to work day and night until Christmas to take care of every little girl who has her heart set on getting one of my favorites.

The distribution of "Tickletoes" began last week and I have already given away several hundred. Scores of little girls will be in to see me this week, having completed what I asked them to do, and they will each go home with a big, lovable "Tickletoes" in their arms.

I am making it very easy for little girls—and little boys—to get "Tickletoes." This is very evident from the unusually large number I have already given away.. The mail man is still bringing in stacks of letters and I am answering them, with the help of a lot of assistants, just as fast as I can. Here are the names of some of the little girls who have written to me during the last few days: Margaret Phipps, Alice Markus, Wilma Poslusny, Christina Joyce, Rose Guzzi, Mary Case, Leona Gloser, Amelia Mirich, Anna Jacobs, Olive Whalen, Anna Madar, Mary Paul, Mary Painter, Mary Litzinger and Bessie McCourt.

Everyone who has seen "Tickletoes" has fallen desperately in love with her. And why not? She's just a big darling, with beautiful eyes that merrily roll, a roguish smile, dimpled knees, three separate and distinct voices, she goes to sleep, plays with her toes, sucks her thumbs, clasps her hands and is gorgeously dressed in organdie.

Now if you want to know more about "Tickletoes" and want a "Tickletoes" for your very own, send the coupon to your friend, the

WILBUR DENIES 2-JOB CHARGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—An exchange of correspondence between the Poore's Legislative Service and Secretary Wilbur over the cabinet member's relationship with Stanford University since he came to Washington was made public today by the legislative service.

Charges that Secretary Wilbur had continued to draw a salary as president of the California school while serving as acting chairman of the Federal Power Commission were denied by the cabinet member along with other charges contained in a letter to him from Mercer G. Johnston, director of the legislative service.

Johnston also charged that a $20,000 to $75,000 annual salary had been voted Wilbur by "a board of trustees dominated by public utility officials and their conductors with a practical interest in the manner in which you performed your public duties."

7 FLIERS KILLED IN CRASHES

Associated Press.

Airplanes did much sky writing in several parts of the world yesterday, accompanied by considerable tragedy. Four persons were killed in the United States, three in planes and one in a glider, and three fliers were killed in South America.

An Italian hydroplane carrying seven persons, missing in the Mediterranean since Friday, was unreported and believed lost.

At Constitucion, in Santa Fe Province, Argentina, Capt. Lucio Luiraga, Capt. Horacio Vasquez and Lieut. Horacio Borda were killed as their plane crashed while they were attempting a non-stop flight from Buenos Aires to La Paz.

J. F. Requarth, a Cleveland, O., pilot, was killed when his plane crashed at Wellington, O.

Steven Benczik, 20, a Mount Union, Pa., pilot, and Jesse Crockett, 25, a mechanic, were killed in the crash of Benczik's plane on the flying field at Unionville, Mo.

Apparently losing balance while releasing the tow rope from the plane that had pulled him into the air, Brice F. Halper, 22, pitched from a glider over Eagle Airport near Waterman, Ill., and fell to death as a crowd, including his parents, watched.

RAIDERS KILL MAN, HURT WIFE

SEMINOLE, Okla., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—B. L. (Blackie) Younger, admitted bootlegger, died of gunshot wounds inflicted by Seminole County deputy sheriffs as the aftermath of a liquor raid in which Younger's wife and an officer also were wounded.

Younger's wife an arm and leg broken by the pistol fire of Deputy Sheriff Fred Hanner during the raid, was in the hospital. Deputy Sheriff Frank Loftus was stabbed in the face by Younger, but was not seriously wounded.

Pittsburgher Brings Bride From Europe

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Norman B. Obbard, associated with the American Bridge Company of Ambridge, and Mrs. Obbard arrived here from Europe in the S. S. Ausonia. Obbard, who sailed from this port four months ago was married while abroad. This is Mrs. Obbard's first visit to America. She formerly lived in Jersey Channel Islands. Mr. and Mrs. Obbard will visit here a few days before going to Pittsburgh.

POLICE SLAYERS SENTENCED

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Sentenced to long terms for the murder of the Murphy (N. C.) chief of police last month, Walter and Casey Bryson, brothers, were sped under heavy guard to the state penitentiary at Raleigh.

Judge Cameron F. McRae sentenced Walter to 30 years and Casey to 15 years after a Franklin County jury had returned a second-degree murder verdict against them at Macon yesterday for the shooting to death of Mac Carringer in a gun battle October 7.

The Brysons were brought to Asheville after the sentence was imposed. Later Judge McRae, saying he had reports of threats against the pair, telephoned Sheriff Jesse James Bailey here and advised him to remove them to the state prison quickly.

CUBA STUDENTS DESERT REVOLT

HAVANA, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Some of the university students held in jail at Matanzas, charged with participating in the disturbances which have placed part of Cuba under martial law, have moved to make peace with the government.

Fifty of them, 25 boys and 25 girls, were released from jail on $300 bail each on promising they would return to school and preach goodwill in behalf of the government.

Havana today was still without most of its Spanish-language newspapers. Last week the publishers agreed to establish a joint publication beginning today but after 90,000 copies had been run off in the plant of El Mundo, the government ordered the plan be held up.

Plan Mass Funeral For 23 Slide Victims

"I THOUGHT I'D DIE FROM SICK STOMACH—

I took several medicines but got worse. Then I took ACIDINE and within a short time I was able to get out of bed; feel fine. It worked like magic." says J. J. Jandus, Chicago, Illinois.

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money. Get it from your druggist today.

WAR VETS NAME BONUS FIGHT LEADER

Michigan Congressman Will Press for Cash Payment; Party Lines Abandoned

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE.
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Representative Robert Clancy (Rep.), of Michigan, has been selected by veterans' organizations to head the fight at the coming session of Congress for a cash payment of a soldier bonus in lieu of adjusted compensation, it became known today.

He has three bills which he will introduce. One is for the payment now of the total which the government is obligated to pay the soldiers. The others are for the payment of either 75 or 50 per cent.

FLOOD OF LETTERS

In the fight before Congress he will co-operate with Representative Wright Patman (Dem.), of Texas, sponsor of similar legislation.

Party lines are to be abolished, it was learned, and Democrats and Republicans who favor the measure are to work together. President Hoover, it is understood, will remain neutral and make no recommendation in his annual message to Congress.

In the meantime, from every congressional district in the country, members of the House and the Senate and the President are being literally swamped with letters from veterans urging that they be paid in cash now so that a sum of approximately $2,500,000,000 could be placed in circulation and a large amount of interest be saved the taxpayers. The letters state that the government could borrow the money through the issue of Treasury certificates at a comparatively low rate of interest instead of paying compound interest of 6 per cent until 1945, when the adjusted compensation certificates, or endowment policies, must be paid.

LEGION BACKS FIGHT

Under the existing law veterans are to be paid at the rate of $1 a day for each day of service in the United States and $1.25 a day for each day of foreign service, up to $500 for domestic duty and $625 for duty abroad. Instead of paying this in cash Congress enacted a law which provided that the obligation should be transferred into an endowment insurance policy to mature in 1945. A policy of $265 would amount to approximately $1,035 to be paid in 1945. The policies also have a loan value upon which much money has been borrowed.

It is estimated by actuaries at the Veterans' Bureau that there were some 3,000,000 certificates issued with a total value of $3,500,000,000. Loans of about $1,000,000,000 have been made upon these policies, leaving a total of about $2,500,000,000 which could be paid now on Treasury certificates drawing interest at about 3½ to 4 per cent, instead of paying about double the amount in 1945, with compound interest at 6 per cent.

The American Legion at its recent convention in Boston went on record in favor of the cash bonus payment and has the support of other vetersans' organizations.

LEAGUE SCORED IN FAILURE TO CURB DOPE

Geneva Inactive While Evil Grows Daily, Statement of Anti-Opium Group Charges

By KENNETH CLARK.
Universal Service.

GENEVA, Nov. 24.—While the dope evil daily grows more menacing, the League of Nations idly twiddles its thumbs.

So, in effect, charged the Anti-Opium Information Bureau here in a statement hotly criticizing the Permanent Central Opium Board.

The board, created by the Geneva opium convention, has just concluded another meeting here without taking any direct action against the dope traffickers.

TERMS DUTY UNFILLED

Members of the opium board are elected by the League of Nations Council. The United States government, denouncing the opium convention as weak and ineffective, declined to make a nomination to this board. The council, nevertheless, elected an American, Herbert J. May, of New York and Pittsburgh, who serves on the board in a private capacity.

It is the board's duty to expose those countries which are centers of the illicit dope traffic. This it has not done.

In flaying the board for not fulfilling its mission, the Anti-Opium Bureau, conducted by A. E. Blanco, a former official of the League's opium section, declared:

"The board's program shows that it has not yet realized that the problem of the illicit traffic in narcotics cannot be solved by the mere compiling of incomplete and problematic statistics.

PERIL TO LEAGUE SEEN

"Taken as a board, they cling to a narrow conception of their functions, a pedantic interpretation of the letter rather than the spirit of the Geneva convention, and this has prevented the board from approaching the problem in a practical manner.

"If the League continues to fail, public opinion—which realizes that only energetic action can help to solve the problem—will once more be deceived and i faith in the organisms of the League of Nations as effective machinery for solving the ever-growing danger of narcotics will again be shaken."

15 Trained Dogs Aid Blind Persons

HARRISBURG, Nov. 24.—Following the training of five persons to be led by guide dogs last year under the sponsorship of the State Council for the Blind, State Department of Welfare several classes have been held in neighboring states with Pennsylvania blind persons in attendance and there are now 15 of these dogs working daily in this state according to a report of S. Mervyn Sinclair, director of the State Council for the Blind.

The report shows that Pennsylvania has the highest number of dogs working, with the state of California second with 14.

Is This for Too Good Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven major helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is made for coughs from colds that hang on, for quick relief, for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is $1.25—a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known.

HOLLYWOOD AND NEW YORK CHAT COMBINED WITH LOCAL THEATER NEWS

CATS, SLAPSTICKERS AND JOE BROWN IN HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

A couple of slapstick comedians have a rowdy act of fun as the feature of the new vaudeville bill in the Harris. They start off in the aisle of the theater and end up on the stage. They bump each other about and "sock" each other with musical instruments.

The opening act is a mild display of performing cats. This is followed by chattering and singing fellow who doesn't make much of an impression. Comes next a dance trio that presents its stepping exhibition in a novel manner. Follows now the above-mentioned slapstickers with the concluding act being five girls who get acrobatic and climb trick step-ladders.

The screen has Joe E. Brown in the football comedy, "Maybe It's Love." It's an amusing picture. Its story concerns a professor's daughter who vamps last year's all-American football team into playing for her father's college. Joan Bennett is the girl.

Pets of Orphans Saved in $30,000 Home Fire

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Five hundred children in St. Vincent's Home for Children, in Upper Darby, were undisturbed while firemen fought a fire that caused damage estimated by the police at $30,000 to the institution's garage and stable. Origin of the fire was undetermined.

LEGITIMATE THEATERS HAVE FUN, MUSIC ON STAGE

The latest edition of "Artists and Models" will be revealed in the Shubert-Alvin tonight. Phil Baker and Aileen Stanley are featured.

"June Moon" plays a week's engagement in the Shubert-Alvin beginning Monday, December 1. Ring Lardner and George S. Kaufman are the authors.

Fred Stone comes to the Nixon tonight in his new musical extravaganza, "Ripples," with his two daughters, Dorothy and Paula Stone. There will be matinees Thursday (Thanksgiving Day) and Saturday.

Monday evening, December 1, the Theater Guild of New York will present a musical revue, "Garrick Gaities," in the Nixon. In it will be a local skit.

Another New York play that never reached Pittsburgh is "The Triumphant Bachelor," which the George Sharp Players will present at the Pitt, opening tonight. It is from the pen of Owen Davis. The title role is in the hands of Paul McGrath.

"She Got What She Wanted," a three-act farcical comedy by George Rosener, will be presented by the George Sharp Players in the Pitt the week of December 1.

Thanksgiving Fare $2.18 Cheaper This Year

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—The Thanksgiving dinner that cost $7.70 for a family of five last year is $2.18 cheaper now.

The New York American a year ago published a menu for Thanksgiving at a total cost of $7.70. The same menu today, the newspaper said, costs $5.52.

Will Rogers May Portray Country Doctor In Picture

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, by Consolidated Newspapers.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 24.

A story that sounds like a natural for Will Rogers is being written by Don Marquis, former New York columnist and author of "The Old Soak."

It is the tale of a country doctor, who listens to all kinds of troubles, and who dispenses advice and homey philosophy as frequently as he does pills and syrups.

Will Rogers

Rogers is slated to film this story following the completion of "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." There is no title determined upon as yet.

The cowboy comedian won much praise recently for contributing his salary for a week's personal appearances to the community chest. For the most part, Rogers has been cool to all appeals for his services in benefits.

WHO ELSE NOTED THIS?

"Harold Lloyd must have iron muscles," writes in W. P. Buckley. "During one shot when he was hanging onto the edge of the skyscraper 'Feet First,' a theater marquis below displayed the sign 'Ronald Colman in 'Raffles.' In a later scene, showing him still hanging there, the marquis read 'Eyes of the World.'"

BROOK TO GO EAST

Clive Brook will go east to play opposite the stage star in "Her Past."

The story and dialogue are by Donald Ogden Stewart, one of this department's favorite purveyors of smart comedy. Direction is to be by George Cukor and Cyril Gardner.

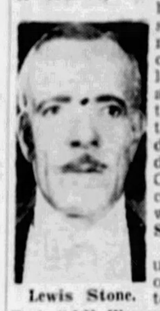
New York will see Miss Bankhead about January 13.

FILM COLOR FOR PIANO

Julie Lang, of Paramount, displays the following letter from a particularly nervy pest:

"Will you kindly send me some of your loveliest art, perhaps a portrait of Maurice Chevalier. I'm going to auction off my furniture and think the piano will move faster with a little film color."

Legitimate requests for pictures, of course, are taken care of by studios. A strange thing movie fans. They continue to write letters to stars and ask for pictures, even after the stars are dead. Letters addressed to Lon Chaney are received every week.



Lewis Stone.

STONE TO FOX

The distinguished presence of Lewis Stone is to be added to Fox's "All Women Are Bad."

This picture will be a starring picture for Edmund Lowe, and is to be Jeanette MacDonald's first opportunity under her new Fox contract.

Stone will be borrowed from M.G.M.

Loyalty Chapter To Stage Minstrels

"Darktown Follies," a minstrel show with an old-fashioned cakewalk finale, will be given tomorrow evening in the community house, North Side, by the women of Loyalty Chapter No. 343, O. E. S. The show is being directed by Mrs. P. Burgin Digby and the accompanist is Mrs. Stewart Will.

Brookline Church To Hold Bazar

The Church of the Resurrection, Creedmore avenue, Brookline, will hold a bazar in the school auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday nights for the benefit of the new church. In addition to the bazar, card games will be played. Mrs. Thomas H. Hester is general chairman.

Students at Yale Increase Earnings

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 24.—(Universal.)—Yale students working at all manner of jobs, from pallbearers to artist's model, earned $781,967 last year, according to a report of the university bureau of appointments made public today.

The earnings marked an increase of nearly $100,000 over the figures of the previous year. While the university was in session, students earned $436,851.26, and during the summer vacation they earned $345,115.86.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

(But which you knew all along!)

That Kroninger's Mid-West Review (a magazine circulated in the hinterlands) really believes that people who dwell in N. Y. hotels place their shoes outside their rooms (before retiring) to be shined. Tsk.

That the Pathfinder, says N. Y., has a "fashionable butcher shop with expensive rugs on the floor and pictures on the wall." Where?

That there are 320 farms right in New York City!

That Yale allots tickets for football games in the Bowl to graduates in order of seniority, which means that when you are about 65 you can get a pair of durats within the 25-yard lines.

That Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is a descendant of Pocahontas.

That the reason New York is a little daffy from the riveting of new skyscrapers is that welding is not permitted by the local building code, although it is permissible in about 100 other cities.

That the reporter who took a sock at the Governor of Louisiana was rewarded by his paper, which made him a columnist. He'll be sorry.

That that yarn about Thompson of Cincy being attacked by politicians and health officials for having a bathtub was a fable concocted by Henry J. Mencken, when he was doing pieces for the Evening Mail. Menk never expected that his story would be taken seriously.

That it is easier to cash a check than a $100 bill in a bank, because a number of clever counterfeits are in circ.

That the origin of kissing began between kinsmen and kinswomen in order that the former might know whether their wives or daughters had tasted wine. Oh, all right, then!

That a gal tagged Deborah Samson enlisted in the Continental Army, posing as a man under the name of Robert Shirtliffe.

That the four books which are permanent best-sellers are: The Bible, "Robinson Crusoe," "The Age of Reason" and "Black Beauty."

That Frederick the Great once came across a crowd reading a scurrilous attack upon himself. The placard had been posted high. Fred ordered the thing lowered so they could get a good look at it.

That Bobby Jones, who has been playing golf for 20 years, never developed a case of sunburn until last summer.

That no historian was ever positive that Alexander the Great is buried in the city of Alexandria. It is presumed that he is, however.

That you must get a license to own a radio in Yurrop.

That during a recent campaign in Arkansas, a candidate gave away sandwiches which poisoned 60 people. And was elected!

That among other legends during Queen Elizabeth's reign was that she was a man masquerading as a femme. Because, it is said, she had many masculine characteristics. No historian believes the story.

That the letter "J" did not appear in the King James version of the Bible as originally printed in 1611.

That some local stores advertise "Cigars for Women."

That chess was invented by the general of an army during a famine to keep the soldiers from mutiny. How can you eat chess?

That Eugene C. Grace gets only $12,500 a year as president of the Bethlehem Steel Corp., but last yr. got $1,623,753 in bonuses.

That almost nothing is known of the lives of Homer and Shakespeare. But they told us all about ourselves.

That in Paris the miniature golf courses supply the most contagious looking femme caddies. They keep your score for you, etcetra.

That waiters in N. Y. restaurants up to 25 yrs. ago had to pool their tips.

That the Senate went Repub by 1 vote. There is Repub Senator in Buffalo who had a stroke and he hasn't been sworn in yet. If he is'nt sworn in, there must be another election and the Demos may capture the Senate.

That bootleggers get around the Custom's boys by putting dummy mortgages on their boats so that they can reclaim them after seizure.

That the lion is the easiest animal to photograph, and the beaver the hardest, it taking over 6 yrs to photograph those in the Zoo.

That Maxfield Parrish was kicked out of the Philly School of Arts for scribbling on the wall. Now the authorities have painted a frame around it.

That the apple peddler, at 48th street and Broadway, recently arrived at that location in a taxicab!

And that a fur buyer named Samuel Feldman, whose hobby is stage doors, sent each girl in the new Ziegfeld show a tiny basket containing five orchids at the premiere.

St. Mary Alumni To Stage Play

St. Mary of the Mount Alumni Association will present "Green Stockings," by A. E. Thom, tonight and Wednesday evening in the school auditorium, Grandview avenue and Bigham street.

Turkish Hospital Head Visits State

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 24.—Miss Helen McKnight, Reading, Pa., superintendent of nurses at the American Hospital at Constantinople, Turkey, is spending a month at Connellsville State Hospital, where she is studying American hospital methods.

Miss McKnight will visit other hospitals before she goes to Columbia University to take up postgraduate work prior to returning to Turkey in June.

Banker Group Offers Support to Cameron

WELLSBORO, Pa., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—At a meeting of the Northern Tier Banker's Association, C. E. Bennett offered a resolution recommending that the next governor of Pennsylvania continue in office the banking commissioner, Peter Cameron. Officers elected were president, John Petersen, Elkland; vice president, Harold B. King, Austin; secretary-treasurer, Percy B. Brooks, Wellsboro.

Brandt to Tell About Westinghouse

The position of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company as a pioneer Pittsburgh industry, will be discussed by E. O. Brandt, assistant works manager of the East Pittsburgh plant, at the East Liberty branch of the Y. M. C. A. this evening. The talk will be augmented by a motion picture entitled, "Westinghouse, the Institution."

HILO VOLCANO SPOUTS LAVA

HILO, Hawaii, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Stirred by the Goddess Pelee, native Hawaiians believed, the huge volcano Kulauea erupted more violently than since it started spouting flame and lava Wednesday in its latest activity.

Fountains of lava were hurled 450 feet high in the great Halemaumau fire pot. A stream of liquid rock poured from the west side of the bowl and formed a lake of red fire.

BEAR INJURES TWO IN ZOO

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Teddy, 500-pound bear, mauled Gus Anderson and Louis Warner, employes of the city zoo. Anderson was critically injured.

The bear became enraged when Anderson, 74-year-old keeper, attempted to transfer it from one cage to another.

It flung the keeper to the floor of the cage. Warner came to the rescue and the bear turned on him. Other employes chased the bear into the open, where it fled to the woods. It was later recaptured.

TUBES TRAFFIC CHANGES URGED

Eight improvements suggested by city and county engineers for alleviation of traffic congestion and dangers in the Liberty tunnels, will be submitted to the county commissioners at their meeting tomorrow.

The improvements were formulated at a conference of the city and county engineers and were brought to the attention of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board, in a letter received last week.

The most drastic change is the elimination of all horse-drawn vehicles and other vehicles incapable of making a speed of 15 miles an hour. Another suggestion is the establishment of slow and fast traffic lanes and forbidding crossing from one lane to another.

PAUL FARM HIT BY $12,000 FIRE

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 24.—The Paul estate, a large farm owned by Mrs. Vinta Paul McGugin, mother of Corp. Brady Paul, highway patrolman slain by Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague at New Castle last December, was swept by fire last night, causing damage estimated at $12,000. The farm is located near Hickory.

A large barn, a wagon shed, spring house, two silos, crops and farm machinery were destroyed.

Mrs. McGugin, who owns the property, lives at Washington, Ia., and the tenant is Howard Phillips. The farm is known as one of the largest and most modern dairy farms in the county. The Houston fire department saved the farmhouse. The cause of the fire is unknown.

5,860 ASK JOBS AS DRY AGENTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Prohibition enforcement positions are popular nowadays.

The Civil Service Commission announced that 5,860 persons had applied for positions as prohibition agents, 681 others wanted deputy administrators' jobs and 318 sought the rating of senior prohibition investigators.

The applications came from 39 states, territories and the District of Columbia, and do not include the list of eligibles already existing in other states.

Should Congress allow the attorney general the 500 additional agents he has asked for, the commission said the positions could be filled from the examination to be held December 6.

Student Volunteers Meet at Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 24.—A three-day retreat by the student volunteer union ended here with public services in the Weynesburg Presbyterian Church. During the gathering here representatives were present from the University of Pittsburgh, West Virginia University, West Virginia Wesleyan, Fairmont State Teachers' College of Fairmont, W. Va., and Westminster College in addition to those representing Waynesburg College.

Voelpel Breaks Own Loop Record For Gliders

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Lyman Voelpel broke his own glider looping record here by doing the difficult stunt with a motorless craft 20 times en route to the earth from 4,500 feet elevation. Voelpel claimed the world record for looping gliders after looping 17 times recently at Dallas, Tex.

At the controls of the glider, Voelpel was towed to 4,500 feet by Roy Harding, flying a small biplane. After he cut loose Voelpel began looping. The twentieth loop was completed at the tree tops.

SLEEPING MAN HIT BY CAR

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 24.—Said by police to have fallen asleep on the Pittsburgh Railways Company trestle over Tyler Lake near Houston, John Wieneck, 49, a miner of Midland, was struck by an interurban car last night. He was removed to the Washington Hospital where it was said he suffered a broken right leg.

Police who questioned the man said he had been drinking and was sound asleep in the center of the tracks when hit by the car. The motorman noticed the figure on the rails and made an emergency stop in time to prevent the car from running over the sleeper.

TECH MARKS 2 DATES TUESDAY

A procession of students and faculty from the campus to the Carnegie Music Hall will open the annual Carnegie Day Exercises at the Carnegie Institute of Technology tomorrow morning. In addition to commemorating the birth of Andrew Carnegie, founder, the ceremony this year marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of classes at the institute.

The principal speaker is to be Raymond B. Fosdick, publicist and lawyer and a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the American Institute of International Law and the National Institute of Social Science. During the war Fosdick served as civilian aide to Gen. John J. Pershing and later as undersecretary of the League of Nations.

Prisoners Grow Forest Seedlings

HARRISBURG, Nov. 24.—More than 1,000,000 forest tree seedlings will be shipped from the nursery of the Western State Penitentiary next spring to fill orders already filed, according to a report of the division of prison labor, State Department of Welfare. Many of these orders will go to outside states.

The report indicates that 34,000 trees were recently shipped to Connecticut and that 400,000 2-year-old seedlings of white and Norway spruce will be ready for order next spring.

Some businesses think it's good business to boost prices just before a special holiday demand. Not A&P. Our policy is just the opposite. We have found that it's better business to give women what they want when they want it at the lowest price that is humanly possible. That is why, in A&P stores, you will find holiday goods at special prices in holiday seasons. That is why now, just before Thanksgiving, A&P stores offer for sale well fed, well bred, plump, juicy, mouth-watering turkeys at the lowest price that is economically possible. Don't think we are noble. We make no claims to altruism. A&P knows that it is bad business to gouge the public.

We suggest that you place your order NOW—at your nearest A&P Store or Market for your THANKSGIVING TURKEY.

No Secret Here

A simple explanation of great success

A well known author is writing a story about A&P. "What," he has asked repeatedly, "is the secret of A&P's success? Why is it the largest grocer in the world?"

At first he was disappointed and puzzled. For he found no secret, no key to success. He had expected to solve a mystery, to discover a magic formula. He found, simply, an organization of wide-awake men hard at work.

After a few weeks' study, he has forgotten all about secrets of success, and he is no longer puzzled. But he is amazed at how much can be accomplished when great numbers of men work together with a common purpose. His will not be a new story. Real success comes only to those who believe in what they're doing—and do it.

All A&P men believe that good food should be sold at low prices—and you'd be surprised to know how simple it is when they all work together.

MUSMANNO BILL SCORES MINE GUARD PLAN

Tells McKees Rocks Meeting Of Aim to Abolish System; Cites Poll of States

Reiterating his intention of trying to abolish the present system of coal and iron police, Representative M. A. Musmanno in an address yesterday charged that Pennsylvania is "the only state that commissions private officers and gives them police power which they may wield in any part of the state and on any subject."

MAKES POLL OF STATES

He based this statement on a poll he made of the attorney generals of every state. The answer proved, Musmanno said:

"While a few of the states do permit special police for certain duties, there is no state which hands out its sovereign power with the lavishness of Pennsylvania. I am preparing a bill which will take Pennsylvania out of the category of states selling its sovereign power for a price."

M'KEES ROCKS MEETING

Most of the answers, according to the speaker, who was addressing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen in Fraternal Hall, McKees Rocks, expressed amazement at the manner in which Pennsylvania sold its police authority to private corporations. Such large industrial states as Illinois, Massachusetts and New York have no industrial police, he reported. He said:

"The 1931 Legislature must wipe off the statute books the industrial police law passed in 1929. It does not change the admittedly nefarious coal and iron police system one iota. The men employed under its provisions are still private police holding public power, they are still private police paid by private employers who are not responsible for their conduct, they are still armed police capable of powers of destruction without any effectual check. They can still arrest and take to private barracks their victims and there beat and torture them as they did Barcoski."

LIMIT JURISDICTIONS

Corporations have a right to protection, Musmanno told his hearers, adding:

"There should be no legislation which will invite sabotage, but there should also be no legislation which will invite trampling on the rights of humanity."

The speaker reported the answers received in his poll showed the few states that authorize industrial police of any kind prohibit their operation off the property owned by the companies.

PASTOR TALKS ON PROSPERITY

Speaking on prosperity in his Thanksgiving sermon yesterday morning in the North Ten Mile Baptist Church, near Washington, Pa., the Rev. Stewart M. Smith said:

"Prosperity is ours. Ask and it shall be given. We can never receive good while expecting evil, and we cannot demonstrate prosperity while talking depression. The short cut to prosperity is to live it.

"While the true welfare of mankind is inward and spiritual, it ought to show outward and visible effects. Although man does not live by bread alone, neither does he live by faith alone—he lives by faith in the right use of bread."

Mother of Twelve Regains Health

Salem woman gives credit to Vegetable Compound

HAWTHORNE'S House of Seven Gables is situated at the end of Turner Street overlooking Salem harbor. This historic neighborhood is now a Polish-American district. At 15 Turner St. live Mr. & Mrs. R. J. Kulakowski and their twelve healthy, happy children.

"But we weren't always happy," Mr. Kulakowski confided. "My wife was ailing for five years. First she seemed just tired and run down. Then she got weaker and weaker and became so crippled that we had to carry her from room to room. When I came home from work, I would find her crawling on her hands and knees. I was a motorman then on the Salem to Boston cars. One day I was telling my conductor about my wife and he suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Said it had helped his sister. Well, I got a bottle and she started taking it. We kept on until she took about eight bottles in all. By that time she was up on her feet and doing her work."

Mrs. Kulakowski's twelfth child was born on Easter Monday. "I have never lost a child," she says, "and none of them has ever been seriously ill. My oldest daughter is now in her teens, and I am giving her the Vegetable Compound, too."

AUTO CLUB SET FOR SNOW DATA

Accurate information regarding snow removal and condition of highways will be furnished automobile drivers this winter through an arrangement between the State Highway Department and the touring department of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, L. L. Roth, manager of the bureau, announced.

Telephone and telegraph reports will be received by the bureau at least once a day regarding main highways of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, Roth said. More frequent contacts with snow removal crews will be made during storms and when heavy snowfall is reported. The bureau will be open day and night, Sundays and holidays. An attendant is always ready to give information without charge.

2 Church Societies Confer at Dinner

A dinner conference will be held in the McClure Avenue Presbyterian Church tomorrow night by the Harbison Society and the Westminster Guild of the church. Miss Rosella Conick and Miss Clara Weir will discuss "India on the March."

SIDEWALKS —of— PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

For 22 years, Bill Fairman, of Knoxville, who used to be a semi-pro ball player and a prize fighter, has been sitting at a desk in the big assignment room of Criminal Court and copying this complicated message:

William Pfarr

"And now, Oct. ——, defendant pleads con colet de hoc. EO DIE. District Attorney —— similiter issue joined EO DIE. A jury called. There came 12 good and lawful jurors who upon their solemn oaths respectfully do say that they do firs. the defendant (guilty) (not guilty)."

Fairman is the court's minute clerk. He has known all the judges of the last 20 years. His favorite was the late Judge Cohen. His records, as you have guessed, the verdicts in all cases in which the defendant pleads not guilty. He also records the guilty pleas, but he uses a different report than the one we quoted. Probably you wouldn't be interested in that.

Fairman was in the assignment room the day a husky colored man was arraigned on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Judge Kline, now the Mayor, was on the bench.

"Yo' Honor," pleaded the defendant's lawyer, also a Negro, "mah client was carrying a revolver, but 'twas a small one, a very small one."

At that moment the prosecuting policeman lifted "the small one" from his coat—a weapon as long, it seemed, as Penn avenue.

"That," spoke up Judge Kline after one glance, "should be on wheels."

"Willie," the lawyer turned to his client, "you have misinformed yo' lawyer."

Lew Joseph, of the Nixon Theater, or Al Schrag, of Forbes Field, will tell you that a good ticket seller does more than merely sell you a ticket. One of the tricks of the trade is to "dress the house."

You dress a house when you try to make it appear filled with customers when it is really only half-capacity, or three-quarters. A theater is the ideal house to dress. A good ticket seller can so distribute the customers that they'll all go home telling the family that the play and the theater are doing big business.

Schrag has been peddling pasteboards at Forbes Field since 1919. For several years he worked the window at Motor Square Garden. Probably there is no ticket window in town at which he couldn't go to work with confidence.

In fact, there is a small group of such ticket men—Jim Kenny, Joe Dolan, Al Myers and Norman (Hump) Ritchie. When a ticket seller is needed at the Stadium, or anywhere, the officials know they can call upon any of these at a minute's notice. A rack of tickets to a layman would present a problem, but to these men it is apple pie, or any kind of pie.

Shrag reports that the customers don't forget their change these days as readily as once they did. In fact, there are a few who have reversed the situation by trying to outwit the seller. They present two bills, one for the tickets and one which they asked to be changed. In the confusion they hope to slide away from the window into the crowd with too much money.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 24.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

About all we get of our Sunday papers is Saturday's auto casualties and the football scores. That's two things that the panic didn't hurt.

Will Rogers

No matter how hard times are you can always get hit with an automobile and always find money enough to attend a football game. Football should prosper. It has given more employment to the young men of this country than any other industry. Everybody felt that sooner or later Yale or Harvard, one would win a game and one of 'em did, but they had to play each other to do it and they played to 80,000, which shows it ain't football people want. It's just to tell about it afterwards. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

While others wait outside, these men eat their thick bread, hot soup, coffee and apples from clean, rough tables. Tiny glasses of flowers make a determined effort to brighten up their plain room and their hard lives. True thankfulness is theirs.

SWISSVALE GRID TILT AIDS NEEDY

Swissvale police and firemen plan to make Thanksgiving a day of real rejoicing in the borough next Thursday.

After practicing football plays and signals under Police Chief William Campbell and Fire Chief P. J. McGurk, they plan to line up Turkey Day afternoon against the Swissvale Quakers, the proceeds to be devoted for the benefit of Swissvale needy. The contest is to be waged on the Swissvale High School gridiron, Schoyer avenue.

RAIDERS TRAP 5 IN M'KEESPORT

Carting five gallons of alleged moonshine whisky, Tony Bazzone, 19, of 534½ Evans avenue, McKeesport, arrived at the home of Mary Rose, 33, of 1026 Ross street, McKeesport, just in time to get arrested, police said today.

Bazzone reached the woman's residence while it was being raided by police under Lieut. Samuel Mermelstein. The woman and Bazzone were held as suspicious persons, while two men and another woman were charged with visiting a disorderly house.

Duquesne Man Dies After Fall on Stairs

A fall down the cellar stairway in his home yesterday resulted in the death a short time later of Nicholas E. Buchleitner, 53, of North Fourth street, Duquesne, according to a morgue report.

PITTSBURGHERS ASK PARDONS

Among numerous Pittsburghers, sentenced for various crimes, who have appealed to the State Board of Pardons at Harrisburg for freedom with the hope of spending Christmas with their families, is Charles E. Scherer, condemned in 1919 to death in the electric chair for killing his wife. Scherer's sentence was later commuted to life imprisonment.

Another applicant for a pardon is Charles F. Golden, former Pittsburgh fire captain, who, although having completed his sentence for election fraud at the 1926 primary, wants a pardon in order to reenter the fire department.

Others from Allegheny County include Bernard Harris, robbery and receiving stolen goods; John Gergurich, morality charge; Harry Frank, conspiracy to commit arson; H. Clifton Payne, embezzlement; Sam Koneski and Fred Simonetti, voluntary manslaughter, and George Dehl and Nathaniel Yansen, assault.

Allied Trade Boards Hear Reports Today

Reports of delegates of member organizations will be submitted at a meeting of the Allied Boards of Trades in the Congress of Clubs Wednesday night. Executive Director Arthur V. Snell will preside.

Confection Store Damaged by Fire

The confectionery store of I. Hammond, 1517 Sedgwick street, was damaged $50 early today by fire. The cause of the fire was undetermined. Hammond and his family occupy the second floor of the building.

Athlete Seizes Robber's Gun And Coat

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—A holdup man's revolver and his overcoat were added to the souvenirs of Wilbur Black, 18-year-old athlete and sergeant of the Boys' Brigade, a local military order. While on their way to a motion picture entertainment, the youth and his sister were accosted by the holdup man who held his coat on his arm shielding a gun. The young man grappled with his assailant and succeeded in snatching both the coat and gun.

AIR LINE TO CUT FARE DEC. 1

Beginning December 1, when air mail schedule planes will start to carry passengers, the passenger fares on the Pennsylvania Air Lines will be reduced 10 per cent, Clifford Ball, vice president, has announced. The fares under the new rate will be: To Washington, $19.20; to Cleveland, $9.80; to Detroit, $19.80, and to Chicago, $35.80.

ROBBERS BUSY ALL OVER CITY

Confronted by three armed youths as he was leaving his garage after putting his car away, William Lighter, of 5436 Jackson street, was robbed of a $15 watch and $6 early today. They fled in an automobile.

Hurling a brick through a show window in Hill's Clothing store, 518 Wood street, a robber early today stole an overcoat valued at $45.

Ten pints of prescription whisky, cigarets and $18 in cash were stolen from Thompson's Drug Store, 1498 Duss avenue, Ambridge, early yesterday. The same thieves are blamed for looting of the Duymeyer Drug Company at Baden.

More than $1,800 in loot was obtained by sneak thieves and holdup men in robberies over the week end. Mrs. Anne Crawford, 37, of 701 Reedsdale street, told police she was dragged into an automobile by two men at Scotland and Reedsdale streets, and, after being forced to drink something, was robbed of $75. She said she was put out of the car in Penn avenue.

A robber obtained $100 in holding up the Mary Lee Candy Shop, 425 Smithfield street, Saturday night, after threatening Mrs. J. M. Downey, the clerk, with a re-

TWO STABBED, SHOT IN FIGHT

Two Negroes were in serious condition in the West Penn Hospital today as a result of a shooting and stabbing affray in the home of Mrs. Lulu Miller, a Negro, at 3209 Penn avenue, early yesterday, according to police.

Mrs. Miller, separated from her husband, Berg, 31, of Penn avenue, near Twenty-seventh street, told police she fled from her home when her husband walked in and threatened to shoot her. Miller, police say, then went to the room of Martin Durden, 26, a Negro, and stabbed him with an icepick. Although wounded, Durden shot Miller in the right side with a revolver, then seized the icepick and stabbed him several times, police reported.

At the hospital Miller was said to have accused Durden of keeping company with Mrs. Miller.

Shadyside Church Honors Missionary

Dr. Edward A. O'Dell, of New York, will be honored at a dinner tendered by the Women's Missionary Society and the Men's Club of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church tomorrow night. Mr. O'Dell, general director of Presbyterian work in the West Indies, will speak on "An Evening in the West Indies."

Boy, 11, Raises Cash for Needy Families

An energetic free-lance worker for the Welfare Fund is Robert Nellis, 11, of 91 Climax street, South Hills, who today turned in $3.55 for needy families, it being the proceeds of a prize drawing for a face towel donated to him by one of his neighbors. All the folks in the neighborhood bought tickets and netted Robert a tidy sum.

Robert is a son of City Weighmaster James M. Nellis, who years ago was the well known sports editor of the old Pittsburgh Gazette. The boy came back to a newspaper office with his cash and turned it over to Mrs. M. M. Deasy, captain of the Sun-Telegraph unit, to be recorded in the day's contributions to the Welfare Fund.

DISTRICT BOARD HEARINGS SET

Five meetings are to be held during the next two weeks by the Redistricting Commission of Allegheny County. Tomorrow night the commission will hear residents of Plum, Patton and Penn townships at a meeting in the North Bessemer School, Unity. Friday night there will be a meeting in the Warrendale School, Warrendale, to hear residents of Bradford Woods Borough and Richland, Marshall and Pine townships.

Sipe to be Speaker At History Meeting

Attorney C. Hale Sipe will speak tomorrow night at the meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Historical Society in Historical Hall. His subject will be "The Pennsylvania-German Pioneer in Western Pennsylvania."

WELFARE DRIVE NEEDS $359,701

With an additional $139,269 subscribed this morning the 8,000 volunteer workers of the Welfare Fund still are $359,701 short of their 1930 quota. The amount brings the total subscriptions to $1,160,547.

This afternoon and tomorrow, the closing day of the campaign, the workers will make a concentrated effort to raise the remaining funds. The campaign will close tomorrow night with dinner in Hotel William Penn.

In a final appeal, officials of the fund point out that they are not seeking cash contributions, but pledges which can be paid a little at a time over a period of a year.

A. K. Oliver, president of the fund, appealed to residents to consider the money spent on luxuries and amusements which, he declared, if spent properly for nourishment, could keep many families from starvation. He said:

"Stop a moment and see what you pay out in a day for luxuries which could easily be dispensed with. Then decide what you can do without for a week or two—and you will discover you have paid out enough possibly to buy a day's meals for the family of someone who cannot find a job."

Settlement Offers Star Follies Cast

Four-year-old George Stockum, winner of the entertainer competition in the Enright Theater, October 30, and luminaries of the stage and radio world took part in the Follies presented by the Irene Kaufmann Settlement last night. Sidney Lindenberg and Barry Feinstein were masters of ceremonies. The cast included Mitzi Pales, Isabelle Feld, Al Garvin and Louis Calig.

Socialists at Rally Here Tell Legislative Plans

Darlington Hoopes and Miss Lilith Wilson, two Socialist members of the legislature from Reading, addressed members of the Allegheny County Socialist organization at a dinner in the International Socialist Lyceum, James street, North Side, last night. Prof. Maynard Krueger of the University of Pennsylvania, and William J. Van Essen, defeated Socialist candidate for United States Senate, also spoke.

Both the legislators said they would begin a program aiming toward betterment of working conditions in the state. Hoops declared he would work for a constitutional amendment for old age pensions, an unemployment insurance bill, an all-inclusive occupational disease compensation measure, and the repeal of the Flynn anti-sedition act.

He also declared he would work for abolition of the coal and iron police and restriction of state police powers. Hoops criticized Pittsburgh police for the arrest of James H. Maurer, Socialist candidate for governor, when Maurer attempted to speak at an unauthorized political meeting in front of the City-County Building here.

Miss Wilson declared the Socialist victories in Reading were victories for the Socialist party as a whole.

Prof. Kreuger said there was need of whole-hearted co-operation with the Socialist legislators. Van Essen answered Prof. Kreuger by pledging the assistance of local Socialists.

Black-Clad Widow Denies Guilt in Court Slaying

Mrs. Clara Paulscak, 24, of 26 Gazzam street, today pleaded not guilty when arraigned on a charge of murdering her husband, Stephen Paulscak, whom she shot in the offices of Desertion and Non-Support Court last August 27.

Dressed in black, Mrs. Paulscak spoke in a hardly audible voice as she said "Not guilty." She appeared extremely nervous, and after answering the question how she would be tried, partially collapsed in her chair. She was given aid by court attaches.

Visiting Judge J. M. Barnett, of the Perry-Juniata district, is presiding. Earl R. Adair, assistant district attorney, is the prosecutor, and Attorneys E. G. Coll and David Silverblatt are acting for the defense.

Mrs. Paulscak had brought her husband into Desertion Court when he failed to pay maintenance funds after their separation. At the time of the shooting it was indicated she desired a reconciliation and made such a plea to her husband in the court offices. When he refused to return to her, it is alleged she pulled a gun from her purse and shot him. Paulscak died the following day. It was expected most of the day would be taken in selection of a jury.

ONE DEAD, 6 HURT IN WEEK-END AUTO ACCIDENTS

FRANK DIEBOLD, LUMBER MAN'S SON, KILLED

Crashes With Trolley Car; Father, 2 Sons Injured by Colliding With Pole

Automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district over the week-end brought a toll of one dead and six injured.

Frank Diebold, 27, of the King Edward Apartments, Oakland, died last night in Mercy Hospital from injuries suffered when his automobile collided head-on with a trolley car at Center avenue and Reed street early yesterday. The trolley was said to have been operated by J. Godgy, of 5914 Rural street.

Diebold was the son of E. M. Diebold, president of the Diebold Lumber Company.

FATHER, SONS HURT

A man and his two sons were injured when an automobile driven by the father crashed against a pole at Chislett and Bryant streets yesterday. They were taken to Pittsburgh Hospital, and registered as Walter Tserge, 50, of 1616 Villa Nova road, and his sons, Walter, Jr., 14, and Robert, 11.

Struck by an automobile while attempting to cross Bigelow boulevard at Washington street Saturday night, Miss Pauline Eyer, 18, a student nurse at Mayview Hospital, suffered a probable skull fracture. Miss Eyer is in Mercy Hospital. Police said they arrested Arthur Jones, 24, of 310 Midland avenue, Carnegie, as driver of the car.

BOY, 8, RUN DOWN

Robert Barr, 30, of the Canterberry Apartments, Ellsworth and Maryland avenues, was treated in Pittsburgh Hospital after being struck by a machine at Fifth and Penn avenues last night. He suffered bruises.

Struck by an automobile in Fifth avenue, near Market street, McKeesport, August Ruby, 8, of 202 Second street, McKeesport, was in a critical condition today in McKeesport Hospital. Police said the car was driven by Joseph Olesko, Jr., of 801 Soles street, McKeesport.

Miss Betty Konkle, aged 26, giving her address as the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg, and Miss Gertrude Gibson, 21, of 115 Flavel street, were cut and bruised early today when their automobile, driven by Miss Konkle, struck the machine of Philip Lang, of 1015 East Ohio street, in front of Lang's home when he was backing the car into the street. The women were treated in Presbyterian Hospital.

Woman Arrested For Trying Suicide

Accused of having attempted to end her life in her home early today by swallowing poison, Mrs. Anna Hoover, 23, of 11 Federal street, was scheduled for a hearing in police court on a disorderly conduct charge.

Her husband, William, notified police his wife had taken poison. She was treated in Allegheny General Hospital and was arrested. Police say the couple had been quarreling.

Players Dash Into Crowd, Boy Injured

Injured when players of the Duquesne Juniors and the Port Vue Quaker Juniors crashed into spectators during a football game, Stanley Hocko, 7, of 1704 Liberty way, Port Vue, today was in the McKeesport Hospital. He suffered a fractured leg, according to a hospital report.

SILK HEIRESS TO WED COUNT

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Newspapers said today that Mrs. Laura Kayser Bayer, widow of Edwin S. Bayer, wealthy silk manufacturer, would marry Count Antoine Sala, former French diplomat, in January.

Count Sala, an art dealer, said the ceremony would be in London. Mrs. Bayer will sail January 13 and the Count on the preceding day.

Count Sala was at one time connected with the French embassy in Washington. Mrs. Bayer is the daughter of the late Julius Kayser, who founded the firm which her husband headed. Both are 56 years old.

Scaife's Auto Hit By Trolley, Damaged

An automobile owned by J. Verner Scaife, 5452 Aylesboro avenue, and driven by his chauffeur, Paul Anderson, 134 South St. Clair street, was badly damaged this morning when struck by a street car in Forbes street, near Wightman. According to a police report, Anderson attempted to pass the car on the left side and cut in front of it too quickly.

Typical American Flapper Proves Polish Girl

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Millicent Green, actress, is back from London after a great laugh at British dramatic critics, who praised her as "a typical American flapper." Her real name is Manya Grynszpan. She was born in Poland, but is to seek naturalization.

MAN, 75, BEATS FRIEND, 93

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—A 93-year-old man stepped on the foot of a 75-year-old man and that started trouble.

It happened three weeks ago and since then they had exchanged heated words but nothing more. Now the incident has blossomed into something else.

As a result, Henry Myer, the 93-year-old, went to the hospital, and William Samuel Walker, the 75-year-old, went to jail.

Walker said he was on the second floor of the rooming house where both men lived when Myer advanced up the stairs toward him brandishing a stick in a threatening manner. In self-defense, he said, he yanked an iron rod off a hat rack and felled Myer with a blow on the head. Up until three weeks ago they had been friends of long standing.

JAPANESE FETE WOMAN FLIER

TOKYO, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Victor Bruce, escorted by several Japanese airplanes, landed today at Tachikwa airdrome from Osaka, ending a flight from England to Tokyo.

A large crowd gave her an enthusiastic welcome. Matajiro Koizumi, minister of communications, whose daughter presented the flier a bouquet, represented the government. The British charge d'affaires' wife presented a bouquet on behalf of British women in Japan.

New York's Needy Gets Holiday Help

Mayor Walker's emergency committee plans to distribute 27,000 dinners and the Salvation Army will feed more than 14,000. More than 10,000 oranges will be handed out in hospitals and institutions, and hundreds of organizations will send gift boxes and dinners to the poor.

WIFE, BROTHER ADMIT KILLING

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Remorse and bitterness gripped two inmates of the county prison today—a woman and her brother—while over both loomed the shadow of the electric chair. For the accused pair, Mrs. Clara Grace Prophet, attractive 32-year-old church worker, and Harold Williams, 25, her huckster brother, admitted killing the woman's husband, William F. Prophet, 49, salesman and choir singer.

The woman, maddened by eight years of unhappy married life, and her brother, tempted by a $500 bribe, arranged and executed Prophet's murder, police said they admitted. Each signed a confession, police said.

POWELL FLIES PLANE ALONE

"Oh, boy! wait till mother hears about it. I'll tell her over the radio tonight."

Dick Powell, crooner and master of ceremonies, yesterday took to the air for his first session of solo flying. Dick, under the tutelage of Bob Hart, of the Curtiss flying organization, went aloft at 10:45 a. m. yesterday. After two hours and 50 minutes of instruction he was allowed to do his first "solo."

This was the first flying instruction which Powell had ever taken, and sets a new record at Bettis Airport. He said:

12 Thanksgiving Dinners Stolen; All Geese

Several Pittsburgh families will be enjoying a fine goose for their Thanksgiving dinner, Center avenue police said, after investigating the theft of 12 geese from the poultry store of A. L. Sewald, at 85 Logan street, this morning. The thieves shattered the store window with a rock. The geese were valued at $45.

NURSERY HOLDS DONATION DAY

The First Allegheny Day nursery and Temporary Home for Children, 3035 Perrysville avenue, holds its annual donation and reception day tomorrow.

The home was begun as a day nursery, but has now become a temporary home for boys and girls, ranging from the kindergarten age up to 14 and 12, respectively. These children attend the public schools and must be dressed accordingly.

Apart from the main building, the home has a small building reserved for those children who have contracted contagious diseases. This miniature hospital serves its purpose as a protection against the spread of disease among the children.

OBITUARY

Dr. Boyce Funeral.

Funeral services for Dr. John Welch Boyce, former president of the Allegheny County Medical Society and noted specialist in tuberculosis, will be held at his home, 409 Denniston avenue, at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. Dr. Boyce died in South Side Hospital yesterday following an operation.

Born in Sligo, Clarion County, in 1871, Dr. Boyce graduated from the Western Pennsylvania Medical College in 1892. His graduation was followed by post-graduate work at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, in Germany and New York City. Early in his career he was admitted to the Allegheny County bar as a practicing attorney.

Dr. Boyce served on the Commission for the Prevention of Typhoid Fever during the typhoid epidemic early in the century and acted as a specialist in tuberculosis during the World War at Camp Jackson and with the 31st and 71st Divisions. He was made president of the Allegheny County Medical Society in 1913, was staff physician at the West Penn and South Side hospital, medical consultant at the Eye and Ear Hospital and visiting physician at the City Hospital, Mayview.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Tacy Cotter Boyce, Dr. Boyce leaves his mother, Mrs. Rebecca M. Boyce, and a sister, Miss Ella Ruth Boyce.

Interment, Wednesday morning in Homewood Cemetery, will be private.

McGeary Funeral.

Funeral services for John C. McGeary, 80, were to be held today in his home at Leechburg. Burial also will be there. A pioneer business man of Leechburg, Mr. McGeary died Friday after a short illness.

He was engaged in the hardware business for many years, retiring last February.

He was a member of the United Presbyterian Church.

Mr. McGeary leaves his wife Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Sober McGeary; a son, John E. McGeary; three daughters, Miss Margaret and Miss Grace McGeary, at home; and Mrs. A. P. Grier, of Jonesboro, Ark.

Wiernicki Funeral.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday for Frank Wiernicki, 60, secretary of the Sons of Polish National Alliance, who died Saturday in the home of his nephew, H. J. Kazmierski, 251 Forty-third street. The funeral services will be held from the Kazmierski home and burial will be in St. Stanislaus Cemetery. Wiernicki was born in Poland and came to Pittsburgh 38 years ago. At the time of his death he also served as treasurer of Radian Society Group, 205, Z. N. P. He leaves three brothers and two sisters, all of Warsaw, Poland.

George B. Clark.

George B. Clark, 78, brother of City Clerk Robert Clark, died in his home in Forty-eighth street yesterday after a long illness. He was a life long resident of the Lawrenceville district and for many years worked in the Crescent steel works. He had also worked in other mills in the district. He was a member of Lodge No. 11, B. P. O. Elks. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Anna B. Clark; two brothers and two sisters, all of Pittsburgh.

J. C. McGeary.

Funeral services were held today for J. C. McGeary, pioneer business man of Leechburg, who died in his home Friday. Born in Westmoreland County in 1850, he went to Leechburg in 1873. He had been active in the retail hardware business until his retirement last February. Mr. McGeary had been a charter member of the United Presbyterian Church of Leechburg, and took an active interest in community affairs. He leaves his wife, Mary Elizabeth Sober McGeary; three daughters, Margaret and Grace McGeary and Mrs. A. P. Virier; a son, John E. McGeary; four grandchildren, and four brothers.

volver. The holdup of Garvin's restaurant, 201 Smithfield street, where $20 was obtained from Martha Zang, cashier, is laid to the same robber.

A sneak thief entered the home of John M. Wilson, of 5432 Baywood street, and stole a purse containing $25, Wilson reported to police today.

Other robberies reported included looting of the office of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church; holdup of Frank Erb of the Penn Manor Apartments in which jewelry valued at $125 and $30 in cash were stolen; Wylie avenue chain store by three men who lined up 19 persons and escaped with $375; looting of Autenreith's Dollar Store, 3549 Butler street, clothing valued at $50 and $156 in cash stolen; Raj's Jewelry store, 964 Liberty avenue, $125 in jewelry stolen; store of J. Solomon, 2015 Rockledge street, $35 clock and $4 in cash; home of William Haler, 2118 Rockledge street, clothing valued at $100, and home of P. H. Younger, 1536 Cooper street, jewelry valued at $350.

Comanche, Veteran Ship of Navy, Sold

BALTIMORE, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Stripped of its proud insignia, the old coast guard cutter Comanche, whose crew cut the cable and destroyed the Spanish fortification at Cienfuegos, Cuba, has been sentenced to the ignoble life of a freighter in its declining years.

The vessel, veteran of two wars, was built in 1896 for $100,000, but was recently sold minus its instruments and equipment to a commercial company for $4,510.

SEEK PETERAS DEATH SUSPECT

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 24.—Local police and West Virginia authorities today announced they were seeking Herbert Conrad, 30, of Keyser, W. Va., as the slayer of Thomas Peteras, of Roberts street, Pittsburgh. Peteras, an employe of a Pittsburgh employment bureau, was found shot to death in a shanty near Avella last week.

Nine persons, three of them women, are being held in the county jail. Police say Conrad rented the shanty a month ago and had been using it as a speakeasy.

Four Britons Paid To Test Ale, All Free

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Four men have the privilege of sampling, without charge, ales sold in London pubs, and they are paid $200 a year besides. They are ale "corners," and their job is to see that full value is given.

Hangs Self in Cell During Jail Service

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 24.—(AP.)—While the Salvation Army conducted religious services in the bullpen of the Fayette County jail here, John Ghamak, 46, Masontown, an inmate, went to his cell and hanged himself with a belt.

SLAYER OF WIFE GETS 6 YEARS

Admitting a dispute over 50 cents resulted in the slaying of his wife with a butcher knife in their home, John Posch, 63, a retired tailor, of 6566 Rowand street, today pleaded guilty and was sentenced from six to 15 years in the Western Penitentiary on a second-degree murder charge.

Married children of the prisoner testified against Posch.

Posch testified he had been drinking on June 28. He said his wife, Marie, 59, seized a knife during a dispute, and said he took it from her, but could not remember what followed.

SLOVAK ARTS LEAGUE MEETS

Lectures aimed to promote and encourage activity in all the arts among American-Slovaks were heard yesterday at the Slovak Arts League meeting in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Miss Mary Luchansky, of Bridgeport, Conn., president of the league, was the principal speaker. She spoke of the work being done by members of the league throughout the United States.

A banquet followed the lecture and discussion session.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Jan. 17 Named For Maccoun Wedding

The year of 1931 will start off with many a notable wedding in the social world. And I wouldn't be surprised if some folks postponed their pilgrimages to the south until February so that they'll be here for the marriage ceremonies.

I've just heard of the date for the wedding of two young people whose engagement was made known a short time ago.

January 17 is the day chosen, and the bride-to-be is Mary Thorburn Macroom, daughter of the Andrew Ellicott Marcoums, of North Braddock and Baltimore, and the bridegroom-to-be will be Richard Rider Jackson, son of the junior Everett E. Jacksons, of Baltimore. The ceremony will take place in Baltimore, and of course many folks will go to the eastern shore for the ceremony.

Elisabeth Miller, daughter of the William Booth Millers, of Sewickley, who will make her debut at a tea dance Thursday in the Allegheny Country Club, is being feted at many affairs. And before I tell you about another party planned for her, there is another side added to the bud's list, her sister, Mrs. Robert Upjohn Redpath, Jr.

Mrs. William O. Campbell and Margaret Campbell are to give a luncheon on December 4 in honor of Elizabeth in the Allegheny Country Club. And I mentioned a few days ago that Mrs. Frederick B. Hufnagel will give a luncheon on December 11 in the Twentieth Century Club in honor of Frances Kier and Elizabeth.

Another social affair I know of to take place during the Yule season is a small dinner Mrs. McCook Knox, of Washington, will give in the Pittsburg Golf Club for debutantes in honor of her daughter, Kathleen, who is a granddaughter of the late Senator and Mrs. Philander Chase Knox, also of the late Gen. Anson G. McCook, of Steubenville. The dinner will be the evening of December 20. Kathleen is one of the debs to be presented this season in New York and Washington.

Dinner In December

On December 2, Kathleen will share honors with Barbara Korff, daughter of the Baroness Serge Alexander Korff and granddaughter of the late Rear Admiral William K. Van Reypen, United States Navy, at a tea dance which Mrs. Peter Augustus Jay, of New York, will give. The Jays are spending the winter in Washington.

Among the sponsors for the fourth annual dinner dance for the buds of the capital on December 10 will be Mrs. Knox, the Baroness Korff, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, Mrs. U. S. Grant III and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills.

U. S. OPENS QUIZ IN LEVINE CASE

VIENNA, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—Instructions to investigate fully the case of Charles Levine, held in prison on suspicion of counterfeiting French coins, were received by the American consul today from the Department of State at Washington.

The consul was advised to report his conclusions to the State Department in Washington as soon as possible.

Levine's lawyers announced today that many Europeans had offered to deposit bail for their client, but that no American made a similar offer.

DO-X GREETED IN CORUNNA

CORUNNA, Spain, Nov. 24—(INS.)—The 12-motored German flying boat DO-X swung easily to the rise and fall of the harbor tide today as hundreds lined the quays and points of vantage along the water front to view the world's largest seaplane.

The big airliner, which skimmed over the water to anchor yesterday afternoon after a 2½-hour flight from Santander, will probably remain here until tomorrow. Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder of the ship, declared that after arrival at Lisbon, its next destination, the motors would be overhauled and a final decision reached as to the projected flight across the Atlantic.

A brilliant reception greeted the flying boat here. Cannon boomed and torpedo boats sped alongside as escort when the giant craft headed for the harbor after circling the city and taxied to anchor. The quays were black with eager watchers.

A series of entertainments awaited the seven passengers who came to Corunna in the DO-X.

Courthouse Tour to Be Made by 13th Ward Voters Tomorrow

A tour of the Courthouse will be made by the Thirteenth Ward League of Women Voters tomorrow morning with Mrs. Elizabeth B. Motz in charge. The tour takes the place of the regular monthly meeting. ERMINE WRAPS LEND REGAL SPLENDOR TO EVENING MODE

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Despite talk of depression, or because of it, we are constantly being regaled with stories of new ermine wraps. Countless women would be quite content with merely old ones! Still, the busy little ermine that used to be so imperialistically minded attending only courts and being worn by queens and lovely princesses is now quite content to grace more democratic scenes. In fact the ermine wrap is quite glad of dinner at a smart restaurant and a good show afterwards. And it doesn't have to be the opera either. Well, be that as it may—it is our duty to record that there are ever so many ermine wraps on the scene these nights. There are wraps with bodices of ermine and black velvet skirts, there are wraps of ermine in the three-quarter length—perhaps an economy measure? There are wraps with sable collars and there is the classic all-white full-length wrap that cannot be surpassed for regal effect. The ermine wrap is much liked with white and pastel-hued frocks and is the fitting complement to the lovely gowns now being shown and worn.

VIONNET IS RESPONSIBLE for the lovely garment, a sketch of which is here displayed. It is worked in squares with the points coming together in the center of the back. It has a fitted waistline. There is a wide sleeve at the underarm which tapers to a cuff. The shawl collar is a simple rolled-over-affair — if one may use such an adjective in describing an ermine wrap.

* * *

SURPRISES COME and go with evening frocks. After all the talk of shimmering lames and rich velvets and other grand fabrics, we have frocks of crepe de chine worn by extremely smart women. The house of Augusta Bernard for the most attractive evening frock, a sketch of which adorns this page. It is in pale green and has that neat, almost tailored look that so many women like for evening wear.

ORIENTAL RUG

IMPORTER AND EXPERT

With many of Pittsburgh's wealthiest families as my customers, I have visited this city from 1885 to 1910. Now, I am here once more, at 445 Wood Street, with some of the very best oriental art rugs in existence. These must be sold at once, as it is absolutely necessary that I raise $125,000 cash at once, or lose my Ambassador Apartment in Philadelphia.

Although I have always been a strictly one-price merchant, it has been necessary to mark these at prices which represent a great sacrifice.

Here are silk rugs and other oriental rugs—all the very best ever produced—at prices unbelievably low. These rugs are in sizes 3 by 5 to 20 by 35 feet, and prices range from $25.00 to $35,000.

The SERENADE MECHANISTIC

"Gaily the Troubadour Touched his Guitar"

Now the troubadour had a great advantage over the Robot, for the Robot can't be gay any more than he can be sad or sentimental.

RECENTLY a master of inventors took a load off the minds of most of us with the assurance that "no one will ever invent a mechanical man who can think."

He might have added that no Robot will ever feel, either. And where there is no feeling, no emotional capacity, there can be no music.

Millions, realizing this truth, have joined the Music Defense League in protest against substitution of Canned Music for Living Music in theatres. If you feel the same way you can serve your own, as well as the public's, interest by signing the coupon at the right.

WEST LAUNCHES MOVE TO RAISE RIVER FUNDS

Congress to be Asked for $100,000,000 a Year to Aid Internal Waterway Plan

By WILLIAM S. NEAL,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A campaign will be launched with the convening of Congress to raise rivers and harbors appropriations to $100,000,000 a year, thus launching the biggest internal waterway expansion program in the history of the nation, it was learned today.

URGED BY WEST

The plan will be urged by Western river improvement associations, anxious to complete a vast network of river transportation systems, and is expected to have the indorsement of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee.

The effort may bring a showdown between backers of the internal waterway system and the railroads, who already have taken the offensive against the policy.

Representative Hudson (Rep.), of Michigan, a member of the House Committee, announced he would sponsor a plan which calls for expenditures of $100,000,000 a year four five years, by making available a half billion dollars to be drawn upon as needed to complete the present five-year program.

The Mississippi Valley Association announces its plan for increased appropriations in its bulletin as follows:

"These waterway improvements are desperately needed now, today, to aid faltering business. There are hundreds of idle men, whose families face privation and under-nourishment, who could be put to work to complete the river channel system.

EQUIPMENT READY

"The Army engineers have the plans; the contractors have the equipment, idle and waiting.

"All that is lacking is an adequate financial plan to start the work and open an era of national prosperity that will endure for generations. Five years and $100,000,000 annually can complete the whole program of rivers and harbors improvements, put the unemployed to work and give the farmer, the manufacturer and the merchant the use of low-cost transportation service so urgently needed. It is to be hoped that Congress will adopt promptly a plan to finance adequately and entirely the completion of the national waterway program."

UNIONS FIGHT PLAN

The railroads will be joined in their opposition by the "Big Four" brotherhoods of railroad workers.

The total rivers and harbors projects now authorized by Congress would cost about $500,000,000, Hudson said. It was laid out as a five-year program, he added. Under his plan, the Army engineers could draw upon a fund of a half-billion to complete the work as quickly as possible.

Rivers and harbors appropriations last year totaled $55,000,000.

BETTER INDIAN SCHOOLS URGED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—An education for Indian boys and girls up to the average given white children is advocated by Commissioner Rhoads of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

This is necessary, he said in his annual report, if the Indian children are to become self-supporting. He added most of the Indian schools heretofore have not gone beyond the lower grammar grades.

Elimination of the younger children from boarding schools and placing them in public schools and home classes was outlined as one of the policies of the division. Approximately 38,000 Indian children were said to be in state-operated public schools.

Exhibition SHIP MODELS

from Noah's Ark to the "Bremen"

Actual models, as far as history or facts make possible—over 30 in all—a collection worth thousands of dollars, brought here for just two weeks.

Many of these models, some of which were loaned to us by the Newark Museum, are miniatures about a foot long. Others are 8-foot models of modern trans-Atlantic liners—also sailing yachts, and various boats characteristic of foreign lands.

Outstanding models include an Egyptian boat, a Chinese junk, a Spanish caravel, a Venetian galley, Dutch canal boat, the Monitor of Civil War fame, the renowned American Clipper Ship, "Sovereign of the Seas"; the cable laying ship, "John W. Mackay"; a sailing schooner, modern racing yacht, the flagship of the French line, "Ile de France," and nine other French liners—and the world's record holder, North German Lloyd's ship, the "Bremen."

Models of All Modes of Transportation

Included in the exhibit are models of other means of transportation—primitive to modern. The Irish Jauntin' Car, the Philippine Caribou, the ox-drawn Covered Wagon, and English Hansom Cab, the first locomotive of the B. & O. Railroad and its latest product—and a 12-foot Zeppelin model blimp.

She can't have both. She can't party all night and practice all day. She can't Do Something Worth While and still be the giddy kiddy that she was at 17. So what's the answer?

"Dear Sally Martin:

"I am coming to you with a problem that I once thought I could handle by myself. But now I'm beginning, just on the brink of things, to question my own judgment. I don't know whether I'm following the right path or not. Can you lend me a hand? I need it badly.

"I am 22, and I am studying music. And sometimes I wonder if I'm not acting too old for my age. Through the few years since I was 17, I have had my share of fun and what is called whoopee. But always I found the endless round of parties and dates leaving me with a sense of frustration and dissatisfaction. Always I seemed to be seeking something bigger. Something that would give my life meaning.

"I tried for years to find this thing. For a long time I have read your column, and in some strange way it helped me to find it at last, among the foolish play things I had surrounded myself with. I found it, finally, in an old violin.

"For five years, I've waited and worked, until I could go ahead and make music the big thing in my life. Now I can do it. And I pause, on the brink, to ask myself . . . Am I playing fair with life, in deliberately [illegible] fair

"I have not any slushy sentiments about what I have to do. I see 10, 15 years ahead of me, of constant study and practice . . . and feel it is all worthwhile. Yet — perhaps you can understand the sensation—as if I stood on the brink of a high mountain, and looked down into depths that make my soul dizzy . . .

"I know that if I go on with my plans, I can make this dream come true. But if I do go ahead, I must put aside all but the hard work that will make it possible. You see my salary and my savings from it are the foundation of the study I see in Europe later. So I won't be able to do much but live fairly decently. And I wonder —if I am cheating myself. Will success be enough? Or will I find nothing at the end of the trail?

"Just now it seems as if the loss of everything I have ever heard of would be infinitismal, compared with the loss of my music. And then doubts come. Am I buying just a stone? Am I shifting the burdens of living onto other shoulders because of a selfish motive, and will it leave me, at last, with the same old frustrated feeling? When I have won success, will I feel that it has cost me happiness?

"I am in New York now, and every spare moment I have is spent in practicing. And above the smoke and dust of this sloggy city, I hear great harmonies that have the growling roar of the "L" trains for accompaniment. Harmonies that clutch at me, and beg for expression. But after I've practiced for hours after work, alone, and then walk out alone for a breath of air, and see the cars zip by, with people, laughing, talking, seeking everyday pleasures and merriment, I wonder if maybe I'm not hitching my wagon to a star that is too far away.

"Sometimes when I get to longing for companionship and fun, even music won't keep the tears of loneliness back.

"And I know that music is a job that must be done in a big way, or not at all. Just, I imagine, like one would love, the man. And if I can't do it that way, I'll have to content myself listening to what others do.

"And there's the rub. If I stop now, will I, in the years to come, regret not having had the courage to go ahead? Will I feel that I've cheated myself and that I'm still not happy? I don't know, and the indecision is driving me crazy. If someone could only tell me . . . could back up my decision . . . one way or the other . . . I feel that I could get my courage back.

"Will you help me? Where do you think I will find happiness? In going ahead, to success —or in everyday, humdrum living? Which one must I give up? KATHLEEN."

Well, youngster, that's some question! Of course, it's quite obvious that you should mix some pleasure with the long grind. You've been working too hard, and your music will suffer as a consequence. You'll never be a great artist unless you [illegible]

But, on the other hand, you'll never be any kind of an artist unless you do everlastingly grind. And is that worth it? That depends on you, Kathleen. It has been worth it—to some. There are great artists who have stripped life of all frivolity and given themselves, body and soul, to art. And they never regretted the sacrifice—nor did a grateful world. But, again, many a girl has spent her youth trying to become a bird of paradise—only to end in bitter regret because she hadn't been content to be a common, little, white leghorn hen!

Better take stock, Kathleen. Stop asking if art's worth it. Are you, yourself, worth it? Have you the stuff in you to justify all this effort? Are you really going to do the big thing some day—or are you just kidding yourself? Living in a delusion of grandeur because you don't want to face the monotony of everyday life?

If you have the makin's—then hop to it! Genius comes high, but it's worth all it costs—provided it's the real thing. But if you're just building up a fantasy —don't do it. Be the happy li'l white leghorn God intended you to be.

Fay King Deals With Man Who Tells You of Rich Wife He Doesn't Love

I WISH YOU DIDN'T HAVE A PENNY IN THE WORLD THEN I COULD PROVE THAT I LOVE YOU FOR YOURSELF ALONE!
BUT I'M SO MUCH OLDER THAN YOU—
HE CONVINCES HER THAT HE ADORES HER
IF IT WASN'T FOR YOUR FORTUNE I WOULDN'T GIVE YOU A SECOND LOOK
NO RICH WIFE WAS EVER WON LIKE THIS
MY WIFE KNOWS I WAS NEVER IN LOVE WITH HER. I TOLD HER SO. BUT SHE WOULD MARRY ME, ANYWAY
FAY-PING

By FAY KING.

The man who tells you that his wife is rich and older than he is, and that he never loved her and told her so, but she inveigled him into matrimony, insults your intelligence.

No woman was ever won except by being convinced that she was very much loved and wanted at the time.

Women, unlike men, are inclined to think of themselves as too old and unattractive long before they actually are.

It takes a good deal of convincing from even their beauty parlor experts to make them believe they are as attractive as the beauty treatments are guaranteed to make them.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation Of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary Meets Handsome Cinema Star

Colin Cameron, whom Philip Veritzen had just introduced to me, was the type of young man which Dicky calls "God's gift to sentimental womankind." Just above medium height, straight as the traditional arrow, with dark brown hair having just the slightest suspicion of curl, with features as regular as those of a Greek god, with large brown eyes shaded with dark lashes which any debutante might envy, he was, as Harry Underwood haughtily drawled, "a most bewitching-ti-ful young man."

He had manners—or mannerisms—to match his looks, I declared, as he bent over my hand with a gesture familiar to thousands of "talkie" fans. And his murmured, "Mrs. Graham, I am glad that Mr. Veritzen has given me this opportunity to [illegible] were straying past me to where Mary was smiling up at Philip Veritzen.

The next moment Mr. Veritzen deftly detached him from me and was introducing him to Mary with the words astounding to us who knew of his cavalier treatment of Mary.

"You two young people ought to know each other. Broadway's Prince Charming and the street's future queen should have much to chatter about."

"I am infinitely flattered," young Mr. Cameron said graciously, but there was a certain smugness in his voice which betrayed his conviction that the older man had only given him his proper meed of praise, and that Mary was the one who should be thrilled by proximity to greatness.

Apparently Mary was. Her cheeks were flushed, her eyes starry, her manner that of a schoolgirl movie fan as she looked at the young man and cooed:

"You—you—are really Colin Cameron?"

If she said "You are really the Prince of Wales?" her voice could not have held more awe-stricken joy. I started angrily, wondering if the child really had an unsuspected admiration for cinema actors. Then I caught sight of Lillian's uplifted eyebrows and Harry Underwood's surreptitious wink at me, and understood with infinitely lighter spirits. Mary with the greatest aplomb in the world was simply holding out that which begins, "Tell me more about yourself!" uttered in a voice whose every tone sounds the question, though without words, "Is the world really round?"

Young Mr. Cameron snapped at the bait—he was a singularly unwary trout, I decided, although Mary's loveliness was justification enough for any young man's "sitting up and taking notice."

"Yes, that is my name," he said, smiling down at her. "Have you seen me?"

Mary clasped her hands and I muttered uneasily if, in my mother-in-law's parlance, she was not "laying it on a little too thick."

"Have I seen you?" she breathed. "Every time I can save up enough money for one of your pictures. I saw 'Splinters of Fate' six times."

Mr. Cameron turned fatuously. Mr. Underwood changed a snort of laughter into a cough, while Lillian, standing next to me, murmured from the side of her mouth in the noiseless speech she had perfected: "The anointed little liar! But watch him lap it up! And pipe old Phil!"

Mr. Veritzen was paying no attention to any face save Mary's. His own countenance was inscrutable behind the perfunctory little smile which curved his lips. But there was a glint in his eyes, and I wondered whether it was of approval or of annoyance. And were his eyes, ordinarily keen, able to appraise Mary's apparent adulation at its true value, or were they blinded by his prejudice against the girl? Did he realize how cleverly she was "spoofing" the young talkie star, or did he think she was in reality as silly in her admiration of him as she appeared.

I put aside those questions, however. They were trivial, indeed, beside the all-absorbing one which I knew was present in Lillian's mind, in Harry's, and, pre-eminently, in Mary's, even as she dimpled and smiled and looked up through her lashes with coquettish admiration of young Mr. Cameron in every glance.

Why had Philip Veritzen brought this young movie star as an extra guest to dinner? Why? Why?

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, November 25

Fairly prosperous conditions are forecast from the prevailing lunar transits. Those in the employment of others are in line for some pleasant recognition or minor advancement and the personal affiliations for the day should be happy and interesting. But a letter or document may give some slight concern.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly progressive year, with employment promising some slight advance or recognition. Or there may be some notice or preferment from those in power or authority. Also the purely personal associations may be happily active and interesting. But sign all writings with care.

A child born on this day should be friendly, gracious and popular, and should attain the recognition or favoritism of superiors or those in authority.

Work Accomplished

One very good reason why it is wise for the housewife to do much of her dinner preparation in the morning is so she can really enjoy an afternoon caller who may drop in, without that thought of an unprepared dinner on her mind.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Trying Out the Other Fellow's Health Tonic

Frequently we hear someone say, "You look so pale, you must be anemic." If this tactless remark ended the matter it wouldn't be so bad. But too often we hear "I have a wonderful tonic, why not try it?"

DR. COPELAND

Perhaps the tonic is taken. It may be without value, but worse than this it may be harmful.

All this is unwise. Many persons are pale and yet are physically fit. Anemia cannot be determined without an examination of the blood.

Many of the so-called "tonics" and "health rejuvenators" are found upon analysis to be of little value. In many cases they are actually harmful because of the drugs they contain. Many are alleged to be rich in iron but actually contain this element in such small amount as to be of little value.

What is meant by anemia is a condition in which there is a decrease in the quality and quantity of the red cells that are found in the blood. In addition, there is usually a decrease in the amount of "hemoglobin." Hemoglobin is the substance responsible for the coloring matter of the blood and it is a powerful aid to the absorption of oxygen by the blood.

Anemic persons usually complain of tiring easily. They have no "pep," or desire to do things. The appetite is poor, the digestion is faulty and occasionally there may be a feeling of faintness. In some severe forms there is loss of weight and difficulty in breathing.

Marked pallor is usually present, but this symptom is not always indicative of anemia. That is why the advice of a lay friend may be wrongly founded.

Anemia may be brought about by an excessive loss of blood. This loss may be accidental or it may follow some surgical procedure. The bleeding may result from hemorrhoids or be due to a stomach ulcer.

Anemia may be caused too by lack of fresh air. Overwork, severe nervous strain, lack of proper food and unhygienic surroundings are other important factors.

Anemia is often cured by rest, fresh air and plenty of good, nourishing food. The rest serves as the necessary tonic, giving the body a chance to build up its energies. Fresh air in large doses supplies sufficient oxygen to thoroughly revive and stimulate the production of new red blood cells. Nourishing food builds up the blood cells and strengthens the body.

It happens often in anemia that the digestion is impaired. On this account it is necessary to give digestible foods. Milk and eggs are the most important in this respect and can be given unhesitatingly. It is advisable to have at least one quart of milk each day. Abundant bread, toast with butter, preserved fruits and cereals with cream are strongly recommended.

If you are anemic, sit down by yourself and try to figure out why. What are you doing that you should not do? What are you leaving undone?

There is no great mystery about disease. Most of our ailments can be traced to causes within our knowledge. The trouble is, we think too little about these matters. Indeed, we try to fool ourselves as well as the family. We are unwilling to admit anything is wrong.

Even though we make no confessions to others, let us be sensible enough to study our own needs.

COUGHS KEPT THE WATKINSONS AWAKE

GERTRUDE WATKINSON

Till REM quieted Gertrude's coughing

Little Gertrude Watkinson of 1929 S. 23rd St., Philadelphia, gets a few bad coughs-and-colds every winter, but her grandmother has learned how to relieve them quickly. "We've known about REM for several years now," says Mrs. Watkinson. "My little grand-daughter likes to take it and I'm glad to say that we can always depend on it. It's good to have a reliable cough remedy on hand, for it means restful nights instead of being kept awake by coughing. I myself think REM's great. We always get it at Lerman's Drug Store at S. 23rd and Mifflin." Restless nights don't do coughs any good, and many a person has REM to thank for a good night's sleep. REM is sold with a money-back guarantee--but not one in a thousand ever wanted it back!

REM's easy to take, too. Children and parents can both appreciate that!

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

'Bearing' the Marriage Market.

If love has slumped with the stock market, and the bonds of marriage are paying no dividends, these days, it can be attributed to the same cause as the general business depression.

There are too many Doubting Thomases! Too many bears are growling cynical warnings, selling out cheap and frightening off the young hopefuls.

We are all SO cagey! So "wise!" So cautious!

"No wedding-bells for ME!" is our slogan. We are taking no CHANCES!

Of course, if you never marry, you will escape a lot of troubles and disappointments. But THINK of all the troubles and disappointments you'd escape if you'd never been BORN!

Think of all the responsibilities and heartaches and hard work you'd dodge just by refusing to come into this world! or, by going out of it, tomorrow!

Or, if you never ATE anything, think of all the dyspepsia or indigestion or heart-burn you'd escape!

Food often gives you indigestion, work often gives you a headache, and love and marriage may cause you many heartaches. But, after all, you can't really LIVE without any of them.

Marriage is no more of a gamble and no more of a "sure thing" than is anything else in this world. It is a job, not a sinecure. It is a career, not a holiday.

Nobody expects any other career to be easy and carefree and perfectly smooth sailing. Why do we expect marriage to be PERFECT? There really ISN'T any Santa Claus!

When a man goes in for art, he expects to face struggle and poverty, and heartaches and disappointments. He doesn't expect to leap right into the Hall of Fame, the day after he leases a studio.

When he goes in for a business or professional career, he EXPECTS to find work, responsiblity and bitter struggles ahead of him. But he takes his chance of success, and has no illusions that it is going to be handed to him on a silver-platter.

But, when we go into matrimony, we are looking for a soft-snap. For PERFECTION! Everything for nothing! Dear old Fairy Godmother, Fate, is going to hand us her most beautiful gifts—Happiness, Companionship, Love—just as a little Christmas gift. No work, no effort, no self-sacrifice, no charge!

And, if it isn't perfect—if we find a flaw in it; an unexpected responsibility, a little work, a little less glamour that we had dreamed of—then we turn cynics, and proceed to bear the market!

* * *

Marriage isn't perfect, love isn't perfect, Christmas isn't perfect, life isn't perfect. But if you are going to cut them all out, you might as well cut out LIVING!

Correct Manners

By LOUIS S. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Initiating the Bride's Linen

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married soon and I would like to know if it is proper, when using an initial on linens, to use that of your fiance or your own? I have read where both are proper.

My girl friends and I have had many discussions on this subject but their opinions seem to differ. E. R.

And opinions always do and probably will differ about this. I wish that I could tell you just which is correct, but that is a matter of individual choice. Formerly there was a definite rule, that the bride-to-be used, on her silver and on her linen, those gifts that she took to her new home, the initials of her maiden name. And conservative and—I think—well-bred brides-to-be still abide by this traditional and fine custom. But there has grown up a new school of brides who radically use the initials of the name that is to be theirs when they are married.

This last custom I do not agree with, as to correctness, for many reasons. To begin with, the name is not yet theirs, and therefore, they have not yet the right to use it; too, they are disregarding tradition and convention and fine custom, and, also, I believe that a census of who uses which form will show that the well-bred girl still uses the initials of her maiden name.

Remove the Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When wedding present are on display is it correct to remove cards, or should the cards remain with the presents?

E. R.

The cards should be removed. This is a more exquisite point of view than the garish display of "who sent them"—don't you think so?

The Recipient of a Wedding Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I have received an invitation reading as follows:

Mrs. William Blank
Mrs. John Doe
At Home
Honoring
Mrs. Joseph Smith
Olympic Golf and Country Club
November the twentieth four until six

I need advice as to what I should do if I do not accept?

2. How many cards should I leave if I accept? B. K.

1. An invitation to a reception like this, since it does not also carry a request for an acknowledgement, does not require an answer. If you attend the reception, you leave cards. If you do not plan to go, you send cards, by mail or messenger, so that they will arrive on the morning of the day of the reception.

2. You leave three of your cards; one for Mrs. Black, one for Mrs. Doe and one for Mrs. Smith, the guest of honor.

Household Hints

Dry bran is excellent for cleaning velvet flowers. Simply rub on the soiled parts and brush off, repeating if necessary.

To give your salad dressing a different and piquant flavor save the vinegar from the pickle jar and use this, which is highly seasoned, instead of plain vinegar.

To avoid that shiny look on freshly laundered linens and to keep the iron from sticking to the material put a small piece of lard, not larger than the size of a pea in the starch water.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—An armchair rendezvous on a recent Sunday with Sir Oliver Lodge as he talked from London, recalled vividly to this writer a visit which he made to the famous British scientist a little more than a year ago.

It was our hope at that time that Sir Oliver, as the leading pioneer in radio in England and, more importantly, as the foremost of the world's researchers in psychic phenomena, might have some comment on the possibility of communicating with the dead by wireless. At any event, it was our purpose to find out.

To reach the home of Sir Oliver Lodge a railway journey of some 40 miles from London is necessary.

Home of Sir Oliver In Picturesque Country

The chauffeur had been a considerate guide on the journey to Sir Oliver's home. He had driven me past Stonehenge, where persons still come each summer to worship the sun as they did in the time of the Druids, past the expansive artillery field where Britain trains her gunners, past the brown and brooding meadows which had served as a German interment camp during the war, past the imposing country seat of Viscount Grey where the former secretary of foreign affairs in His Majesty's government meditates, they say, upon that fateful August of 16 years ago.

Sir Oliver's home, a charming old English dwelling of ivy-covered brick and stone, adjoins that of Earl Grey. A high wall surrounds it, a heavy wooden gate swings open upon a short, winding driveway. The gate was open. I walked a few yards to the door. A white-haired old woman, the housekeeper obviously, answered my knock. She bade me enter, led me through a heavy-panelled dining room to a living room, which looked out upon a vide expanse of green, and carried my message to some mysterious chamber overhead.

I waited some 10 minutes. Presently Sir Oliver came down to greet me—tall, superbly erect patriarchal, an air of ineffable serenity about him as if he were thoroughly at peace with himself and with the world. Never, I thought, had I seen eyes so benevolent, or heard a voice so unmistakably sincere in its welcome. He wore carpet slippers and lounging clothes and his shirt was open at the collar.

Scientist Skeptical of Reaching the Dead

Sir Oliver is frankly skeptical of communication with the departed—he prefers the term "the other side" by radio. It would require, he said, the most reliable and scientific minds—minds that would weigh all evidence minutely and painstakingly.

For nearly an hour we talked. Sir Oliver once correcting me promptly that "the chasm between the present and the hereafter already had been crossed." He went on at length, explaining that life travels from one body to another through space devoid of matter, and that special activities are responsible for all electric and magnetic phenomena.

* * *

He said man was ethereal as well as material; that the ethereal part lives on forever while the material decays as all matter animate or inanimate. And he could conceive, he went on, of a possibility whereby ethereal man might become attuned to ether waves in such a degree as to communicate with his loved ones on this side of the spirit world.

RAID DISCLOSES 'SILENT' STILLS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Two private dwellings, made over into sound-proof distilleries, with elaborate electrical devices to blow mash fumes skyward and other "evidence" into the sewers, were discovered by police in the Roosevelt boulevard section.

In the two buildings, connected by doors cut through the first-floor wall, police arrested a young man and a young woman and confiscated two large stills, more than 350 gallons of whisky and alcohol and 20 barrels of mash.

In each building was an electrical blower that forced the fumes from boiling mash through the chimneys and an electric pump that forced the used mash into the sewer. All the machinery was encased in sound-proof, padded cabinets so it could not be heard in operation by neighbors or passers by.

Men's Earring Ban Here Irks Japanese

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(INS.)—The trouble with these United States is that a man can't be himself.

That was the criticism advanced today by Tsugouharu Foujita, noted Japanese painter of women and cats.

Foujita complained he was quite unhappy because he could not wear earrings here in public. The artist said a man is "made fun of" for wearing them.

Effie Watts sings (with variations) when women of Thompkins Corners present their own minstrel show over KDKA at 9:30 tonight. There's no note too high for Effie to reach and that includes bank notes, for we understand Effie gets almost as much as Uncle Matt when she tours radio shows.

QUESTION A DAY:

What is the average salary of radio artists?—Henry G. Bloomfield.

Answer—I presume you mean network artists. Actors' salaries run from about $50 to $250 a week. Regular singers receive from $700 to $800 a week with an occasional screen star receiving as much as $1,500 for a sing'e appearance. An orchestra usually costs $1,000. Sandwiched between these satellites are any number of artists who get along on a living wage. Locally, an individual singer receives from $5 to $75 an appearance and artists the same. Orchestras average $150.

The COLONIAL TELLER

Published by THE COLONIAL TRUST COMPANY in the belief that the news of a great banking institution is of wide public interest.

BUSINESS MEN NOW CLOSER TO THEIR BANKERS

Official Points Out Healthier State Of Mutual Relations.

Bankers are able to give their business customers more helpful service now than in the past because the banker has been taken more completely into the confidence of business men, according to A. D. Robb, vice president of The Colonial Trust Company.

"Modern business conditions have brought about many important changes in business customs," Mr. Robb said.

"A few years ago the heads of large business concerns guarded jealously the important and intimate details of their businesses. This has changed and executives of large businesses now keep constantly in close touch with their banker and gladly furnish him with facts about every vital part of the businesses.

"As a result the modern banker is in closer touch with his clients than ever before and is able to give them information and suggestions which are of real value.

"The banker is human and is liable to err, but if he has information that may help you solve your problems or avoid trouble in the future, why not take advantage of his help, especially since he has a friendly interest in your success?"

MUST PREDICT NEED FOR COIN

It is a little-known fact that the Government must anticipate the public's needs for currency much the same as the public need for foodstuffs and clothing must be anticipated by the retail merchant from whom you buy.

The Government must decide in advance how much new coinage must be provided to meet demand and then produce it at the right time to meet that demand. The needs of the Christmas season must be anticipated, the probable needs for payrolls in the various cities and towns of the country must be guessed in advance and sufficient currency and coins provided to meet the call for change.

The magnitude of this job is best shown by the report on coinage production by the bureau of the mint in a recent month when $1,982,410 in silver and minor coins was struck. The silver coinage included 310,000 half dollars, 2,232,000 quarter dollars and 6,940,000 dimes. Minor coins produced during the month included 8,663,000 nickels and 14,226,000 pennies.

It is interesting to note that in this particular month no gold coins were made and none of the unpopular "cartwheels" or dollars, which are almost entirely replaced by paper money.

Small Regular Deposits Quickly Mount To Large Totals.

Fifteen dollars and fifty cents a month, deposited regularly at The Colonial Trust Company, with 4 per cent interest compounded semi-annually will reach $1,000 in five years.

Of the total, approximately 10 per cent is the amount of interest which The Colonial will have added to your savings.

Send for the booklet "How Much Do You Want" which tells you exactly how much you can save in almost any given period by deposits of from $1 a week, upward.

Vice President

C. F. NIEMANN

Mr. Niemann, president of the Parkersburg Iron and Steel Company, has been appointed to a vice presidency of the Colonial Trust Company.

Mr. Niemann has had wide experience in banking, in addition to his 26 years of activity in the steel business. He is president of the Fifth Avenue Bank, and was for many years a director of the former Citizens Savings Bank. He has been one of the most active members of the board of The Colonial.

Mr. Niemann also is vice president of the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company and a director of the Sewickley Gas Company, the New Cumberland Water and Gas Company and the Globe Insurance Company of America.

Words, Not Figures, Govern Check's Worth

If you make out a check and the amount you write in words differs from the one you write in figures, the law has held that the words govern the check and this is the amount a bank pays.

Federal Reserve Officer Tells Encouraging Facts

The Federal Reserve Bank, is a financial barometer for the district that records fluctuations in business, industry, finance and employment.

P. A. Brown, assistant cashier of the local Federal Reserve Bank, says that, judging from the volume of business in the Reserve Bank—

(1) No recent reduction has been noted in the total of payrolls in the Pittsburgh district.

(2) The amount of money in circulation has increased slightly.

(3) While it is not marked as yet there is some improvement in the industrial situation.

The Colonial's Radio Talks Used by Pupils In Crafton School Thrift Campaign

The Colonial Trust Company's radio talks over KDKA played a part in the thrift campaign which was recently staged by pupils of the Second ward school, Crafton.

Quotations from The Colonial's talks on the necessity for regular savings and the establishment of a definite goal were used as part of the publicity program which the young people carried on to create interest in savings through deposits of regular amounts each week at the school.

Deposits Doubled.

The school's campaign was conducted over a period of four weeks. Two of the boys, Jerome Wolff and Harry Lane, were the speaker's committee, going from room to room to tell of the value of savings. There was a poster and slogan contest and a thrift play which combined entertainment with a forceful little story of the need for consistent savings. A prize poster was awarded to the fourth grade room for being the first to report all of its pupils as depositors. A bulletin board recorded the progress of the campaign. A thrift program closed the activity when the play was presented and certificates were awarded to all pupils who had made regular deposits each week during the past year and who had withdrawn none of their funds.

As a result of the campaign the number of youthful depositors increased from 178 to 306 and the total amount of deposits nearly doubled. Instead of 49 per cent as before, 82 per cent of all pupils are now depositors.

Too-High Goal Dangerous.

It happened that a radio address delivered by Arthur H. Wilharm, assistant treasurer of The Colonial, during the period of a thrift campaign dealt with savings and the youthful campaigners made good use of the facts and figures he presented. Mr. Wilharm urged his radio audience to place saving on a systematic basis and he warned also against the pitfall of trying to save too much at first. Too high a goal, he said, means danger of becoming discouraged and finally neglecting to save anything.

Mr. Wilharm also stressed the importance of picking some regular day upon which to make deposits and the value of banking by mail as a convenience that will help people to save systematically.

Cost of Making Money Reduced One-Third

After a year-and-a-half of trial, the small-size paper money has proved that it can reduce the money-making cost to the Government of more than one-third.

The Government also has announced that counterfeiting has been considerably reduced by the new money. This has been accomplished by concentrating upon the use of one portrait for each denomination, which makes it much easier to detect the slightest change in a bill.

Standing: Albert Westcott, Jerome Wolff, a thrift speaker; John Jeffreys, Elizabeth Richards and Gordon Zern, thrift play actors; Harry Lane, thrift speaker, and James Edward Rush.

In the lower picture are James Edward Rush, who received the poster award for the Fourth grade which was the first room to report all its pupils as depositors, and Albert Westcott, who designed the poster.

Bank Department Heads To Give 3-Minute Talks

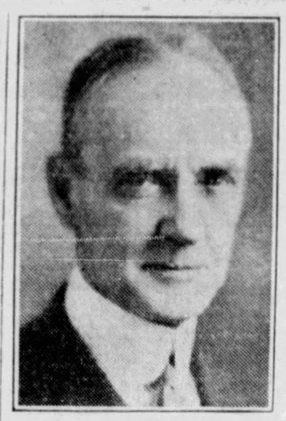
To Be Part of The Colonial's Radio Programs.

A new policy for the radio talks of The Colonial Trust Company over KDKA was announced in a recent address over the air by J. C. Chaplin, president of The Colonial.

Many of The Colonial's radio talks in the past have been delivered by a special representative of the company, but from now on the talks are to be made by various executive officers of the bank, each of whom will explain briefly the manner in which his department can help the general public.

Talks have already been made for The Colonial by Mr. Chaplin, A. D. Robb, vice president; John W. Chalfant, vice president in charge of trusts; Kenneth Buffington, trust officer; John W. Beatty, assistant to the vice president in charge of trusts; Robert Munroe, III, assistant trust officer, and Arthur H. Wilharm, assistant treasurer.

Others who will speak are: C. A. McClintock, assistant to the president; George A. Young, treasurer; H. C. Bell, manager of the bond department; W. C. Short, real estate officer, and others.



J. C. CHAPLIN,
President, The Colonial Trust

These talks are limited to three minutes and are part of the program which is broadcast each Friday evening at 7:15, on KDKA. The Colonial also has a regular weekly broadcast on Monday mornings at 11:45, especially for women

CHANCES OF IRISH FOR TITLE HELPED

NOTRE DAME'S 14-to-0 triumph over Northwestern in the feature event of last Saturday's football card meant more than the winning of that particular game, though that in itself was one of the greatest achievements placed to the credit of any team this season. It meant also an effect upon the Army and Southern California contests yet to be played by the Irish with the mythical national championship at stake on the outcome. For it served to assure the South Benders, if they needed any such assurance, that they can get along without Joe Savoldi. That averts a threatened loss of confidence or a shaking of morale, and improves Notre Dame's chances accordingly against both the Soldiers and the Trojans.

Marchmont Schwartz

That they could lose the services of the country's greatest fullback and yet be able to overthrow so powerful a combination as the Purple, co-champions of the Western Conference, with the Evanston stars playing a remarkable game, was the year's most convincing evidence of the extraordinary strength of the Irish as a team. Even without Savoldi, the brilliant Marchmont Schwartz and his mates still look like the mightiest machine of the season—and of many other seasons.

THE FINE COMEBACK staged by Carnegie Tech in a 32-to-13 victory over Temple, coupled with Wash-Jeff's 7-to-6 success against West Virginia, add greatly to the attractiveness of the big charity game between the Skibos and the Presidents at the Stadium next Saturday. Consecutive wins over Bucknell and the Mountaineers make W. & J. shape up as a worthy foe, and with the Scots again clicking at their best the local finale takes on much new appeal as a card deserving of liberal patronage in itself, even aside from the great cause it is to serve.

The Dukes made it a complete day of success for the district by taking a brace after two straight defeats and downing West Virginia Wesleyan, 12 to 7. The Bluff boys did just what they had to do in order to win, stopping Cliff Battles except on one occasion on which he got away for a 73-yard run for a touchdown after catching a kick. If they can add a victory over Providence on Thursday morning the Laydenites, who have been playing the greater part of the fall in a crippled condition, will be able to close up shop for the year with another creditable record, in spite of three defeats.

WHETHER FREDDIE LINDSTROM is traded by the Giants or not, one thing apparently certain is that he will not be at third base for the New York club when the next baseball season begins. It is considered pretty definite now that if Lindstrom is retained he will be shifted to the outfield.

Eddie Marshall

In connection with the resulting vacancy at third base, those close to Manager McGraw say he is not depending entirely upon Johnny Vergez, the Coast League recruit. McGraw, it is said, still has loads of confidence in Eddie Marshall, tried at second base and shortstop last season, and will give him a chance at the third sack if Vergez does not make good. Marshall was a bust at second base, but fielded well at shortstop, and though tipped as a light hitter, he finished with the satisfying average of .309 for 78 games.

IN WINNING THE I. C. 4-A. cross-country championship again, Penn State captured its fourth title in five years, all under the direction of Coach Nate J. Cartmell. The current season's victory was perhaps the most sweeping ever registered in the history of the race. The score of 29 points was almost low enough to have won a dual meet, yet representatives of more than 20 colleges were competing and 16 team scores figured in the final rating. The Lions sent runners home in second, third, fifth, ninth and fifteenth places. Michigan, with its idividual champion, being out of the team scoring, Penn State was moved up a peg to have its total figured as 29 instead of 34. Two years ago the Lions set what was considered an unusually low total for the race with 45 points. Now they have outdone themselves in that respect with a record that appears certain to stand for some time.

IN 1927, WHEN the members of the present senior class on the Penn State team were freshmen, they won first place among freshman teams with a score of 31 points, which was regarded as a record that would not soon be equaled. Evidently they improved with age. Though it was essentially a team victory, with so many Mt. Nittany runners coming home near the front of the pack, individual honors went to a home product, Dick Detwiler.

He was the first Lion to finish, landing in second place. He comes from a small town in the mountains near State College, and acquired much of his ability in cross-country running while loping around in the hills and mountains near his home. He was graduated from State College High School and was individual champion in the freshman race of 1927.

INCREASED BOXING PATRONAGE at Motor Square Garden this season is in line with conditions reported from other parts of the fistic map. Questionnaires sent to 46 fight centers by a boxing publication brought the information that in only five cities had November receipts fallen below those of October.

Billy Petrolle

The 41 others reported increases of from $2,500 to $6,000 in average receipts for November as compared to the figures for the preceding month. At Madison Square Garden in New York the first two November shows this year drew $56,000 more than the first two in November of 1929 and $54,000 more than the first two last month.

FEW FIGHTERS OTHER than Jimmy McLarnin himself have beaten as many ring champions without coming into personal possession of a title as has Billy Petrolle, who gave the fistic dopesters another dizzy spell last Friday by handing a lacing to the so-called uncrowned welterweight king. The Fargo puncher gave Sammy Mandell a pasting in a non-title affair when Sammy was boss of the lightweights, just a few months ago; he beat Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight ruler and now the occupant of the lightweight throne, and he is the only fighter in the business who holds a knockout victory over Jack Kid Berg, the present junior welterweight scepter bearer.

SUCH FOREIGN CHAMPIONS as Stan Loayza, of Chile; Armando Scheckels, of Belgium; Hilario Martinez, of Spain, and Jimmy Borde, of France, also have been knocked off in decisive style by Petrolle. If winning a title were only a matter of beating champions, Billy would have been wearing a crown long ago.

Yet, in spite of all his achievements, he has never succeeded in getting a chance at a crown, unless his victory over McLarnin enables to get another crack at Canzoneri while the latter is wearing the lightweight mantle. McLarnin has been even more fortunate in that respect, as he has won eight times over men who then or later held world championships, but he could never grab a crown himself. And now he has been given one more backset that will compel him to start all over again to qualify for a title match.

NEW METHODS OF instruction for basketball coaches are illustrated in a set of 74 colored lantern slides prepared by Everett S. Dean, floor mentor at Indiana University. By form pictures, charts and explanations, the slides vizualize plays and fundamentals. The Amateur bouts at Carrick Eagles Club.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Aside from bouts slated at Motor Square Garden, Washington, Pa., Johnstown, Aliquippa and Smethport, not to mention an amateur card at the Carrick Eagles Club, there is nothing on tap for the boxing fans of Western Pennsylvania tonight, and it appears that they will have to worry along with concentrating on the Maxie Rosenbloom-Patsy Perrone non-title battle at Canton, O.

Buck McTiernan

Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, and Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, are the headliners at the Garden. It's a swell-looking match on paper, with McTiernan, a youngster with class and a wallop in either fist, gambling against the experience and straight, solid hitting of a veteran who never has been beaten in his many starts in these parts.

TEST FOR McTIERNAN

Another victory here will mean little or nothing to Baker, who long ago passed his peak, but still is a colorful and dangerous foeman, worthy of the steel of any man in his class, while a win will mean much for the ambitious McTiernan, who has managed to remain around the top as a home-town attraction despite a couple of off-color decisions that deprived him of victories in recent bouts against Joe Dundee, the former welterweight champion, and Bucky Lawless. In between, he has taken the measure of two other veterans, Farmer Joe Cooper and Clyde Hull, in no uncertain fashion. The Dundee bout was called a draw.

It's just another fight for Baker, while McTiernan has been training for tonight's shindy as if his entire career depended upon the outcome.

CHAMBERS BOXES WILSON

Georgie Chambers, of the East End, and Jack Wilson, of the North Side, middleweights who crave a crack at McTiernan, are paired for the eight-round semi-final, with Jack Tracey, local Negro, and Bob McCaffrey, of Youngstown, in a return bout in the second event, Tracey having knocked out McCaffrey in their first start, in the same ring, while Marty Gornick, of McKeesport, and Mike Tischko, of Braddock, are in the opener.

Two eight-round bouts, with Billy Holt, of Homewood, and Tommy Ward, of the South Side, and Bobby Belford, of Rochester, Pa., and Eddie Guba, of Clairton, boxing the double windup, top off the show at Aliquippa, which will be staged in the Rialto Theater and will mark the debut of Ray Eberle, the announcer, as a promoter on his own. Ray has had some experience as a matchmaker, but this is the first time

Four Unbeaten, Untied Major Grid Teams

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Two previously unbeaten and untied college football teams lost their standings Saturday and today there are only four representative elevens with no defeat or draw.

Western Maryland, the east's lone unbeaten and untied team, was held to a 7-to-7 draw by Albright.

Northwestern was beaten 14-0 by Notre Dame, leaving the Irish as the only unbeaten and untied team in the mid-west. The other unbeaten and untied teams did not risk their records Saturday.

The four teams with neither defeat nor tie are: Notre Dame, Alabama, Utah and Washington State.

DINNER SLATED AT FIELD CLUB

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Members of the Pittsburgh Field Club will gather about the festive board this evening for their annual Schlachtfest and Gross Lustigue Nacht, which begins at 6 o'clock, and is to be featured by plentiful helpings of sauerkraut, pigs knuckles, et cetera, spare ribs, sausage, frankfurters, and so forth, with a special delicacy, a deer killed by Ben Prack, in the wilds of Canada, as an added attraction.

Before the Schlachtfest begins, Field Club members will compete at golf in the afternoon. John W. Carr, secretary-treasurer of the Aspinwall club, is in charge of the affair.

RYDER CUP PLAYERS NAMED

COLUMBUS, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen, of Detroit; Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, Mex.; Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, of New York, and Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., have been chosen for the Ryder Cup team of American golf professionals who will play the British next year, while 14 other stars will play 72 holes to qualify for the three remaining places.

George Sargent, veteran pro at the Scioto Country Club here, scene of the international matches next June, made the announcement at the authority of A. R. Gates, head of the Professional Golfers Association.

Golfers who will attempt to qualify for the last three places on the eight-men team will be Al Espinosa, of Chicago; Ed Hilgendorf and Al Watrous, Detroit; Ed Dudley, Philadelphia; John Golden, Billy Burke, Joe Turnesa, Bill Klein and Whiffy Cox, of New York; Olin Dutra, San Francisco; Henry Cuici, of Bridgeport, Conn.; Craig Wood, of Newark, N. J.; Frank Walsh, Wisconsin, and Denny Shute, of Columbus.

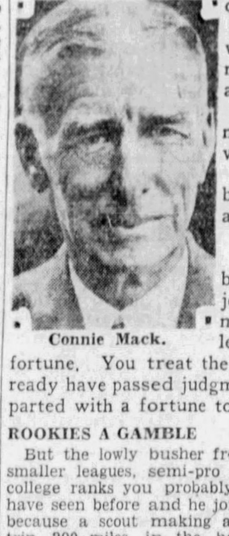
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Mexico defeated the Eighth Corps Area polo team of the United States Army, 6 to 2, yesterday to win the series here with two straight victories. The Mexican team, composed of both Army and Civilian players, had won the first game, Friday.

MY FIFTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

By CONNIE MACK,
Manager, World Champion Philadelphia Athletics

INSTALLMENT NO. 67.

Every spring a long procession of rookies passes before the eyes of a major league manager at his training camp. The majority of them never see the city whose name is emblazoned on the uniform they wear.



Connie Mack.

It's difficult to put in words just what that indefinite something is that makes you single out one or two players and take to them.

Perhaps it's the swing, the style, the manners, the personality of a rookie that wins and makes you say to yourself:

"Now that fellow is the type I have been searching for and I must give him a thorough trial."

In the end he may not make good.

I am speaking now of the unalloyed busher, who pops out of obscurity to join you, and not of a player who has made a big reputation in a Class AA league and whose purchase cost you a fortune. You treat the later case differently because you already have passed judgment on him or else you would not have parted with a fortune to acquire him.

ROOKIES A GAMBLE

But the lowly busher from the smaller leagues, semi-pro lots or college ranks you probably never have seen before and he joins you because a scout making a dusty trip 200 miles in the heart of Texas saw him in action and thought he was worthy of a trial.

The club bought him on the scout's recommendation and here he is.

It's all a gamble. Often on a spring training trip there are two newcomers, one whose release cost $1,000 and another who set back the owners $50,000, and frequently it's the $1,000 man who makes good.

In my career I have developed players into stars who cost no more than a railroad ticket, yet I also have paid fabulous sums for players and never regretted the cost.

Grove, Earnshaw, Boley and Cochrane cost me huge sums, but every dollar was well spent. Foxx cost me the price of a Ford and had I paid $100,000 for him he would have been a bargain.

CAMP "CRASHERS"

One obstacle to a youth's rise is that on joining a club he wants to show the manager all he can do on the first day. They do their best work in the first three days and invariably stand out, for the regulars are holding themselves back and training gradually. They have been through the mill before.

The result is that the rookie has reached the peak early and then he generally slides back for the remainder of the stay, while the regular is getting better all

Primrose B took over Houston, 3-2; Heidelberg Juniors copped from Mollenauer, 6-3; and Victory Hill and Vestaburg played to a scoreless tie.

Julian, Albright Coach, Resigns

READING, Pa., Nov. 24.—(AP.) Alvin Julian, coach of football at Albright College, resigned before the Lions' 7 to 7 tie with Western Maryland Saturday. The resignation will be accepted, Dr. Warren F. Teel, president of the college, said. Julian gave no reasons for his resignation. He said he had received offers from no other college.

THREE GAMES REMAIN FOR LOCAL TEAMS

By JESS CARVER.

The sun is shining brightly today on peaceful St. Joseph Valley, out Indiana way. I care not if it be raining, snowing, sleeting, or if there be a tornado raging there, you can bet the sun is out, figuratively, at least.

George Kavel

St. Joseph Valley is the home valley of a great triumvirate. There loom the stately battlements of Notre Dame, and there reside Knute Rockne and Marchmount Schwartz. This great pair crashed through Saturday for its eighth consecutive football triumph of the season and, by doing so, prepared St. Joseph Valley for the reception of the 1930 national football championship, mythical though it may be deemed.

Notre Dame's bitterly-fought triumph over Northwestern was the big shot of Saturday's gridiron card. The Irish had to reverse the usual order of Irish procedure and, instead of getting the jump on the Purple, was forced to hack and batter away at Northwestern's defenses to whack out a 14-0 win in the final period. The Irish got a real test, for they were on the defensive for the greater part of three periods, but, as usual, had the stuff to finish out in front.

BENEFIT FRAY HERE

Locally, we are only generally concerned with the doings of the Irish. Rockne's Schwartz-led machine rolled over both Pitt and Tech early in its eight-game march, and if Notre Dame goes on through to beat Army (which it is certain to do) and Southern California (which it is almost certain to accomplish), it will be O. K. The boys deserve the honors of the year.

Pittsburgh has three more football games to watch, one of them being the most important of the year. Naturally, the Duke-Providence College game Thanksgiving Day morn and the annual Pitt-State battle in the afternoon are due their share of interest, but the big charity game in the Stadium Saturday between Carnegie Tech and Wash-Jeff is the one that is most deserving of Pittsburgh's attention. It is to be a benefit game for the unemployed, and the entire city, official and private, is behind the affair.

The stage for the contest was well set by the principals themselves Saturday. For a time, the contest looked like just another ball game, for neither Tech or Wash-Jeff, apparently, was headed for anywhere but the rocks. During the past two weeks, however, the boys have done complete right-about-faces, and with Carnegie crushing powerful Temple in Philadelphia Saturday and Wash-Jeff hanging up its second 7-6 triumph over a major and important foe, Saturday's game takes on the appearance of being a real struggle.

RECORDS IMPROVE

For that matter, it would be a real ball game whether either club had won another game all season or not, but victory Saturday will dress up the respective records to such an extent that the elevens will be primed as they haven't been primed all fall.

Carnegie's win over Temple was clean cut and decisive, outstanding in the victory was the splendid play of George Kavel, the hard driving right halfback. Kavel is to Tech what Schwartz is to Notre Dame. He's always been a threat on the attack, but Saturday, he shone with equal, if not surpassing brilliance, on the defensive.

Wash-Jeff has shown splendid recuperative powers in its wins over Wash-Jeff and Bucknell, and has been especially impressive on the defense.

Upsets or one sort or the other dotted Saturday's program throughout the nation. Aside from Wash-Jeff win over the Mountaineers, battles in the tri-state area went true to form. The Dukes bottled up Cliff Battles on all save one occasion here and beat West Virginia Wesleyan 12 to 7. Battles turned in the most spectacular run of the day when he raced back 73 yards with a punt for a touchdown.

GENEVA CHAMPION

Howard Harpster's Geneva College Covenanters climaxed a very successful season by annexing the minor college title of the district. The Covenanters got the jump on Allegheny and lasted to win by 27 to 13.

Westminster pushed two touchdowns over to beat Bethany 14 to 0 in a Tri-State Conference tussle at Bethany. Davis-Elkins ran wild over Waynesburg, lacing the Wolfpack, 54 to 0. St. Bonaventure nosed out St. Vincent, 13 to 7, and St. Thomas won over Rider College, 7 to 0. Indiana State Teachers were one touchdown better than Shippensburg.

There were half a dozen major upsets throughout the country. New Hampshire provided the big one in the East by beating Brown,

The West Penn League, Pittsburgh's premier amateur circuit and one of the strongest basketball loops operating in this section of the state, swings into action for the first time this season tonight, when Joe Goetz takes his Ray E. Schneiders to the South Side Falcon Hall to oppose Harry Lawrence's Falcon machine in the inaugural battle.

Both clubs have been working hard for the opening game, and as the contestants are eager to get off on the right foot, followers of the teams are looking for a hard-fought battle tonight.

The Schneiders, one of the favorites to win the championship, will send a veteran lineup against the Falcons. The North Side roster includes such well-known local basketball stars as Montgomery, Emerick, Rodgers, Clark and several other former college performers. Against this array of talent Harry Lawrence will send a galaxy of South Side passers, such as the Kubiak brothers, Switala, the Lawrence brothers and Wolinski, all seasoned performers.

The Falcons should prove more popular than ever as a basketball attraction this season inasmuch as they have one of the few courts on the South Side. The South Side Market House no longer is available for the popular winter indoor sport, and as a result, several prominent clubs have been forced to abandon the sport.

Judging from all indications the West Penn League should enjoy its best season this winter. The loop is composed of eight evenly balanced quintets, any one of which is capable of carrying off the title. Besides the Falcons and Schneiders, the league includes among its franchise holders, St. Michael's, North Side Buicks, Community House, Y. M. H. A., Knickerbockers and Penn Five.

Floor Notes

The Young Men's Hebrew Association regularly is becoming one of the leading centers in Western Pennsylvania in the development of fine basketball teams. Games are played there every Thursday night, and later crowds are being treated to some fine exhibitions. Two former Coffey Club stars, Buck Gefsky and Dave Mervis, are coaching the varsity and reserves, respectively, with considerable success. The varsity team will make its season's debut in the West Penn League Thursday night when The North Side Community House passers are the attraction.

The W. U. Hoyles and the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House passers are hard at work for their battle in the I. K. S. gym next Friday night. These two clubs are composed of veteran passers, and they seldom fail to play a brilliant contest when opposed to each other. It was the I. K. S. that eliminated the Hoyles in the A. A. U. tournament last winter, and the Hoyles are eager to even that score Friday night.

St. Michael's of Oakland, opens its season tonight by smashing the Braddock Polish Falcons at Braddock.

Faith Chapel's quint will be host to the Trinity Cathedral Royals in a Pittsburgh Senior Church League game tomorrow night. The teams are tied for the league lead. In the other loop contest this week, First Presbyterian plays Mt. Troy.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

SPEAKING OF BASKETBALL, the floor game is about to get off to its annual start. The West Penn and Allegheny County amateur leagues open tonight and Wednesday night, and the Pitt team will begin the collegiate campaign on the Stadium court two weeks from tonight with Western Reserve as an opponent. The Panthers will then depart on their annual jaunt through the Middle West, but this time Dr. H. C. Carlson's charges will not meet Big Ten schools exclusively, as has been their custom. Ohio State will be the only Western Conference member faced, the other foemen scheduled on the trip being Marquette, Creighton and Nebraska. A series here will follow, in which Pitt will meet Dartmouth, Syracuse, Indiana and Purdue in the order named. The loss of Charley Hyatt, Les Cohen and Paul Zehfuss left Coach Carlson with a big job on his hands, but that clever mentor has surmounted huge obstacles before, and in spite of the present severe handicap, Pitt men are confident that he will come through with another winning team.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Football uniforms go back in the moth bags in the Western Conference today. The season is ended, but memory lingers on. Northwestern and Michigan are the joint champions, each with five successive victories. Purdue, the 1929 titleholder, finished third, with Wisconsin fourth and Ohio State fifth.

Minnesota and Indiana tied for sixth, with Illinois seventh, and Chicago and Iowa, without a victory in Big Ten competition, landed at the bottom of the heap.

CONNIE MACK'S LIFE STORY

the time, and by the final week, the reporters have forgotten the first name of the rookie who won the headlines in the first three days when I call them in and tell them I am sending him to Raleigh.

Training camp crashers are no longer welcome even if they come at their own expense. Those words, "own expense," often reveal a pathetic state of affairs.

The trusting youth gets hold of a few dollars, travels in a day coach to the training camp and then imagines he can find a place in Florida where he can get three meals and a room for a dollar a day.

ADVICE TO YOUTHS

At one time we took pity on the training camp crasher and gave him a uniform and let him stay, but the privilege was so abused that we had to stop it entirely, and now we politely but firmly inform them that they cannot practice with us.

The reason for this is that we have so many rookies, all of them passed by our scouts or at least highly recommended by former players who know, that we have our hands full looking them over and there is no room for any outsiders on the field, which is congested enough with 35 to 40 men on it.

My heart always goes out to the "crasher," but we had to draw a sharp line on him to protect our own interests.

I have scores of letters every month from ambitious youths who either want a trial with the Athletics or else ask for recommendation to a minor league club.

I always answer the latter correspondents that I never recommend a player I have not seen.

ADVANCE GRADUALLY

My advice to immature players who aim for the majors is not to try to advance too quickly. I tell them to be the best players on their own teams and outshine their opponents before thinking of advancing.

It takes the heart out of a youth and often ruins him for good when he seeks to become a major league king before he is ready for even Class A in the minors.

Before pulling the wires for advancement, young players should learn to play better than anybody else in their set.

Then they will attract attention and cause talk. Inevitably will come a chance to advance.

That's always the best way. Move toward the majors on your own merits. There's no royal way to make the grade.

Members of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club will be entertained by Bob Waddell, Carnegie Tech's football coach, and Max Hannum, sports publicity director, at the weekly luncheon of the club in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow noon.

Twenty-two members of the Tech team will make up two elevens, which will go through a series of formations, showing offensive plays and defensive formations. The teams will be directed by Waddell.

Following this, Hannum will talk on advertising in connection with a modern institution of learning.

GIZZY AT JOHNSTOWN

Three eight-round bouts feature the show in the Washington (Pa.) Coliseum, with Young Rudy, of Charleroi, and Pete Herman, of Connellsville, in the main event. Larry Kaufman, of Louisville, and Mickey Conroy, of Cleveland, box the semi-final, and Ross Fields, of Weirton, W. Va., and Jackie Powers, of Canonsburg, are in the first eight-rounder.

Battling Gizzy, Donora lightweight, and Young Chiodo, of Johnstown, offer the main bout at Johnstown, while Louie Severo and Mickey Leone are in the windup at Smethport.

Between Rounds

Prince Saunders, of Chicago, will be one of the principals on the Motor Square Garden card two weeks from tonight. He is a featherweight stablemate of Bud Taylor, the veteran bantamweight, who boxes Fidel LaBarba in Madison Square Garden, New York, next Friday night, and comes highly touted. Eddie Long, of Chicago, is his manager.

With the slump in receipts at professional shows, except at the larger clubs, amateur boxing is enjoying its biggest boom. The promoters find they can make a few dollars when they have only trophies and medals to pay for instead of doling out the receipts in purses. Some permanent good may come of the situation, as the amateur scraps are bound to develop some good talent for the paid racket.

Following is the amateur program for this week:

Tomorrow—Benefit show for family of late Skipper Manning at Moose Temple; Etna Elks' building fund benefit show at Etna Elks Club; show under auspices of Capt. F. P. Siviter Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Allentown Turner Hall; show under auspices of Patsy Brannigan and Tommy Phillips (uncle and nephew) at Washington Hall, North Side; amateur bouts at Pittsburgh Lyceum; opening round of tri-state, four counties tournament, to continue through three weeks, at East Liverpool, O.

Skipper Manning, one of the most popular boxers in the Lawrenceville district in his time, died last August from pneumonia, leaving his family in straightened circumstances, and a committee has been named to handle the benefit affair to be held at the Moose Temple tomorrow night.

Eight bouts make up the card at the Lyceum tomorrow night, with Walt Scislawski meeting John Curney, Max Elling opposing Abe Swartzbauer, Tony Constantino battling Joe Cabetto, Joe Malco taking on Mike Sankey and Andy Rauscher tangling with Christy Walshot in the feature events.

Harry Seig, of St. Boniface Lyceum, will box William Zarick, of the Hogan A. C., and Walter Devlin, of the Willow Club, is matched with Larry Snyder, of St. Boniface, in two of the bouts at Washington Hall tomorrow night.

Three Uniontown boxers are representing Pittsburgh in the inter-city bouts in New York. They are Andy Todd, middleweight; Don Asto, lightweight, and George Hollings, heavyweight, all members of the Sands A. C.

Fritzie Zivic, brightest prospect in the local amateur ranks, and a brother of Jack and Pete Zivic, both of whom gained wide fame as professionals, has fought his way through to the final round in the Western Pennsylvania amateur championship belt tournament, which will be concluded in the Palisades arena, McKeesport, Thursday night of next week. Dan Auld, of the North Braddock A. C., will be his opponent for the title honors.

Answer to query—Yes, Kid Zoller, of the North Side, was a boxer more than 15 years ago.

Mickey Cohen, 18-year-old bantamweight, of Cleveland, who recently has beaten Luis Carpentero and knocked out Tony Canzoni, will appear in a bout at Madison Square Garden shortly. He is paired with Ollie Bartlett in one of the battles on the all-star Christmas fund card to be held in Public Hall, Cleveland, December 10. Paul Pirrone boxes Jackie Fields, Fidel LaBarba meets Eddie Shea and Johnny Farr opposes Ray Miller in other numbers on this program.

Frank Novak and Dan Gallagher, heavies, who fought that thriller more than a week ago, will box a return bout at the Moose Temple Friday night. It will be the semi-final. Jackie Wilson, of Homewood, and Bud Maloney, of the North Side, are in the opener. The main bout has not yet been signed.

LAST NIGHT'S SCORES

By CARL W. SHATTO.

When the Yellow Jackets take to the ice against the Windsor Bulldogs in Duquesne Garden tomorrow night, the team will be enhanced by the addition of Albie Cox, late of the Montreal Maroons of the National League, whose purchase has been announced by President Roy D. Schooley of the local club. Cox is slated to play in the goal net.

Albie Cox is by no means new to local hockey fans. He first appeared here as a member of the New Haven club in the former U. S. H. A. circuit, later guarding the net for Boston amateur and professional clubs. Cox also has played at goal for the Windsor sextet, the Jackets' opponents of the morrow.

Schooley also announced that approximately 190 pounds of additional defense strength is expected to arrive here late today in the person of Tubby Moore, also obtained from Montreal. Moore, whose 190 pounds is distributed over a six-foot frame, is a young performer regarded as a comer. Schooley will watch the newcomer in a practice session before he decides whether or not to send him into the lineup tomorrow.

The local club prexy, with the assistance of Mayor Kline, has obtained immigration officials' permission to import 10 more skaters from Canada to Pittsburgh. He plans to put through his rebuilding program as quickly as circumstances will permit.

In their last two starts the Bulldogs have defeated such worthy foemen as Detroit and London. No less than six of their players have been trained by the Montreal Maroons, and two others also have had National League experience. Clint Benedict, their goalie, played with the Maroons here last year, and Herb Mitchell, Windsor manager, is a former Boston Bruin.

One of the visitors who will attract considerable interest is Jack Arbour, brother of Ty Arbour, a former Yellow Jacket and Pirate.

Despite the Bulldogs' impressive lineup and impressive record, the locals anticipate victory. They outplayed Buffalo's league leaders in their last start, and they don't expect the Windsor stalwarts to prove tougher than the Bisons.

The first two games here were witnessed by more than 8,000 fans. Indications are that local ice enthusiasts have confidence in Schooley's ability to produce a winning team.

FESLER AGAIN

In the Middle West, Indiana took away one of those 7 to 6 victories over Purdue. Ohio State, led by Wesley Fesler, who was playing the final game of his collegiate career, beat Illinois 12 to 9 in a game that was supposed to be all even. Iowa was too tough for Nebraska, and the Hawkeyes added the Cornhuskers to Detroit and Penn State, major elevens they've beaten this year.

Wake Forest rather startled the South by holding Duke to a 13-13 deadlock and the Navy beat Maryland when Joe Kirn, flashy Middy back, got away for a long run for a touchdown.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Head Up — Local List Irregular

MARKET AFTER DIP RESUMES UPSWING

Early Losses Regained In Part by Afternoon; Nearly All Groups Hit

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—After having some difficulty in maintaining its foothold during the early hours of trading, the stock market managed rather feebly to resume its climb today.

Losses of 1 to 5 points recorded during the morning were partially regained by early afternoon. Traders showed little interest in either side of the market, however, and prices moved rather uncertainly. Trading was again sluggish.

The morning decline included practically all groups save the coppers, which were virtually neglected.

Bulls were somewhat disappointed in the fresh selling pressure encountered at the high levels of recovery last week, but the belief that there were substantial investment buying orders under the market, and that efforts on the downside would meet with strong opposition, restrained the bears.

The reduction of the Sinclair quarterly dividend from 50 to 25 cents had been expected and had practically no effect upon the markets.

Most of the weekly analyses of the financial advisory services expressed restrained optimism.

News that the plan of forming another $1,000,000,000 bank in Wall Street through combination of four of the smaller institutions, had been completed was regarded as a favorable development. Credit conditions showed little change, with call money going beginning in the outside market at 1 per cent.

BLAW KNOX NET EQUALS 1929

The Blaw Knox Company will report net profits for 1930 equal to or greater than those of 1929, according to officials of the company. Last year net profit was $2,838,735, which was equivalent to $2.17 a share.

Substantial orders are being received from cities in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York and Illinois for road building machinery and steel forms for concrete work.

The stock is on an annual dividend basis of $1.50 so that requirements for the present year will be earned by a comfortable margin.

While reports of a possible consolidation with Truscon Steel have lacked confirmation, it is generally understood that a merger is being given serious consideration.

Amn. Locomotive Forms New Unit

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—William H. Woodin, chairman of American Locomotive Company, states that the company has formed Alco Products, Inc., a new subsidiary, which will carry on a business of engineering, designing and construction of process plants and equipment for the oil refinery industry.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. — Southwestern railroads lost in the United States Supreme Court their appeal seeking to upset the Interstate Commerce Commission order awarding Western Trunk Line Railroads increased divisions of joint rates on traffic handled by these carriers.

Northern Pacific To Rebuild Cars

ST. PAUL, Nov. 24.—Northern Pacific Railway will spend $4,500,000 rebuilding 3,000 freight cars, about 26,000 tons of fabricated steel and forgings, 18,000,000 feet of lumber and 6,000,000 feet of insulating material are to be purchased.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Wheat scored a sharp early advance today, but met with heavy selling that tumbled the market down to below Saturday's finish. Frost reports from Argentina and decreasing complaints about rust damage there were current. On the other hand, the amount of wheat on ocean passage exhibited a big increase. Opening ¼ to 2 cents up, Chicago wheat future deliveries underwent a quick setback later. Corn started ⅝ to 1⅛ cents higher, and subsequently showed material downturns.

ECONOMIC SHIFT IN POWER FROM FARM TO CITY

Depression Brings Problem Of How to Expand Trade Volume in Spite of Slump

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Perhaps the Pulitzer prize for understatement should go to this observation that the business depression has deferred the approach in the United States toward an economic millennium.

Hopes for greater economic equality and social justice ran high as recently as the fall of 1928, when Herbert C. Hoover, while a candidate for the presidency, sounded the note that the ultimate aim of American business was the abolition of poverty.

Mr. Rukeyser

SHIFT OF POWER

Apart from the obvious burdens of great multitudes of unemployed, there has also been an extremely significant, though more subtle, shifting of economic power from farm to city and likewise from more disturbed to less upset industries. These vastly important changes must be detected by looking beneath the statistical fictions of averages and of general statements. For example, more than 120 favored and exceptionally aggressively managed corporations in the first nine months of 1930 reported larger net profits than in the corresponding period of the prosperous year — 1929 — despite the fact that companies in general reported substantial decreases in profits. Six hundred forty companies revealed decreases in earnings in this same period of 24.42 per cent.

The pressure against business prosperity has been measured in the drastic and sustained fall of commodity prices. Even though there has been no unmistakable sign that bottom has at length been reached, it is at least apparent that the rate of decline has been checked.

In spite of the temporary pains of readjustment, price declines are far from an unmixed evil. The social injustices spring from the fact that there are inequities in price readjustments—some groups being relatively harder hit than others.

MILLS COMPARES PRODUCTS

How have different groups in the community fared at the hands of deflation, which has, in my opinion, about run its course?

In spite of the beautiful political promises of farm relief, the distressed farmers have, among the employed classes, suffered most. The inequalities of price adjustments have resulted in a jam, which is the primary condition of the existing depression. Perhaps the jam or deadlock can be relieved through a recovery in agricultural prices, or in a relative decline in the price of manufactured goods going directly to the consumer.

Frederick C. Mills, Columbia University economic statistician, in a survey for the National Bureau of Economic Research, throws new light on this subject which goes to the essence of the ingredients for recovery of prosperity. In indicating in exact terms the extent to which the depression hit country folk and city folk, Mills points out:

"The recession of 1920-21 left manufactured goods over-valued, in terms of earlier standards, and raw material undervalued; it left producers' goods undervalued and consumers' goods overvalued; it left agricultural products with low purchasing power per unit, and non-agricultural products with high purchasing power. The present recession, like that of 1920-21, has materially cheapened agricultural products, raw materials generally (including copper) and producers' goods intended for ultimate human consumption. It has enhanced the real value per unit of non-agricultural products and of manufactured goods.

"It has certainly increased important elements of manufacturing costs, per unit of product. Finally, it has increased the real value, in terms of other commodities, of processed consumers' goods, a group which has been consistently high priced during recent years.

"At present prices gold in shape for consumption and use by individual consumers are worth 11 per cent more, in terms of commodities, than they were in 1913. Among these goods those which are products of manufacture stand 12 per cent above their 1915 purchasing power, and 3.9 per cent above the level of July, 1929. Highest price among these goods are non-foods, which have been particularly insentive the drop in general prices. These stood in September at 23 per cent above their 1913 values and 7.3 per cent above their July 1929 values."

Proration Order Lowered in Texas

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 24.—An order will be issued by the railroad commission fixing maximum allowable oil production of the state at 680,200 barrels daily for 60 days, beginning November 27, on expiration of the proration order making maximum allowable 750,000 barrels daily which went in to effect August 27.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—An inert Curb market found moderately lower levels today. There was little activity anywhere in the list and turnover was one of the smallest in weeks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Forbes

Why Sentiment in High Places Is Brightening.

By B. C. FORBES

LAUGHS being scarce these days perhaps you will enjoy this squib received from a Southern reader:

"Some of our leaders, it seems to me, have been somewhat like a Negro leader here during a run on the banks. The Negroes got the idea that even the postoffice was not a safe place for their savings and they lined up at the window to draw their funds. This Negro leader began explaining to them that the postoffice was perfectly safe and urged them to leave their money alone. However they did not pay any attention to his appeal, so he also fell in line and withdrew his money."

Mr. Forbes.

Latest developments suggest that many are getting over the mental condition that even skeptics are now beginning to recover a little faith.

For example, wheat, corn, oats and rye all closed the week with some gain and so did the New York Stock Market.

THE MOST significant improvement has been sentimental, rather than statistical. Among the larger considerations now weighed are:

Revolutions have subsided throughout Latin America, China is regarded as nearer the end of her civil war, India is not expected to get worse, and alarm over possible large scale "dumping" by Russia has vanished because of fuller information concerning the desperate conditions existing among the Russian people.

Investment buying of stocks has been quietly but impressively increasing during recent weeks. After advancing five consecutive days, average quotations dipped last Monday, but resumed their upward course and more than held their own daily until Saturday, when there was a slight recession. It is now felt that unless powerful bears concertedly launch further terrific attacks and succeed in bringing lower prices than any yet witnessed, the market's course will be at least moderately upward. In addition to widespread odd lot purchasing, choice securities are now being accumulated by very wealthy individuals and institutions.

THE CONTINUANCE of extraordinarily cheap money is counted upon to have the influence it normally has. That is to say, enterprise will be stimulated in many directions, including home building.

The betterment in the textile industry is interpreted as a sign post pointing to early recovery in general conditions.

The demonstrated ability of large copper producers to lift the price materially above the 9½ cents minimum has not lost its effect upon sentiment, notwithstanding that the too high figure of 12 cents has not been maintained. The checking of the declining tendency in steel prices, combined with reports that leading manufacturers are not willing to accept unlimited business for distant delivery at current rates, has also had a beneficial influence in high quarters. The responsible steps now being taken to stabilize sugar at substantially better prices than those ruling not so long ago are making a little progress in modifying overproduction, and there has been a brief respite from price cutting.

Another $50,000,000 reduction in brokers' loans, accompanied by an increase in commercial borrowing, has attracted little newspaper attention, but in the highest financial circles great importance is attached to the fact that brokers' loans are only one-third of the total they reached a year ago—an astounding showing even after taking into account the heavier borrowing on collateral at the banks.

The success attending plans to take care of unemployment has allayed fears formerly harbored. That unemployment hardships and disturbances will be kept within bounds is now the prevailing view.

Although retail trade is still very spotty, more is being heard of depleted stocks and of difficulty in making hurried replenishments due to the light inventories carried by retailers and whol ale manufacturers.

RENEWED EFFORTS to pave the way for eastern railway consolidations are under way, with the cordial approval of President Hoover, and notwithstanding all the differences still to be composed, high finance does not regard a settlement as wholly impossible. The pronounced rise in railway stocks reflects this and the understanding that Washington is now disposed to treat the railroads of the country more considerately.

The arresting of the decline in consumption of electric power in the Eastern states, where business recovery traditionally first sets in, is accepted as an encouraging sign, even though the recovery has not yet gone far enough to warrant very definite deductions.

In high places the talk of a possible request for a moratorium on part of its debt payments by Germany is causing little concern. That sweeping readjustment of internal war debts will come some day is not questioned. But such readjustments are not looked for in the immediate future.

Provisions of Fixed Trusts Improved

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WITH THE CONTINUED growth in the popularity of investment trusts of the fixed type, refinements are being made in the newer issues which are eliminating many of the original objections to this class of security.

The overhead load is being reduced; the portion of the investors' money actually put to work is being increased; more scientific diversification is being obtained; more liberal provisions for the elimination of stocks are being established; and distribution of capital in the form of dividends is being abolished.

Among the newer issues, which represent a long stride in the accomplishment of these improvements, is All-America Investors Corporation. This is a fixed trust, each unit of which contains stocks of 40 companies. Of these 10 are railroads, 12 utilities and 18 industrials. Instead of including the same number of shares of each issue, an attempt has been made to secure more even diversification. The investment in each stock is as nearly equal as possible. In selecting stocks geographical factors as well as industrial conditions have been taken into consideration to improve diversification.

Fractions Retained

MOST OF THE original fixed trusts were of the distributive type. Semi-annual payments to stockholders included the proceeds from the sale of all stock dividends and split-ups along with the cash proceeds of dividends. Naturally these distributions included a large share of invested capital and were subject to some criticism from the standpoint of sound investment principals.

Later issues of the cumulative type retained stock dividends and split-ups in the portfolio provided they resulted in full shares. All fractional shares were still sold by the trustee. It was believed that the accounting difficulties would make it expedient to retain portions of a share.

All-America Investors has found suitable means of handling the accounting problem so that it retains all stock dividends and split-ups and makes distribution of capital in the form of income impossible.

Growth of Equity Increased

WHILE THIS CHANGE at first glance seems of minor importance it actually makes a large difference over a period of years. To determine the effect of the retention of fractions, a study of the portfolio of the 40 stocks was made for the period from January 1, 1920, to December 31, 1929. It was found that total appreciation and distribution for the 10 years amounted to 420.68 per cent if fractions were sold and the proceeds distributed. Through the retention of fractions, the net gain amounted to 474.52 per cent, a gain over the other method of 53.65 per cent or an annual average of 5.36 per cent on the original investment.

The new trust also has improved facilities for eliminating stocks which do not come up to expectations. In most of the original fixed trusts elimination of a stock was compulsory upon the passing of a dividend. A stock could not be sold previous to a break in the dividend so that a sale might only be made after a large loss.

Improved Provision

IN ALL-AMERICA Investors Corporation the stock of a company may be eliminated if it does not maintain earnings or regular dividends up to the average of the preceding five years. That permits the use of some discretion in selling stocks and makes elimination possible before the full extent of damage has been done.

The units contain no guarantee fund. Other provisions provide a small overhead load and insure the fact that a larger share of the investors' money is actually put to work. Against each unit 1,000 shares are issued.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The usual Monday dullness prevailed on bond market today. The domestic section displayed a firm undertone. The inquiry for Liberties continued brisk.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar):

Alice Breaks Engagement After Being Rescued

CHAPTER XVI.

Exclusive Park avenue lies like a lustrous, myriad colored serpent at 9 o'clock at night. Like two huge moving serpents, really, for the steady stream of traffic is moving up and down, back and forth, on either side of the tiny parks that divide the broad thoroughfare.

This dignified and beauteous avenue is flanked on both sides by stately and snobbish apartment houses where people live at yearly rents which would pale a bank president's salary—society folk, gamblers, bootleggers, racketeers, stars and actresses. And in one of these structures lived Silk Freeman.

Before this building, under its illuminated marquee, stood as one of a regiment of uniformed puppets up and down the street, dressed like Slavonic generals—Silk's own doorman, a huge, dark-visaged man who had run the gamut of vice and murder. This grisly Cerberus guarded the portals of Silk's palace.

On the evening that the Big Boy had set as the deadline for final negotiations toward ransoming Alice Schuyder, and a short time before that appointed hour, a smart delivery truck, with the sleek, trim lines of a limousine, stopped directly in front of the service entrance. The doorman, to whom suspicion was second nature, strolled warily toward it, and as a man, garbed in smart uniform, leaped down from the driver's seat.

"Watcha want?" growled the doorman.

Get Into Building

"There ain't no Freeman here," bristled the doorman. "What address you want?"

The other took a slip of paper from his pocket and handed it to the doorman. The latter read it and grunted.

"Must be some mistake," he said.

"I was told to speak to the elevator man—he knows about it—this desk is to be put in tonight, and I was told not to leave here until it was."

The doorman looked hesitatingly at the driver a moment, then turned and walked into the building. Three other cars, just then, slid up to the curb behind the truck, and as the doorman went inside a dozen men leaped out. Six of them followed him in. In a moment one came out.

"Oke!" he bit off sharply. "Dem two blokes won't bother us."

Two others wrenched open the door of the truck and dragged out a new and shiny desk.

The desk was carried into the foyer and pushed onto the elevator. Seven men crowded in behind it. Five more, tough and well-heeled, loitered in the lobby.

Enter Apartment

As the elevator shot up to the third floor Tommy Gillespie looked at Cyclone Tim McClosky, who was beside him and smiled.

"So far so good," he chirped.

The elevator stopped. The desk was carefully, noiselessly carried off. One man was strapping on a pair of goggles, such as an aviator might wear. Another lifted the lid of the desk which came off, and two others drew from its vitals a tank, coils of hose and a long, twin-tubed, spider-like instrument.

Tommy stood back admiring the trained swiftness of the workers. The acetylene torch was soon rigged. Cyclone Tim had been carefully inspecting the steel door which shut out the Big Boy's apartment. With a piece of chalk he drew a circle around the lock and then turned to the be-goggled man.

"Cut 'er out around here," he ordered. The torch spat and sputtered.

"Don't watch that—it'll blind you," grunted Cyclone Tim and he took Tommy by the arm and led him down the hall. Behind him Tommy could hear the fire bite and sizzle into the metal. Cyclone Tim was fitting on his murderous brass knucks.

"Take dis—but don't use it unless you have to," and Cyclone Tim pressed into his hand the cold metal of a pistol. Tommy stuffed it in his outer coat pocket.

"Oke!" came a voice, and Tommy turned to see the huge steel door swing open. It had been a matter of seconds to nim. Cyclone Tim rushed in first, with Tommy close at his heels. They faced three men—two toughs on either side of old Pete, the ex-convict—and in whose hands were five gats. The guns spat fire and lead. Tommy felt something touch his leg but he sprang forward upon one of the two bigger fellows and they fell to the floor in a mad tussle.

Tommy had the man by the wrist of his gun hand and they rolled over on the soft, carpeted floor, breaking chair legs and overturning tables. The tough was cursing and putting all his strength in an effort to free his right hand from the vise of Tommy's mighty left.

Suddenly, before he knew what had happened, the man twisted his body and sent Tommy spinning. He lost his grip on the other's wrist and as he fell he saw the man take aim. But just then there was a terrific crack as a chair crashed on the gunman's skull, and as he fell Cyclone Tim sent his huge foot into his face.

"Come on, let's get out o' here!" growled Cyclone Tim, lifting Tommy to his feet. Tommy saw, amid the wreckage of the drawing room two other unconscious figures, sprawled out on the rug.

"But Alice—where's Alice?" he questioned, looking around anxiously.

"She's downstairs—in de car—come—lam, kid."

One of Cyclone's men was writhing on the floor. Tim picked him up and slung him over his shoulder. The elevator stopped at the handsome lobby. A cordon of gangsters, who had been herding in a corner all those with innocent business in the building who had come in during the affair, escorted the three to the curb.

The Cyclone turned his wounded over to two of the boys, who carried him into one of the other cars. Tim led Tommy to the one where Alice crouched in the rear seat, a hoodlum with a big black gun beside her.

Breaks Engagement

Tommy tumbled in at Alice's side. McClosky swung himself in beside the driver. The car lunged quickly ahead, turning sharply at the first corner, just as a police emergency squad car drew up to Freeman's house. Someone, hearing shots, had 'phoned in a riot call.

"Alice—are you all right?" Tommy asked leaning toward her and grasping her cold, white hand.

"Yes I am—now," she answered with a haughty toss of hed head. Tommy looked at her in wonder. In the flickering light he saw only her cameo-like profile as she stared straight ahead.

"And this is the way you act—the way you treat me when I risk my life to free you—Alice, I can't understand you, I can't—"

"Tom," her voice was ice, "I think you forget that my life was in danger—for you. You and your tough ungodly friends. You can keep that sort of friends and that sort of associates—you belong better among them. I don't want to get into any of your dirty messes. It may sound cruel, but, remember, I had long hours in that hideous place to think about these things. I have decided to break our engagement."

"You mean it, Alice? You mean that our engagement is off! Alice, I can never tell you how glad I am that this—this has happened."

DAILY TRUE STORY -:- -:- Good-Bye Forever

Luke Semple stopped at the corner stationery store, set down his carpenter's kit, bought a city paper that came in on the milk train, got some cigarets and paused to light one.

Luke was tall, rather good looking and single.

More than that, he prided himself on being single. He had three older brothers, living in nearby towns, all married. They were so much married, in fact, that Luke made his boast that he wasn't going to acquire a "ball and chain"—Oh, Luke knew a lot of slang—and thereby say "good-bye forever" to freedom.

"Where are you bound for, Luke?" Pudge Westley asked him.

"Up to th' Widder Throckman's, eh? Well—" Pudge considered himself to be a clever actor as well as the village cut-up, and for the benefit of several others hanging about, he drew forth a large blue handkerchief and pretended to weep in it. Then he thrust out his hand.

"Well," he repeated, after this bit of histrionics, "good-bye forever, Luke."

"Don't be so dumb," Luke growled.

"Who's dumb?" Pudge turned to Will Oglive and Henry Tuttle. "He says I'm dumb, and he, a poor, lone, unsophisticated soul, is going up to the Widow Throckman's to work around there day after day for a week or so—alone and unprotected!"

The boys laughed.

Luke scowled at Pudge.

"Don't be a dumb fool. I'm up there to build her a garage and that's all."

"You best build it about the way you'd like a garage for your-self, Luke," Pudge warned him solemnly, "because you'll go up there to live after you marry her."

"Marry her? Me marry her or anybody else? Be your age, Westley!"

Begins Work

Luke shouldered his carpenter's kit and marched off amid the laughter of the boys.

The Widow Throckman's home was at the upper end of the town. It was rather large and handsome place with spacious grounds. Luke assumed a stern, business-like expression as he turned into the yard.

The cement foundation had already been put in and the lumber delivered. Luke took off his coat and vest, tossed them under an apple tree, stepped into his overalls and proceeded to measure for mortising the sills without once glacing toward the house.

The Widow Throckman came out.

The late Mr. Throckman had passed on a year and two weeks ago. Mrs. Throckman had been out of mourning exactly two weeks. She wore a green print dress. It made her red hair look rather nice, smoothed down. Her cheeks were pink and her hazel eyes were bright.

"Good morning, Mr. Semple."

"Mornin', ma'am," Luke said, gruffly.

Mrs. Throckman picked up Luke's coat and vest, folded them neatly and hung them on a limb of the apple tree. Luke pretended not to notice this.

"I feel I was fortunate to get such a capable man as you to build my garage," she cooed at him.

"I build 'em to stay built," he replied, sitting down with chisel and mallet to cut out a tenon.

Mrs. Throckman sat down on the sill beside him.

Mrs. Throckman chatted a while and went in.

At noon he took some sandwiches out of a paper bag and sat under the apple tree.

The Widow Throckman came out with a big cup of coffee and a slab of apple pie.

"You take these, Luke. You've been working too hard to live on cold sandwiches and I don't think that Mrs. Fuller, who runs that boarding house where you live, is much of a cook."

Dines With Widow

The second day at noon Mrs. Throckman came out to Luke.

"Don't set on the ground there, Luke, it's damp, you might get cold. Imagine you being sick in that awful boarding house! Come up on the back stoop and eat."

On the back stoop was a small table, white with napery, bright with silver, cheerful with yellow and green dishes.

"Now it's just a little snack, Luke, but I thought you'd take pot luck with me—"

She dished out some candied sweet potatoes and half of a crispy-broiled chicken. She poured his coffee and put cream in it and asked him how much sugar he wanted. Then she sat down and ate with him.

"It was just a little snack, Luke," she said. "Living alone and lonesome the way I do, I don't have no heart to take pains. I hope you made out to get enough to hold you together until you get to the boarding house for dinner."

Luke groaned.

"Them dinners is awful—and my gosh, Mrs. Throckman—"

"Oh, now Luke, why be formal? Townspeople like this? Call me Cora."

"Ahem," said Luke. "I was goin' to say, if this was a snack what must your dinners be?"

"Well, of course, Mr. Throckman was awful old and couldn't eat much, and being alone I haven't the heart to cook up much. I get so lonesome I cry sometimes. If I was to have someone to feed I'd get dinners that are dinners—like baked hams and steaks and onions and shoulders of pork stuffed with sauerkraut and—"

"Oh, lordy lord—imagine that," Luke said.

Come Saturday Luke had enjoyed four wonderful "snacks" like that. He told Mrs. Throckman he wouldn't knock off at noon on Saturday, because she was in a hurry for the garage.

"That's what I call a sensible man, Luke. And say, instead of them eternal beans that you have every Saturday night at your boarding house, why not have dinner with me? If folks want to talk, let 'em talk. I hope we're grown up and sensible."

Luke had dinner. The pork shoulder stuffed with sauerkraut and applesauce and baked potatoes, to say nothing of peach shortcake.

By the middle of the next week the big garage was nearly finished. Luke sat on the ridgepole, putting on the last of the shingles, shingle nails protruding from each side of his mouth until he looked like a pensive catfish.

Mrs. Throckman came up the ladder and looked at him.

"What color would you paint it, Luke?"

"To match your house, Cora."

"I trust so much to your judgment, Luke. I come to tell you you've just time to wash before luncheon. You throw them dry boarding house sandwiches over to my hens—and I hope they don't choke on 'em. I got a little snack ready for us."

Luke sat down to the "little snack." It consisted of boiled mealy potatoes, slices of baked and succulent ham all dotted with cloves, and a delectable thing she called "floating island."

Wonderful Idea

"How do you do it, Cora?" Luke asked.

She held a light for his cigarette and blushed.

"This is nothing, Luke. If I didn't live alone, if I had someone to cook for like you, who would appreciate it, I'd show you some cooking. Say, Luke, what car do you like best?"

He named the make.

"I will get one of those cars. But I don't know what good it will do me. I'd be afraid to drive. How'd you like to drive my car for me, Luke?"

"Sure."

"Oh, dear—people will talk about me, being a widow and all and having you around all the time. Luke, dear, what had we ought to do?"

"Why, Cora—er—gosh, I don't know."

"Why—why, Luke—I've just thought of a wonderful idea—we'll get married and then people can't talk!"

"Er—why—" Luke thought of the boiled slice of clove-dotted ham and the floating island desert. "Why—why Cora, that's a swell idea."

The night they were married Pudge Westley and the rest of the band boys went up to the house to serenade them.

The first thing the band played was "Good-Bye Forever!"

IS YOUR FATHER HOME? ANOTHER THING I HEARD IS THAT HE WAS SEEN THIS MORNING TROTTING AROUND TOWN WITH THAT NO-GOOD OAKDALE THEY LOOKED, AS CLARA SMITH SWEETLY TOLD ME, AS BUSY AS TWO POLITICIANS ON ELECTION DAY
I BLAME HARTFORD OAKDALE FOR THIS MESS.
AND I BLAME YOUR FATHER. HE'S THE ONE WHO, BY LOOKING SO POP-EYED WHEN HE HEARD THAT SIMPLY SILLY STORY, GAVE OAKDALE THE IMPRESSION THAT ANYBODY WOULD BELIEVE IT. OH I JUST CAN'T WAIT UNTIL YOUR FATHER GETS HOME HA, WHAT A SURPRISE HIS LORDSHIP WILL GET!
AND I'M GOING TO TELL HARTFORD OAKDALE JUST WHAT I THINK OF HIM, TOO. WHAT'S HIS PHONE NUMBER... LET ME THINK...

Chain grocery magnate announces he will sell magazines to housewives, along with bridge tables and canned goods.

We will refrain, however, from making any obvious remarks about "food for thought."

However, it is difficult to refrain from mentioning that many magazine authors can and will supply housewives with a pretty good substitute for spinach.

Just to keep up with grocers and cigar stores selling books and magazines, public libraries might win back their old public by establishing speakeasies in a truer sense of the word.

She'll compromise—and buy both.

Men Who Made Good In the Country

We have hysterically arranged for a series of dynamic pep talks to cheer the depressed, prod the laggard and revive the spirits of the weak-in-heart. Our first talk comes straight from the shoulder of Hippolyte X. Hippolytus, millionaire traction, telephone, gas, hot and cold water magnate, who will now say a few words—

Now see here, what is all this I hear about this here, now, hard times? There is no such thing as hard times. It is all in your mind. Everybody knows that business would be O. K. if everybody spent more money. Is that sound? No, it is not just sound. It is a fact. The only trouble is, people are cowards and afraid to spend their money. But thank Heaven we have courageous big business men like myself who are willing to fix things up in a big way. Take myself, for instance. I have consented to let various state rate-fixing commissions increase street car, gas and telephone rates in my corporations. This will force people to spend more money and we will thus have good times before you know it."

Pittsburgh's Delegates at St. Louis Meeting Should Also Attend Flood Control Conference.

Pittsburgh is represented at the meeting of the Mississippi Valley Association in St. Louis today by an imposing delegation of business men, sent by the Chamber of Commerce to argue for the construction of a canal to connect the Ohio River with Lake Erie.

The proposed canal would be of immense benefit to a large part of the United States. It is just the sort of public work that should be undertaken by the federal government at this time as part of the program to stimulate industrial activity.

Another meeting, no less important, and also dealing with waterway problems, is to be held in Chicago for three days beginning January 12. It is the meeting which Mayor Thompson has called to urge the cutting of the strings attached to the $340,000,000 federal appropriation for flood control in the Mississippi basin. The Chamber of Commerce should send an imposing delegation to the Chicago conference, also.

Pittsburgh needs flood control as much as it needs the Lake Erie and Ohio River canal. We have been clamoring for storage reservoirs at the headwaters of our rivers ever since the disastrous flood of 1907. And by an interesting coincidence the construction of the reservoirs was pointed out by William Hard, noted writer on economic subjects, years ago, as just the sort of project that could be carried on in time of depression with widespread advantage to the industries.

The Hoover administration apparently requires prodding to engage in this work. The Chicago conference will call for action, and Pittsburgh should join in the call.

Trick Tags for All

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Suggests Autoists Be Required to Pay Extra for Special Plates.

Commissioner Eynon, of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, reports that a dozen extra clerks have had to be employed to take care of the thousands of requests for special automobile license plates for 1931—plates bearing the initials of the applicants, or the same number they previously had, or some other number that has special significance for them.

He does not say, however, that the very low numbers so much in demand are being issued to any who ask for them. They are probably still being reserved for public officials and influential politicians—a bad practice, because the effect is to impress traffic policemen with the idea that the owners of low-numbered cars are persons of importance.

The Sun-Telegraph remarked last year, and reiterates, that it is unfair and un-American to discriminate between citizens in this way.

It is kind of the bureau to honor, with the exceptions noted, the requests for trick tags, though it is questionable if the people of Pennsylvania should have to pay for a dozen extra clerks to take care of the business.

Commissioner Eynon suggests that people applying for certain tags should be required to pay $10 in addition to the regular license fee.

It is not a bad idea.

Christmas Is Coming

There Are Some Kinds of Shopping That Should Be Attended to Now.

Christmas is just about a month away. The Pittsburgh postoffice calls attention to the proximity of the holiday in a bulletin showing the latest dates on which gifts may be mailed in time to reach foreign countries. For some of the distant parts of the world—Australia, South Africa and Syria, for example—the last date has already passed.

This is a reminder of the importance of attending to some kinds of Christmas shopping without further delay.

Some very desirable gifts cannot be purchased offhand. A week or two may be required for their preparation. Photographs, for instance, or engraved stationery.

There are advantages in shopping now. The merchants' stocks of Christmas goods are fresh, and there is greater variety from which to choose than there will be a few weeks hence.

Shopping can be done in greater comfort now. The holiday crowds can be avoided.

There is satisfaction in getting Christmas shopping out of the way early. It helps the merchants, too.

Government Should Lead

Keeping Taxes Down Will Quicken Confidence and Hasten Return of Prosperity.

Congress should spare no effort at the short session to balance the budget without increasing taxes.

It is essential that the one per cent reduction in the federal income tax now in effect should be continued, if that revival in business is to be encouraged which alone can end unemployment.

Faced with the certainty of a Treasury deficit and with the desirability of expediting and expanding its program of public works, Congress may well slow up the pace at which it has been retiring the war debt of this country.

Existing law commits the Treasury to retire $400,000,000 of outstanding debt in the current fiscal year and about $415,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1 of next year.

Only $65,000,000 of debt has been retired this year because the government has been unable to buy its own securities below par.

By authorizing the Treasury to suspend the sinking fund for the remainder of the present fiscal year, it is estimated that $330,000,000 will be available for other purposes.

This would take care of the deficit. And if this is not also sufficient to continue in effect the one per cent reduction in taxes, Congress ought to find the way to do that by making whatever cut in expenditures is necessary.

Calvin Coolidge is not much given to prophecy. But he showed the courage to follow where the facts lead when he said the other day:

"The raw materials are at hand for an era of unprecedented prosperity. They only wait for the people to come forward to utilize them."

This the people will do when they can be confident of the stability of the present level of prices of raw materials.

Increasing taxation will disturb that stability and discourage confidence.

Keeping taxes down will help to stabilize prices, quicken confidence and hasten the return of prosperity.

Sock Him!

Fill the Christmas stocking up
And land a hefty sock
On howlers of calamity
And all that dismal flock.

Have very little chance
Against the Christmas spirit's rush
And Santa Claus' advance.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Get Your Men Together

Mr. Einstein is as full of theories as an Army mattress is of lumps.

He has three theories all cooked up. And another coming to a slow boil.

His relativity pazuzzle took the world by the ears and spun them around the dial anti-clockwise.

When we stopped to regain our mathematical breath the professor reversed his elastic theory and froze our mental brakebands.

The trouble with his theories is that they explain something that ain't in 'em.

Yet, in his everyday lectures, the professor is as harmless as a W. C. T. U. punch recipe. He spoons his soup away from him and buttons his vest mathematically correct.

He's a human bink. And he is only human when he wonders when civilization started. He would be even more human if he wondered when it stopped.

Nobody knows when civilization started. We haven't had any clues in the last 20 years.

Some people think it was in Asia. Some in the caves of the North. We are certain it was not in Cicero, Ill.

Einstein has been decorated for his theories, honored for his theories and banqueted for his theories. Yet, only 10 men in the world understand them and they can't stand the strain much longer.

If instead of deciphering the start of civilization it would be much better if Einstein can tell us what happened to it.

It's not a question of when the egg was laid. We want to know who cracked it.

No less a distinguished authority on civilization, our old trenchmate, Gen. Ludendorff, tells us that we will again be fighting a world war in 1932.

That must be the reason they want us to junk our Navy. So we can all start even.

If Gen. Ludendorff is correct, then we can enlighten the professor a slight edge.

We don't know when civilization started. But we do know it ain't a habit.

MAKERS OF UNIVERSES

By Archibald Henderson

The science of today is peculiarly characterized by the quality of generalization. Modern mathematics is largely given over to arriving at results more general, more complete and inclusive than ever before. Theorems are studied and analyzed, with the result that they are found to be too narrow in their scope. Postulates, axioms, assumptions are made, upon the basis of which a more complex and loftier structure can be erected. Klein, Newcomb, Cayley, Labachewsky, Bolyai concerned themselves with creating new systems of geometry. Dedekind, Weierstrass built up new systems of number. Dickson devotes himself to creating new algebras which have not been known before.

Much the same thing is going on in the world of physics. Langmuir, Bohr, Rutherford, Heisenburg, De Broglie, Dirac are formulating new structures of the atom. Marconi, De Forest, Alexandersohn, Hammond are making a new world of wireless, radio transmission, television. Langley, the Wright Brothers, Fokker, Dornier and many others are creating a new universe, as it were, by inventing the machines to chart and traverse it. Weyl, De Sitter, Eddington, Silberstein, Lemaitre are creating new finite universes, whether in static equilibrium or in a state of gradual expansion, according to the data and the hypotheses advanced. Nature, in all its grandeur and immensity, remains ever the same. It is only man who constantly changes, remaking the universe in accordance with the mind's dictates or the heart's desires.

Recently, the clever Irishman, Bernard Shaw, delivered a speech in London, in which he singled out from the entire range of history eight men whom he termed makers of universes. It is an interesting circumstance that Shaw, a dramatist and a philosopher, but with no aptitude for science, should have chosen only scientists as makers of universes. He might have cited Homer, Dante, Shakespeare, Goethe, Molier, Balzac. For each created a rich, new and various world out of his own imagination. But Shaw had in mind men who are makers of universes in the special sense that they gave to the world a new interpretation of the physical universe in its entirety. The men whom Shaw designated as makers of universes were chosen throughout a period of time of approximately 2,500 years. The names are: Pythagoras, Ptolemy, Kepler, Copernicus, Aristotle, Galileo, Newton and Einstein. Even amongst those eight men, said Shaw, I must make a distinction. I have called them makers of the universe, but some of them were only repairers. Only three of them made universes. Newton made a universe which lasted for 300 years. Einstein has made a universe, which I suppose you want me to say will never stop, but I don't know how long it will last.

Shaw made quite clear the distinction already mentioned, in connection with his own special choice. On the one side are those who deal with the human elements in man himself, with particular reference to his spiritual nature. On the other side are those who deal with the material universe, entirely aside from social relations and moral implications. The first type of thinkers deal, as Shaw expresses it, with religion, in its broadest connotation. The second type deals with science. Neither is ever wholly right. Mind, as well as matter, is in a state of progressive evolution. Both are striving for the truth; and each new advance registers an advance in knowledge of the material universe and understanding of our physical and spiritual selves.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

You can cure that bad habit as soon as you wish—BUT THE WISH MUST BE MORE THAN SKIN DEEP.

It isn't enough to say—"I'll cure myself of bad temper—or lying—or flirting—or gambling—or self pity—or drinking—I'll cut out doing these things." It isn't enough to say that. You can't cure a habit that way. You must go deeper. You must find and face the thing in you THAT MAKES THE HABIT. You must stop not only doing the thing but WANTING to do it.

Habits are not meaningless growths that fix themselves upon our characters, like warts. There is a reason for them. They are an expression of some definite need or tangle in our natures. Sometimes it is a physical tangle. In that case, take yourself and your habit to the doctor. But oftener the tangle is in your spirit—

Take drinking, for example. There's Bill Smith. A great fellow but a souse. Time and again Bill has tried to stop drinking. Has actually cut it all out for months. But no use. He always goes back to it. Why? Because, while Bill has tried to stop drinking, HE HAS NEVER TRIED TO STOP THE THING THAT MAKES HIM WANT TO DRINK.

What makes people drink? According to the old-fashioned temperance ballyhoo, people drank because of the insidious effect of liquor fumes. If you really wanted to play safe you had to hold your nose every time you passed a saloon. Or maybe grandpa hung it on you by his indulgence. In which case, you never could tell, from one minute to the next, when the awful appetite would grip you.

This theory was thrilling and made gorgeous sermons, but it was quite untrue. It isn't a mysterious something in alcohol that makes a man drink—IT'S A TRAGIC SOMETHING IN HIMSELF. Bill Smith drinks, not to get something, but to GET AWAY FROM SOMETHING. Perhaps it's weariness or worry, boredom or grief, or some secret sense of shame or inferiority. Whatever it is, Bill wants to shake it for a while—wants to ESCAPE. And drink is Bill's ESCAPE from the thing that's nagging in him.

All our bad habits are escapes from something that's nagging us. It's no use to try and cure the bad habit, itself. We must cure the thing that lies behind that habit—the fear or pain or weakness that is making us seek that habit as an escape.

Don't say, "I'll cure myself of being a grouch by being a Pollyanna—by smiling instead of frowning." That will get you nowhere. You must cure the loneliness or conceit or hate or discouragement that makes you WANT to frown and snarl.

And how can these things be cured? First, by WANTING to cure them—by getting ourselves so fed up on them and their consequences that we're ready for something better. And second, BY TRYING SOMETHING BETTER — SUBSTITUING SOME NEW, HEALTHY INTEREST FOR THE OLD, UNHEALTHY URGE.

Is your life being warped because you hate someone? Then love someone. Are you becoming a gambler because you're restless? Then pick some new adventure for yourself that will use that restlessness constructively, instead of destructively. Are you drinking because you're ashamed and discouraged and sick of life? Then tackle some new job that will build up your respect and enthusiasm.

That's the way to cure a bad habit, and the only way. You can cure ANY bad habit as soon as you wish—but the wish must be more than skin deep. It must go down into the secret places of your heart—into the roots of your action.

Isn't It So?

Some people are pleasantly unhappy.

The man who makes trouble never makes friends.

Text For Today

The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.—John, x: 10.

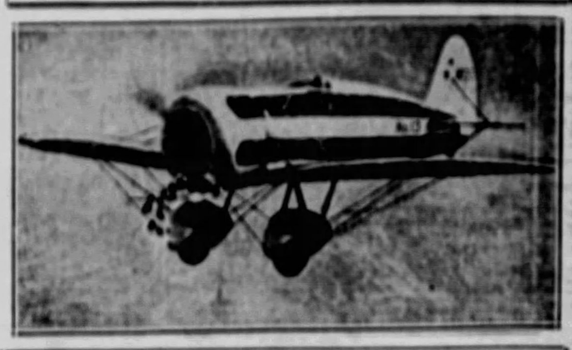
The Speed Champion

Queer Looking, but It Goes.



CAPT. FRANK HAWKS, CHAMPION AMERICAN AIR PILOT OF TODAY, IN HIS PLANE THAT BREAKS RECORDS.

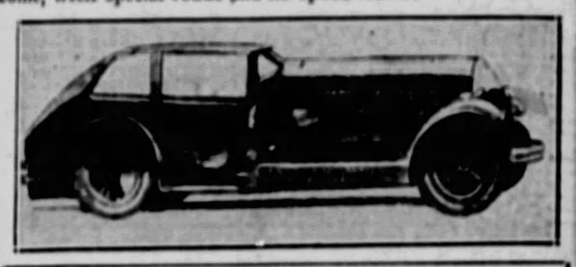
In this machine Capt. Frank Hawks, American champion speed flier, goes over 200 miles per hour.

It is a queer looking vehicle, but it MAKES and BREAKS records, thanks to its engine, and, above all, thanks to the engine at work in the brain of Capt. Hawks.

Who would have thought, a few years ago, that a man would actually fly in a machine like this from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean in 12 hours?

Who can tell what the high speed ships of the future will be like?

And, for that matter, who can tell what automobiles, also capable of 200 miles an hour already, will be like in years to come, with special roads and no speed limits?



A NEW AUTOMOBILE TYPE

Here is a sample of the latest automobile, with more engine than body. It is built in England, where they make their automobiles by hand, slowly, and can try all kinds of new things.

They have one excellent idea in this automobile, of great power and speed, and that is a ROOF OF GLASS, that will not shatter, all the rest of the glass being of the same kind.

The ordinary closed car shuts in the driver and passengers and shuts OUT the beauty of sky and clouds.

In this new type of car you look up through the glass roof at the clouds by day or the stars at night, and the sun can shine down on you.

Our grandchildren will go in their automobiles from 200 to 300 miles an hour along roads unobstructed, with no speed limit, at least 500 feet wide.

In the air they will go 500 miles an hour and faster.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early to my desk to do my chore and Carter Pannill, whose name strikes me as splendid for a southern colonel in a war play, called and among other things told of a neighbor in Venezuela who is father of 54 children.

She appeared in one of the fashionable grills on a crowded night last week—a flaming red haired gasp of loveliness. She might have been a dainty rite from a story book in a light blue green gown the color of her eyes. She danced but once and neither smoked nor shared a potion from her escort's silver flask. Certainly she was the cynosure of all eyes. I happened to be at the exit while her escort was hunting his car. A starter sidled up to her and said half aloud: "Hello, Kitty, playing the swells tonight?" She gave him a sly but warning glance and was soon bowling away. I am still wondering!

Another night in the old black and white room of uptown Bustanoby's I sat next table to a party of six. A gentleman arose to dance and left a bejeweled gold cigaret case on the table. It so happened my eyes fell upon one of the ladies when she put the case into an evening bag. I presumed, of course, it was a gesture of protection. But when the gentleman missed the case and a hunt was begun the lady helped in the search, murmuring sympathy. Many times I have seen her since, and once she was among guests at a respectable dinner party I attended. Again I wonder if she is a kleptomaniac or just plain thief!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may have been reared in a good home, had the benefit of excellent home training and educational advantages that make you well prepared for life's undertakings.

But you do not allow yourself to accept on an equal basis those who have been less favored, although they may have reached high places by their own efforts.

You are not liberal enough, not fair enough to give them credit for having a desire to pull themselves up beyond the handicap they once had to carry.

It was a still greater achievement to go further than mere desire and actually overcome almost insurmountable obstacles, hinderances you have never had in your career.

What would be your condition today if you had not been fortunate enough to receive assistance at every corner?

Have you the stamina to carry you over the rough places these less fortunate persons have negotiated?

Would you today be the cultured person you are, if it were not for the self-sacrificing, intelligent backing of your parents.
